THE history of the inhabitants of the whole of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland is, and always has been from the earliest times, so intimately connected, that it is impossible to study the progress of any one portion without that of the rest ; but still the details of the great events and leading historical catastrophes of several of the grander sections of the Empire are so diffuse and extensive that they are well classed and studied in separate divisions of the same whole.

In accordance with this principle, the correspondence in this Department relative to the Viceregal Government of Ireland, has ever been preserved in a separate series. It consists of original despatches from the Lord Lieutenant, the Council, the Vice-Treasurer and Treasurer at Wars, the Archbishops and Bishops, the chief nobility and the military commanders in Ireland, to the Sovereign, the Privy Council, the Secretary of State, the Lord Treasurer, and other leading noblemen of the government in England. These despatches are frequently accompanied by copies of letters sent from the English captains and governors of forts and districts, noblemen, native Irish chieftains, and mayors and corporations of towns to the Lord Lieutenant, or his deputy, or other official personage in Ireland. In addition to these there are the drafts and minutes of the answers sent to these despatches, estimates of money wanted, memoranda made by the Secretary of State in England ; books of establishments for Ireland, containing the names and fees of all the captains, judges, and civil officers ; the memoranda and notes of instructions of persons sent from the government in Ireland to solicit for money, soldiers, and armour; and the petitions of individuals who had suffered for their loyalty to the Crown, or who had been deposed from their offices on the reduction of expenditure after the suppression of rebellions, or who had been deprived of their offices by new governors, to make room for their own confidential employés; together with books on the state of Ireland, presented by old servitors either in attendance on the court, or prosecuting private suits; and projects for the amelioration of the country by planting English colonies, or establishing fisheries; all which, having been delivered into the hands of different members of the Government for the time being, were carefully preserved, and finally deposited in the office for keeping Papers and Records concerning matters of State and Council.

To these there have recently been added some valuable Irish documents,* selected from the papers of State, which were once in the possession of Sir Nicholas Throckmorton, and which were committed by his son Arthur to the disposal of Sir Henry Wotton, who left them by will to King Charles I., "to be preserved in his paper office," but which did not come into the possession of the Crown till August 1857, when a portion of them was restored to their proper place of custody, by the late Right Honourable John Wilson Croker, only two days before his death. To this valuable bequest was added a large mass of State Papers of the like nature and subsequent date, which had belonged to Sir Edward Conway, afterwards Baron Conway and Viscount Killultagh, Secretary of State to James I. and Charles I.

* One of these papers is calendared at page 36, No. 15, another at page 184, No. 6. It is curious that at p. 184, No. 5, is Shane O'Neill's original submission signed and sealed, and that No. 6, this Conway, or rather Throckmorton paper, is a contemporary copy of it, enriched with the names of the foreign ambassadors and courtiers who were present on the interesting occasion.

These documents, having been arranged and dated, have now been amalgamated in one chronological series, a work which has not been effected without continuous labour, but which amply repays the toil by the abundance and riches of the history which it has concentrated.

Here are collected letters from all the great men of the reigns of the Tudors and Stuarts, forming an unbroken and contemporary narrative of every incident of those stirring and anxious epochs.

Mr. Lemon and Mr. Bruce have fully stated in the prefaces to the Calendars of Domestic Papers, respectively edited by them, the plan and object of these publications, but a few words may here be more especially addressed to the student of Irish History.

The power of the English in Ireland had so much decreased in Henry VII.'s time, that the old Irish system of government in clans, or separate small nations, had revived, and was in full force throughout the greater part of the land. Of this government and its workings we have the best and most ample accounts in these papers. The wars of Henry VIII., Mary, and Elizabeth reveal the whole strength and weakness of the system, and show how the superior combination of the English, supported by continual supplies of men and money from home, prevailed over the craft and daring of the native chiefs and favourite generalissimos. This is a subject, too, which will be found of considerable value in the study of Universal History, for the position of Ireland was so remote from the earlier seats of civilization that the rude way of living, described by Hesiod and the old poets, still lingered there till the period embraced by this Calendar. Indeed, most of the wild Irish led a nomade life, tending cattle, sowing little corn, and rarely building houses, but sheltered alike from heat and cold, and moist and dry, by the Irish cloak.

As an illustration of these primitive manners, it may be observed that Thomas Smith was the only apothecary* in Ireland in Queen Elizabeth's time; nor was the unit of progress followed up by any rapid improvement.

In 1564 Shane O'Neill set forth all kinds of husbandry and sowing of wheat,† yet as late as 1791‡ there was but one flour mill in all Ulster.§ We are also forcibly reminded of the customs of the Gauls and Britons, when we read that the rebel has reaped the corn, and hid it in woods and caves,|| an operation which, however rude, was extensively practised, and the disadvantages to those who did not adopt it were frequently very great, for the corn in the English yards was burned by the O'Reillys.¶ The Tudors, however, supported the more civilized English settlers by the strong arm of their power. The fame of the warriors they employed has reached down, through many succeeding turmoils, to the present day, and the names of the Earl of Sussex, Sir Walter Raleigh, Sir George Carew, Sir Humfrey Gylberte, Sir Henry Wallop, Sir Henry Sydney, Colonel Edward Randolfe, and Sir Geo. Stanley are but a few of the host of prowess which they despatched to make the rebel feel their power; and abundant indeed is the evidence that they did make it felt. The nature of the destruction wrought by them may be gathered from such expressions as these:—
 “A man may ryde southe, west, and northe XX or XL “myles, and see neither house, corne, ne cattell.” “Many “hundreth of men, wymen, and children are dedde of “famyne.”** While in the reduction of the O'Conors and O'Mores, in 1564, only 90 of the O'Conors and 35 of the O'Mores were slain and executed.††

Severe, too, were the sufferings which the natives inflicted on each other. Thus, the Calough O'Donnell being witness, 500 competent persons, besides above 4,000 poor, have perished through Shane O'Neill's spoils.* This Calough O'Donnell was a witness who himself was not over nice in such matters; there had been sharp war between him and his father, and his father, too, had banished his father, after long fighting, and wasting "all the hole countrey of Tyrconnell."† Thus again, Sydney desires to know whether the Queen will choose to bring the people of Ulster to the just rule of English law, which is easy, or to banish them quite, and unpeople the soil, which would be chargeable;‡ and Eleanor, Countess of Desmond, writes, on the 11th of January 1568,§ that the country is in such disorder that few can trust a father, a son, or a brother. The consequence of such insecurity was the building of towers and multiplication of castles; thus the Earl of Ormond writes to the Lord Deputy Sydney on the 4th of June 1570,|| that he had notes of 123 castles in Thomond alone. And doubtless there were many to whom the just rule of English law would prove irksome. According to Dean Danyell, the Prior Magennis was the worst of these, not only for wilful murders, but for many other ungracious doings.¶

Among the number of the many ills concomitant with the primeval state we find enumerated here the baneful ingredient pride.

"The pride of the wilde Ierishe, by the late modestie "and lenitie used with Shane Oneye," increased in 1564;** and in 1566†† Shane's pride, joined with his tyranny, is intolerable. This was Irish pride, and there are divers specimens of it ; but we also have instances of other pride in the jostlings at the Council Board between the Archbishops of Dublin and Armagh, which lasted through the whole reign, the origin of which is explained at page 118, No. 63, where it appears that G. Dowdall was deprived of the primacy.

More agreeable, however, will it be to contemplate the valour displayed by Captain William Loggan,* in his defence of the King's ship the "Murderer," "which was a Scoteship in tyme past," and was unfortunately on this occasion "takene be Fransmene here uppon the Kingis cooste, and "be the havene muth of His Majestie's toune of Kynsale;" but "the said Wyllame manly fowght ayenst the said "Franshmene where was no mor with hym that stand, as "we are informed, sav X men;" and "after his purser and "part of his men was kylle" the "said Wyllame fowght "style manly and worshipfully, and soo kylle certayn of "the said Franshmen; and soo at the last ayenst they said "Franshmen is wylles the said Wyllame Logane hath, "and soo many as stod with hym, lep out in on of the "shipis bott, and soo sav his lyff."

This correspondence also reveals the deep interest which Queen Elizabeth ever took in the government of Ireland.

In 1564† Lord Robert Dudley (Leicester) and Cecill wrote to the Lord Justice Arnold, that the Queen has hastened to return from her progress for the consideration of the Irish affairs.

Again, in 1566,‡ Cecill writes to Sydney that Her Majesty is very greatly heated and provoked to the extirpation of Shane O'Neill. Further, in 1568,§ Cecill writes, "I fyndyng the Queen's Majesty earnestly bent to have

“ Mr. Stuckly removed from his office, and that she allowed
 “ not to appoynt N. Whyte in commission in Munster, did “ move hir that he might have Stucklyes office, which hir “ Majesty redely assented unto.” But in this letter Cecill is very earnest with Sydney on the subject of keeping up the correspondence, and writes “ My good Lord, I can not but “ lett you know with what greef of mynd I have long ex“ pected to receave some letter from yourself. . . . yet
 “ such as love you, must nedes be carefull to here what you

 “ to heare of yow, nor to receave from yow in a tyme that “ my care and love of yow is by profession augmented, truly “ maketh me both angry and sorry with the mischance.”
 And again, Nov. 5,* Cecill writes to Sydney “ I did lately “ hearyng any thyng sence that tyme my greeff increaseth, “ and I have some trooble to answer hir Majesty with “ satisfaction for the lyke luck.”

If Her Majesty were careful of Ireland, Ireland was enough to make her careful. The sums of money paid for Ireland by the Royal Lady show the value at which she prized her Emerald Isle. Auditor Jenyson writes on the 6th of November† that the Treasurer Fytzwylliams’s account amounts to nearly 400,000*l.* Irish. After this Cecill’s troubles fell thicker upon him than ever, and on the 2nd of February‡ following, he writes to Sydney,—“ I “ trust to help yow to the 1,200*l.* although I have had some “ sharp words [from the Queen] to myself uppon occasion

 "and I am lyke a slave putt to the drugery to carry out all
 "disgracees." But there were occasions on which Her Majesty was compelled to listen to the discussion of unpleasant subjects; the following is a graphic sketch of a passage in Cecill's official life:—"I* cam to the Court to "St. Albon's on Satyrdaye, being so provoqued (called) by "the Queen's Majesty, for that hir affayres did dayly grow
 "great, and in dede I fynd a great harvest of busyness, and "to be executed aforehand than in the sight of perrills;

 "but as long as I have served the Queen's Majesty,
 "Epimetheus hath had more to doo than Prometheus."
 The subject of the Queen's marriage also is often alluded to. In 1571, December 3,† the Earl of Ormond addressed to Burghley a very significant prophesy which shows his ability in the appreciation of character and the calculation of events, "I wish all good success to her Majesty's marriage, but I believe the weather will be extreme cold afore she be content to accept a bedfellow." However, to return to the affairs of Ireland; there is in 1573* a paper containing fifteen items of doubts moved by the Queen's Majesty whereof Her Majesty many times requireth to be resolved by Her Council, and notwithstanding sundry answers made thereto, yet Her Majesty is still desirous to be advertised thereof by the Earl of Essex. One item includes, What will be the charge to keep Claneboy, if Tyrone and Tyrconnell remain out of obedience? With like personal anxiety the Queen does not† allow of Sir Warham Seintleger as President of Munster, as he is not likely to be so indifferent in the cases of the two Earls of Desmond and Ormond as were meet; and in this purpose she steadfastly remains, for on the 11th‡ June she again writes to Sydney "We did in deed dislike to see you so addicted to the favor of the Earl of Desmond as to place Seintleger the President of that [Munster] Council, whose inward professed friendship towards the Earl of Desmond was notorious." Her Majesty liked an undisguised relation of difficult subjects and complained if the style of the despatches addressed to her were mystical and dark.§

It is instructive likewise to trace the Queen's care to have religion preached in the Irish language; thus we find her recommending Robert Daly to be preferred to the Bishoprick of Kildare, "the rather because he is well able to preach in the Irish tongue, and is well commended for his good name."||

* P. 535, No. 36.

† P. 324, No. 8.

‡ P. 335, No. 10.

§ P. 495, No. 28.

|| P. 234, No. 49.

It was usual at that period to favour Irish preaching. In 1551, November 11, we have the Lord Deputy Croft recommending to King Edward VI. the schoolmaster who conveyed away the young Gerald Fitzgerald to be made Archbishop of Cashel, because he was the "best able to preach in the English and Irish tongue." In 1573,* Mr. Browne was recommended for the Bishoprick of Down, as being discreet and learned in the Irish language.

In 1567, the Queen became rather anxious about the Irish Testament; and we have a remembrance, "Item,† wheare Her Majestie hathe paid 66*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* to the Bushoppes there for the making of carecters for the testament in irishe, that oneles they do presently‡ put the same in print, Her Majestie may be repaid."

Of the language then current in different parts of the island we have a good show of examples. In 1567, March 20, there is a philological curiosity; it is a letter from Shane O'Neill to Cormac O'Connor, being in Scotland. It has an English translation, and also an independent Scottish translation, so that, like the Rosetta stone, this letter gives the same document in the three chief languages of the Empire.

But, to digress from Queen Elizabeth and her Kingdom of Ireland to her relations and friends, we have a gentle hint of the necessity of Sir Francis Knollys, who had married the first cousin of Queen Elizabeth. Here are his own words, showing how "12 chargeable chyldren dyd lie uppon his hande," and that "necessetie made him playe the unshamefaste cowrtear."§ Cecill, too, deserves another word. In the midst of all his diplomacy he kept his eye on the individual subject with a jealous care, and numerous are the evidences of his love to trace out the ramifications of family relationship whenever he could find an opportunity. In Vol. X., No. 28, we have a letter from Terence Danyell to Cecill, in which he promises that he “ woll draw owt of Irish “ cronecles, the kynrede and alliaunce of the moost part of

 “ the irishemen of Irland, and theyr pettiegrees, to be sent “ unto yow.” In these Irish papers, also, we often read about Cecill’s want of health. In June* 1566, Sydney is heartily glad to hear of Cecill’s recovery; in Oct. 1566† Cecill writes that he is tossed in a sea of envy, malice, disdain, and suspicion. Again, in 1568,‡ Fytzwylliams writes, “ Your “ estate as yt was here reported was veary harde and dan“ gerous, in which yf yt had pleased God to have cawled
 “ you hence, your self shoulde therby have wone eternale “ ease with perfytt reste, but what quietnes and reste your “ naturall cuntrye shoulde by that your blyssed gayne
 “ have wone, every honeste godly wyse man seethe.” On the 5th of November 1568,§ the Lord of Leicester was in Cecill’s house at dice and merry, where he hath lodged these two nights.

We read, too, in 1564, April 16,|| of the intercession to Henry VIII. for old Latymer when in the Tower,— “ Consider, Sire, what a singuler man he is, and cast not
 “ that awaie in one owre which nature and arte hath bene
 “ so manye yeres in breeding and perfectinge.”

It would be difficult to add to the praises of the Sydneys; but here are a few notices relative to them. In 1567¶ the Earl of Desmond submits his cause to the Queen’s princely judgment, or to the unspotted conscience of her Deputy.* This conscientious man was sometimes so far excited as to call the nobles he governed hard names; for writing to Cecill, in 1568,† he terms the Earl of Clancarr and James Fitzmaurice mischievous monsters, but their deeds, as here described, almost justify the use of any adjective or substantive to designate the perpetrators. At page 298,‡ we have Sydney's beau idéal of a Bishop. In 1572,§ the Lady Mary Sydney prays Burghley to stay the new title of Baron to be further offered to her husband, as they cannot support it.

But if the incidents in the lives of Queen Elizabeth's courtiers are new and full of interest, the passages in those of her Irish nobility are doubly so; and foremost among these ranks Shane O'Neill; his policy was enmity to the Scots, this gained for him in many of his misdeeds the connivance of the statesmen who governed Ireland; but it was frequently of great detriment to him, and ultimately brought him to his end.

The first mention of Shane O'Neill which occurs is in 1551,|| where he is connected with his foster-brother Dean Danyell, who attempted to impose upon the credulity of Marshal Bagenall by declaring that the nearest part of Shane's country was above twenty miles off from the place they were at,—when in very deed it was but ten miles off. In the same letter, which was written by the Marshal, there is related an incident in which the ambitious rebel¶ comes off second best. “The Baron of Donganan “ knowing the same (Shane's country) right well, desyrid “ that he mought have licence with certen horsemen and wrote to the Lord Deputy Croft to take order to send the Earl of Tyrone safely over hither [into England], and with him also his son Shane O’Neill, “ If ye can obteyne hym “ Shane O’Neill is a man likest to followe his fathers condi“ tions and to be a like enemy to the state and the weale of “ our countrye there.” Again, in November§ we find that as Shane is likely to amend, and convert himself to his duty, he may still abide in Ireland. We learn at Dec. 22|| that Brian M’Quin Roe’s son, brother to Shane, was to remain as a sufficient hostage for Shane O'Neill; and at page 131, No. 85, we find a note that King Edward VI. was to send a letter "to Shane Onell, an other sonne of the same Erle with answer to his one (own) letter, sent to the King's Majestie."

In 1558, when "Her Majesties sister the late Quene Marye was in extreme sicknes and daunger of deathe, he did cruelly, wilfully, and trayterously murther his brother the Baron of Dungannon, seke to repossesse himself of his fathers and brothers estates and possessions, and felonouslye"* prey and burn divers good subjects in the English Pale. Shane O'Neill was also accused of the murder of his nephew Brian the young Baron of Dungannon, on the 12th of April 1562.†

In 1559, February,‡ we are told that Shane O'Neill is joined in "gossopryke" with the Lord Justice Sydney, which band of friendship he will not break. In 1560§ the Queen acknowledges the receipt of Sussex's letter concerning the continuance of Shane O'Neill's evil disposition, and authorizes the subjugation of him and the restitution of

† Of the agents in these murders we have the following notices:—

On the 16th of July 1561, the Lord Lieutenant Sussex and Council write to the Queen:—"The same night we received letters from Armagh confirming a report that came to us before, that Shane O'Neill had attempted the burning of the church, and was repulsed with the loss of divers men. The effect of which letters was, that the garrisons within the charge perceiving Shane's men to pass not far off much sparkled and over travelled, issued out, and in skirmish killed two of his best horsemen, the one called Henry O'Neill, who killed the late Baron of Dungannon."—P. 175, No. 22, p. 3 of MS.

And again in 1567 Thomas Lancaster writes to Cecill that Doltagh O'Donnelly "he that slew the Baron of Dungannon" was drowned (May 1567) while flying from O'Donnell; this is mentioned in the letter calendared at page 334, No. 97.

Barnaby the young Baron of Dungannon, “being y<sup>e</sup> heyre in right.” On the 8th February 1561,* we find Shane writing to Queen Elizabeth an account of his early services, and entering very fully into the whole course of his life; this letter contains five sheets.

At the 4th of March† we have the first draft of a Latin protection or safe conduct for Shane O'Neill, an Irish subject, whose countries and servants are not in perfect civility.

June 9,‡ Shane writes to the Lord Justice Fytzwylliams that he had tortured his messenger and cut off his ear because he had not declared his (Shane's) mind. He also wishes to know if any news has come from England about the money he desires to borrow for his journey.

On the 28th June§ Shane writes to the Lord Lieutenant Sussex that his messenger has returned from the Queen with a gracious answer. Nothing hinders his repair to her presence but the lack of money.

On the 17th of July|| Sussex writes that Shane O'Neill lays his stay to these three causes; the fortifying of the church of Armagh; the murder of such as have come in to Sussex on protection; and the fact that Sussex assumed the name of Earl of Ulster.

On 31st July,¶ Sussex and the Council write to the Queen that Sir William Fytzwylliams and others had slain 200 of Shane's footmen and divers of his horsemen, among whom at the least a dozen of the Donnellaghs and the Hagans, which be the two septs that Shane holds dearest; but at the very commencement of this skirmish 30 of the English were slain, including Robert Sexton, petty captain, and Thomas Flodde, serjeant. On the same day* Sussex writes to Cecill that 50 of the best English footmen were slain and 50 wounded, and bewails that by the “cowardies “ of on wretche, whom I held as dere to me as my awne “ brother, [Shane] was lyke in on ower to have lefte not on “ man of the army alyve.”

On the 20th of August† the Queen writes to Sussex not to proceed to extremity against Shane, if he can be brought upon any reasonable conditions to repair to England. Money to be lent him, &c.

On the 24th‡ of August the Lord Lieutenant Sussex writes to the Queen of his dealings with Shane’s seneschal and Neal Gray. His proposition to Neal Gray to “kylle” Shane O’Neill, for which he shall have 100 marks of land by the year to him and to his heirs for his reward.

On the 27th of the same August§ the Queen gives authority to the Earl of Kildare to go to Ireland and induce Shane O’Neill to repair to England in his company.

On the 1st|| of September the Lord Lieutenant Sussex and Council write to the Queen of Shane’s obstinacy and of their intention to set forward against him with the hosting on the next day.

On the 9th,¶ they write to the Queen of their proceedings in Tyrone. 4,000 kine and many garruns taken. They have burned and destroyed all about the upper part of Glanconkine.

On the 3rd of October** Sussex writes to Cecill that he had taken 1,000 kine from M’Mahon for sending his brother to Shane.

On the 19th of October* the Lord Lieutenant Sussex, the Earl of Kildare, and the Privy Council write to the Queen that peace had been concluded upon the parley between the Earl of Kildare and Shane O'Neill.

The articles of the peace† consisted of seven petitions and three promises, viz.:—

1. To have the Earls of Kildare and Ormond, with other nobles, to meet him at Carrick Bradock on a day to be fixed.

2. To have the Earl of Ormond to accompany him till he embark.

3. To have the Earl of Kildare, and others whom he shall require, to go with him to the Queen's presence.

4. To have a protection from the Lord Lieutenant Sussex, under the surety of the Earls of Kildare, Ormond, Desmond, Clanricard, and Thomond, that he and all his shall go and come safely, and that no hurt shall be done to any of his urraghs till his return from England into his own country.

5. To have such a sum of money for the charges of his journey as the Earls of Kildare and Ormond shall think fit; the said money to be paid into the hands of the Earl of Kildare.

6. To have the Earl of Kildare's surety that the soldiers of Armagh shall not hurt him the value of one groat; and that they shall be withdrawn from thence so soon as he shall meet the two Earls at Carrick Bradock.

7. That no Irishman, who owes him allegiance as superior lord, shall be maintained against him; but if they drive any prey they may take from him into the English Pale, that the parties may be delivered up to him, or satisfaction to be made, and he to do the like.

His first promise is to repair to the Queen's presence, now that he is pleased with his pardon.

The second is to deliver the pledges he before named for the repayment of the money ;

And the third, to forbear revenge upon Maguire and M'Randal Boy ; and to do in all things with them according to the peace concluded at Dundalk.

On the 23rd of October* Sussex and the Council write to the Queen that the coming of the Earl of Kildare with commission to treat with Shane was the destruction of the whole campaign.

On the 21st of November† the Lord Lieutenant Sussex writes to the Queen, in defence of his conduct in consenting to the peace, "That your Hyghnes myght thereby November 29* Sussex writes to Cecill that Shane is ready to embark for England.

On the 6th† of January 1562 Shane made his submission upon his knees before the Queen in the presence of the King of Sweden's ambassador, M. de Morette, the Duke of Savoy's ambassador, the Lord Robert Dudley, Sir Francis Knollys, Sir Wm. Cecill, and others.

About the 13th of March‡ Shane complains to the Queen that he has received at the Council's hands “twoo choyses;” the one, such articles as the Council sent him three days ago; the other, to tarry the coming of Brian, the son of Matthew, called the Baron of Dungannon. He craves Her Majesty's advice as to his choice; desires to borrow more money; prays Her Majesty to choose him a gentlewoman for his wife, such as both she and he may agree, and in the meantime to appoint him (Shane) to attend on my Lord Robert Dudley, that he may learn to ride after the English fashion, to run at the tilt, to hawk, and to shoot or use such other good exercises as he may perceive the said Lord to be apt unto.

On the [21st of March*] Shane complains to the Privy Council that his people and country are troubled by the sons of Matthew, the late Baron of Dungannon.

On the 25th of March† we have Shane's answer to the articles sent to him by the Lords of the Privy Council.

On the 30th of April‡ we have the indenture between Shane and the Queen.

On the 5th of May,§ the proclamation in favour of Shane.

We read, on the 28th of May|| that Shane O'Neill arrived in Dublin on the 26th of May and delivered the Queen's letter of the 5th, but that he would not rest one whole day in Dublin, but had the proclamation proclaimed, and departed with a guard into Tyrone, as it was reported that Turlough Lynagh had been made O'Neill.

On the 19th of June¶ Shane O'Neill was half weary of his ease.

On the 27th of August** we have the instructions which Shane O'Neill gave to Robert Flemyng and two others whom he sent to the Lord Lieutenant Sussex, with the answer of Sussex and the Council, and the protection to Shane for his repair to Dundalk on the 14th of September.

On the 20th of September†† the Lord Lieutenant Sussex and Council write to the Queen that they had on the 14th assembled at Dundalk, to see execution of the indentures made in England between Her Highness and Shane O'Neill. The refractory behaviour of Shane. Amongst other matters

 “promyse to gyve her agains her will.” Also Shane’s parley with the Earls of Kildare, Clanrycarde, Sir Nicholas Arnold, and others upon Dundalk Bridge.

On the 23rd* of September Sir Nicholas Arnold writes to Cecill as to the report of a letter sent from Mary Queen of Scots to Shane, which arrived at one of his houses, and was sent after him to Dublin, while he was on his way to England, and Shane’s daily practice with King Philip’s Ambassador while in England.

On the 29th† Sussex writes to the Queen that “woorde “was sent to Shane owte of the Inglish Pale that my “Sister was brought over only to trappe him, and that if he “came to eny governer he shuld never retorne.”

At 26th October‡ is a letter of the Lord Lieutenant and Council touching the reformation of Shane O’Neill.

On the 2nd of November§ Shane writes to the Queen that some of his people were robbed, and some killed, during his absence, and that he has had but 40 kine restored out of 3,880 kine, and goods to the value of 2,000 marks taken from him.

On the same day|| he writes to the Lord Robert Dudley, with a present of horses, hawks, and greyhounds.

And again* to Cecill, with the present of a horse, conveyed by the bearer John Smyth, the Queen's footman.

On the 26th of January 1562/3† the Lord Lieutenant Sussex and Council write to the Privy Council that they had procured O'Reilly, Maguire, and Con O'Donnell to join in the Queen's service, and had brought Turlough Lynagh, the second person in Tyrone, to forsake Shane O'Neill. They intend to stay Shane from annoying them this next bright moon.

On the 30th of January‡ Sussex writes that Shane has sent for his whole power. "Ther can be no matter moved that tocheth him (Shane), but he knoweth it ether before it be concluded or shortly after."

In September 16, 1563§ the Lord Lieutenant Sussex writes to the Lord Shane, admitted to the name of O'Neill by the Queen's Commissioners, and confirms the peace.

In September|| O'Neill articted with Sir Thomas Cusake that he should never be called to answer for the slaying of his nephew Brian, the son of Matthew, the late Baron of Dungannon, because, by the law of war of Ireland, it was determined that he had been properly met with before the conflict.¶

On the 20th of October** the Queen permits that Shane may have and use the state and name of O'Neill, and expresses her horror and indignation at the detestable attempt by John Smythe for the poisoning of O'Neill with wine.

After the Urraghs, high captains, and chief nobles of Ulster, who corroborated his bond with their signatures, we have as witnesses the ex-Chancellor Sir Thomas Cusake, one peer, and several Judges and Privy Councillors, and after them a remarkable little group, stowed away in a quiet corner by themselves, comprising, Sir Patrick Dorelle the chauntour of Armagh, Owen O'Hagan O'Neill's secretary, Vllialmus Flemin the Judge of Tyrone, and Jacobus the Official of Armagh. Who was William Fleming the Judex Tyroniæ, and what was his office? It is clear that he was a Judge of the Brehon law, and not of the Queen's statutes, for on the 11th of the previous September,* Shane O'Neill wrote to the Queen from his camp at Drum Cru "Sed non audeo omittere statuta et ordinationes meorum prædecessorum cum adhuc nec ipse nec mei subditi experti sumus in jure et statutis vestri regni." It is not at all likely that Fleming was a Roman officer or a Norman seneschal, for we have the laws, and they are Irish. It is curious, then, to compare this little Court with a passage descriptive of another clan of the same race at a long anterior period. Strabo,† in describing the Tectosages, a tribe of Gauls who had settled in Galatia, says they were divided into four portions, called Tetrarchies, and had a tetrarch, a judge, one superintendent, and two subordinate superintendents of the army. This Galatian Judge is doubtless the same officer as our Judex Tyroniæ. The laws and institutes of the British, the Irish, and the Gauls, seem to lie at the surface of history, yet, like the wave of Tantalus, continually recede from us. May we not get a view of the internal arrangements of an Irish court from some formal document, like this bond, which will settle all doubts, and leave us in possession of a full knowledge of the political and social state of Ireland, and of Europe, a century before the Christian era?

How can we wonder that this wild Irishman should feel hesitation as to his skill in the Queen's laws, when we find it stated in the Articles brought from the Lord Deputy Sussex by Sir Henry Sydney in 1557,* to be declared to Mary the Queen of England, that "the statute that made "fostering with the Irish to be felony is, as they say, lost, "and therefore not put in execution."

The inconveniences arising from this state of things had been long felt, for in February 1538, it was proposed that order should be taken "for the sure keeping of the King's "records, for as they be handled now, it is pity to see them. "They should be delivered by indenture to a keeper." And it seems that the losses of statutes, and the embezzling and falsifying of records must have led to a more watchful custody of them, for, on the 13th April 1566, we read that Henry Draycott,† Chancellor and Remembrancer of the Exchequer, now Master of the Rolls, "hath had the "perusing, sorting, and kalendaringe of Her Majesty's "recordes," which are "well layd upp in a stronge chamber "of one of the towers of Dublin Castle."

On the 10th of January 1564,‡ it was demanded what answer is to be made to Shane for his requests concerning my Lady Frances to be his wife, and "Melefant" for her during her life, which is of yearly rent three hundred and odd pounds Irish?

On the 10th of March § Shane finds fault that the Queen's Letters Patent do not agree with the peace subscribed by him and Cusake, and prays that the first peace may be confirmed, and that he may have an English wife, especially my Lord of Sussex's sister.

On a recent occasion we have experienced the difficulty of finding a law to punish a would be assassin; the like difficulty was found in the sixteenth century in the case of John Smythe, who had determined to poison the people-elected ruler of Ulster, for thus, on the 22nd of March,* did Sir Thomas Cusake write to Cecill: "Seinge there is no
" lawe to punishe him other then in discretion by imprisone-
" ment, which O'Neill woll litle regarde, excepte the partie
" might be executed by dethe, and that the law doth not " suffer, so as the matter being wiselie pacified it were well " done so to leave hit, therefor myne opinion is that to
" enlardg him is the best waye."

In 1564, May 22† O'Neill writes to the Lord Lieutenant Sussex, of the favour shown to the sons of the late Baron of Dungannon, and desires that the subject of their claim may be cleared up, and on June 8‡ O'Neill doth much mistrust of some secret favour to be used towards the late Baron of Dungannon's sons, lest they should at length obtain the governance of the country.§

On the 13th of June|| Sir Thomas Cusake relates to the Lord Justice Arnold, that at the enlargement of O'Donnell, being captive with O'Neill, he gave him as a ransom the castle of Lifford, the country of Yncheone (Innishowen) where O'Dogherty is captain, which country and castle have been ever in contention between their ancestors, and besides jewels and plate, he promised to give a great number of kine and certain horses and armour; . . . and after the days expired, O'Neill sent to receive them and could receive none, and O'Neill went to Lifford thinking to parley with O'Donnell to know how he should receive his payment, and O'Donnell appointed three days "after other" to meet O'Neill, to take order for his payment, and came not, but disappointed every day. . . . Wherewith O'Neill was offended to be so mocked, and being a great host of men, 300 horsemen, 400 galloglas, 200 long bows, Scots born in Ireland, 120 gunners, and 500 kerne, said that he would not defer longer time. Cusake's advice to Arnold, to give O'Donnell but fair words and despatch him with a letter to O'Neill, requesting him to use Con O'Donnell, who had been made prisoner, well, and to stand to order with the said O'Donnell.

On the 16th of August* Sir T. Wrothe writes to the Lord Robert Dudley on the unsettled state of Ireland, and says that Shane O'Neill has written a letter to Captain Pers that the town of Carrickfergus, which is Her Majesty's, must either pay him the tribute he asks or be preyed. The town at that time paid a yearly buying to the Scots.

On the 18th of August 1564† O'Neill writes to the Lord Justice and Council that the Lord Robert Dudley had advised him by letter to do some notable service whereby he might be the better accepted of the Queen. He can see no greater rebels and traitors than the Scots. He has a mind to do them some mischief, and desires permission to enter Knockfergus.

Arnold seems to have been a very cunning man in his own eyes. On the 29th of January 1565,* he assures Cecill that he acts with the wild Irish as with bears and bandogs; so that he sees them fight earnestly and tug each other well, he cares not who has the worse. But Cecill professes a different creed, for he replies† that Arnold is not to consider what the world only will judge, but what God sees; Cecill, as a Christian man, cannot without perplexity contemplate the wild Irish, set to fight as bears and bandogs.

On the 29th of October 1564‡ the Calough O'Donnell relates how he sent six standards, which he took from Shane O'Neill to the Lord Lieutenant Sussex, and how subsequently he was "traytoursly taken by Shan Onnell, . . .
 " and so I was in pryson and bounde bothe hande and fowthe,
 " and a grethe coler of yron sethe aboutt my neke, and a

 " that I dyd wyshe after dethe a towsanthe tyemes." This Calough O'Donnell was Shane O'Neill's father-in-law, for on a former occasion Shane had married his daughter.

On the 2nd of April 1565 Shane§ writes to Cusake acknowledging the Queen's great favour to him.

On the 22d of June‡ the Privy Council write to the Lord Justice Arnold, to send a special man to O'Neill to practise with him for the recovery of James M'Donnell and his brother into the possession of the Queen. They also write§ to O'Neill to know how the battle commenced, who are the captives, and what Scottish captains survive.

On the 28th of July|| O'Neill writes to the Queen that the letters of the Earl of Leicester and Sir W. Cecill led him to attack the Scots. The names and numbers of the captives he took on the 2nd of May, "in qua victoria
" captus et vulneratus erat dictus Jacobus M'Domhnaill et

On the 10th of November* the Privy Council write to Shane O'Neill acknowledging the receipt of his letters of August 25th by the Dean of Armagh, and rejoice in the fortunate success that has crowned his honourable intention in attacking the Scots.

On the 18th of Feb. 1566† are the causes moving Shane's people not to suffer him to come to the Lord Deputy Sydney's presence with such expedition as his Lordship requires.

Sir N. Bagenall writes‡ that Shane says "he hath won" all by the sword, and by the sword he will keep it."

On the 1st of March§ Sydney writes, that before Shane would have his parliament robes sent into his country, but at this time he cares not to be made an Earl. He never made peace with the Queen but by her own seeking. His ancestors were Kings of Ulster, Ulster was theirs, and Ulster is his, and shall be his.

On the 27th of March|| Cecill writes that all the Council are inclined to the extirpation of that proud rebel Shane O'Neill, but at present they make no resolution.

On the 25th of April¶ Shane writes, styling himself Defender of the Faith, to Charles the IXth, King of France, for 5,000 or 6,000 well armed men, to assist in expelling the English from Ireland. He also writes** to the Cardinal of Lorraine to persuade the French King to send the aid he needs.

On the 29th of April* the Bishop of Meath writes that Shane hath taken O'Donnell's brother and very cruelly put him to death, and six or seven score of his men.

May 18,† the Lord Deputy writes amongst other matters that he had concluded peace with O'Neill for a time, but he and Knollys are determined to overthrow him.

On the 24th of June‡ Cecill writes that Her Majesty has commanded him to expedite the 1,000 men to be sent out of England against O'Neill; his practices with Scotland fully discovered.

On the 16th of August§ Thomas Lancaster writes that Shane has entered the English Pale with fire and sword; and that on the 29th July he besieged Dundalk. Eighteen of his men killed by John Fytzwylliams and his band, assisted by the inhabitants of the town; their heads cut off and placed upon the gates.

On the 9th of September|| Shane writes to John of Desmond inviting him to join him against the English. They would have attacked John of Desmond only for Shane O'Neill. Shane has robbed and burnt Meath.

On the 12th of November¶ the Lord Deputy Sydney, the Earl of Kildare, and others write to the Queen the details of the expedition against O'Neill. His chief house Benboorb utterly burned. The site of the Derry given to the Queen, and Colonel Randolfe left there with 600 foot and 50 horse.

On the 29th of December* O'Neill writes to the Lord Deputy Sydney and Council, that he never demanded anything, but what was contained in his articles of peace with Sir Thomas Cusake, and offers to agree to those articles at any time.

On the 16th of January 1567† the Queen writes to the Lord Deputy Sydney as to the difficulty respecting the Scottish leader, Alexander Oge, brother to James M'Donnell, who "hath very well servid in prayeng upon Shane;" but she adds, "We take it for certen that the best way were, as " you also have thought (if tyme and other oportunities " might serve us), to suffre no Scot to have any habitation " or abode in Ireland."

On the 1st of February 1567‡ Shane writes to the Cardinals of Lorraine and Guise, to use their influence with the French King to send an army to assist him to restore and defend the Roman Catholic faith.

On the 20th of April§ the Lord Deputy Sydney relates the great success of the enterprise against Shane O'Neill, who is driven into the woods, so that it is hardly known where he is.

On the 16th of May|| Thomas Phetyplace, who looketh hourly to be carried to execution, describes the strength of Shane O'Neill to be not in men, but in subtlety; his surety not in the nobility, nor yet in his kinsmen and brothers, but in his foster brothers, the O'Donnellaughs, about 300 gentlemen. His warrior indeed is Turlough Lynagh. His Englishmen, castles, ordnance, numbers, and places of refuge.

On the 18th of May “ Alexander Oig M’Conaill, Stewart “ off Kintire,” arrived in the Glynns. He wrote on the 20th* to the Lord Deputy Sydney that he would have come sooner, but was hindered by neighbours in Scotland. His intention to march forward into Tyrone, and do such service as he is able for the Queen.

On the 31st of May† Thomas Lancaster writes that Sir Hugh O’Donnell, with a small band, nearly captured Shane O’Neill, and slew most of his men. Art M’Baron takes a prey of 1,000 kine, &c. from Shane, and Captain Pers and others take great preys. The 20th of May the Lord Deputy Sydney took his journey into Tyrone, when Cormac M’Arduyll, President of Shane’s Council, Hugh Carragh O’Donnell, and Art M’Donyll, with many followers, came in. Shane O’Neill has set Con O’Donnell and his brother at liberty. Ballyshannon and Beleek Castles delivered to Con.

On the 10th of June‡ Sir William Fytzwylliams informs Cecill that the Lord Deputy Sydney and O’Donnell had so weakened Shane O’Neill that he sought “ to joyne himself “ with his mortole inemye, Alexsander Oge,” brother to James M’Donnell, and Sorley Boy, who lay in the Glynns with 800 or 900 Scots. He had used two days’ talk with the same Alexander, and the third day, when he thought to have ended a full conclusion with him, of binding in friendship to have served on his side, God so disposed his pleasure as he suffered that traitor to receive his end among those Scots, “ who cutt and hewed him as is sayd exstreamlye.” “ This rebel’s end was on Monday, towards night, the “ second of June, an end hard enough, but not sufficient “ for his deserts. If God’s will so had been, I would he “ might have been taken, to the end he might in other sort “ have received his just desert, and that he might have “ told, as is said he did report he would, so much as “ should have gained the Queen’s Majesty more land than “ Tyrone was worth.” Turlough Lynagh is said to have proclaimed himself O’Neill. Fytzwylliams recommends that the Scots should be paid in money for their service, and dismissed out of the land.

On the 24th of June* Winchester writes that Sydney must see Shane’s lodging that he built in the fen, where he kept his cattle and men, and not to forget Shane’s wife and family if they do humble themselves.

On the 6th† of July the Queen makes mention of Shane’s son, in prison in Dublin Castle, and wishes Sydney to advise her whether it were not better to send him to some castle in Wales.

On the 5th of March 1588/9, the Lord Deputy Fytzwylliams writes to Burghley that he had received a letter from Hugh Gavelagh, one of the sons of Shane O’Neill, and adds that the sons of Shane O’Neill are seven in number, and all save one of Scottish race, and greatly beloved, and will no doubt attempt to succeed Turlough Lynagh. Here are the names of five of them: Henry, said to be very dangerous; Con, the second son; Art, Hugh Gavelagh, and Shane Oge O’Neill. Shane O’Neill had also a daughter Alice.‡

The limits of a Preface naturally forbid the production of more than a few meagre extracts from the voluminous correspondence relating to the exploits and rebellions of Shane O’Neill; but these few will serve to indicate the nature of the information which the State Papers supply for every great name in Ireland. Scarcely less ample are the details of Con O'Neill, Shane's predecessor, or of Turlough Lynagh O'Neill, his successor in the government of O'Neilland, while the wars of the Fitzgeralds and the exploits of the Butlers are detailed with the utmost exactness.

On the 4th of July 1570* the Earl of Ormond writes to Mr. Heneage that he takes the Queen's staying the judgment and execution of his brethren as an exceeding mercy. The stain of his house nippeth him at the heart. Sir Edmund was certainly bewitched. The Earl of Ormond was also bewitched, but has recovered.

There are some remarkable notices of church matters, which cannot be obtained elsewhere. On the 28th of October 1550† the Lord Deputy Sentleger and Council recommended John Bradyc for preferment to the see of Kilmore.

There is at page 158‡ a letter from the Queen to Warhame Sentleger and Robert Sentleger, to send over the books and writings of the antiquary John Bale, late Bishop of Ossory, "a man that hath byn studious in the "serche for the history and antiquities of this our realme," which he left behind him "in the tyme of our late sister "Quene Mary, when he was occasioned to departe out "of Ireland," "for the illustration and setting forth of "the storye of this our realme by him, the said Bale."

In 1567§ the Queen writes to Sydney of a purpose to plant Ulster with obedient subjects. In 1568|| we learn that it was Thomas Flemyng who made the rate for the renting of Ulster.

Here it will be requisite to make a few observations on the names which occur in this Calendar, and more especially on the names, surnames, and nic-names of the wild Irish.

Among the various difficulties which beset the patient student of Irish history, the identification of "members,"* as they were sometimes quaintly called, who exercised from time to time no inconsiderable influence upon the affairs of the several provinces, is one neither of the least nor last.

Indeed, so great is the difficulty of identification, that even now, with all our experience, it is hard to name these remote members. For instance, what shall we call Sir Brian M'Felim, and how index him? He was one of the O'Neills, of the clan of yellow Hugh O'Neill; his full name is Sir Brian O'Neill M'Phelim Bacho;† and his Latin name Bernardus O'Nele filius Phelimei Claudi.‡

Cahir M'Arte Kavanagh, and Cahir M'Carthy one of the family of the M'Carthys.

Brian Carragh M'Cormac M'Donnell, Captain of Glanconkene.§

Turlough Oge M'Owen Moyll, of Ireland birth.||

And Edmund M'Shane Ballogh O'Conor.**

Then there was Donnell Gorm, son of James, son of Alexander, son of John Cahanagh;†† and there was Donnell Gorm M'Donnell, or M'Donald as he is spelt in Douglas's peerage of Scotland, Lord of the Out Isles of Scotland. Both these men were Donnell Gorm M'Donnell, and both were great men; one died young, and the other very old. One was the son of James M'Donnell, whom Shane O'Neill slew, [and was killed in 1586] in the road into Connaught; the other was Lord of the Out Isles from 1537 to 1585. Again, at page 421,* there is the name of O'Callaghan; this in the manuscript is spelt Ocaliuan.

The principle of giving the name of every individual as he himself spelt it, when that can be ascertained, has been adopted. At page 97, No. 165, there is an example of the advantage of this principle.

Then there was a question whether to follow a fixed spelling for men who could be generally identified; or whether their names should be varied with the orthography of every letter-writer who addressed them. It would have crowded the Index with cross references and repeated and commingled the leading characters of Irish history, as if seen through a multiplying glass, to have jotted down all these same and identical individuals disguised in so many spellings, and must have perplexed and greatly taxed the attention of the historical enquirer. But this question was already partly answered. Having adopted for all, whose signatures are extant, their own spelling, it seemed better to spell others, who never chanced to spell for themselves, on a uniform system. This was conformable to the plan which allowed each to choose his own spelling, and at the same time useful to the general reader. For instance, having once ascertained that Matthew Kyng—no imaginary person—was Clerk of the Check; the enquirer will naturally look for him the next time as Kyng, not King† nor Kyng. So for Whites, Whytes, and Whyttes; Wise, and Wyse, &c.

Once more, names are frequently translated; and in Latin documents, which are not a few in this correspondence, we have Venantius for Waucop, the blind Scottish Bishop; he of course is calendared as Waucop, and the same for others.

The question of surnames having been settled, then followed the Christian names; the English Christian first, as James and John, Geoffrey and Bartholomew, Anne and Mary, Frances and Jane; then the Irish Christian names, as Aod or Hugh, Cahir or Charles, Ferdoragh or Ferdinand, Thady or Timothy, Tibbot or Theobald, Turlough* or Terence, with Cecily, Celia, Eveleen or Evelina, Edwina, Sawe, Sabia or Sabina, Rose, Judith, and Una. For these it has been thought convenient to choose the simplest and most common way of spelling the simplest and most common names, adopting the same plan for the Irish as for the English, and following out the same principle for the harder and more-unusual names.

A few words may now be said as to the epithets. Here again there is an open question,—is hairy or harry, or charric or charrie the right way of spelling the epithet at the end of the long name, Alexander Oge M'Alester Charrie, or, in the Irish character, Alaxtar óg mac Alaxtaraiij Chaiijaij. His father's name must have been Alexander Carragh M'Donnell. Here, and in similar instances, a fixed spelling has been followed, and he is always called Alexander Oge M'Alester Charrie. So, the nickname or epithet, Oge, junior, is universally adopted for all its varieties. It may be asked, why a capital has been used with these epithets; to this the Editor was led by the general practice of the MSS., in which he is called Alexander Oge by way of abbreviation, and as the rest of a long name is not always supplied when it is sufficiently clear who is meant, the epithet almost becomes a name, as in the instance of Sorley Boy and Turlough Lynagh. In these cases the capitals arrest the eye and define the name, whereas, if Boy, yellow, had been printed with a small b, as Sorley boy, the reader would have had to look on carefully to the next word or two, to see where the name ended; on the other hand, it is not often that an intelligent enquirer will take the epithet for the name.

There was good reason in early times for the use of the epithet as Con Boy, not Con O'Neill. The inhabitants of the country were divided, not into shires, hundreds, and tithings, but into nations, septs, or clans, all bearing the same surname; there was thus no possibility of distinguishing individuals from each other but by epithets or nic-names; for the surnames were almost all alike, and the same Christian names ran in families.

This is the model of the plan on which the nomenclature of the Calendar is based, and its effect is to bring before the reader the many names treated of in this Calendar, with some sort of identity. Even after this, he will not find he has to complain for want of matter on which to exercise his intelligence and discretion, for there will still be mystery enough. Thus, there were two men called John of Desmond. One was Sir John, the Earl of Desmond's brother; the other was his uncle, John Oge.*

Again mention is made of three different Alexander Oges at the same period. One was Alexander Oge M'Donnell, Steward of "Kintire" in Scotland,† the brother‡ of James M'Donnell whom Shane O'Neill slew. Another was Alexander Oge M'Alester Charrie of the Glynnns, of Ireland birth, whose next brother was Randal Oge M'Alester Charrie.* And the third was Alexander Oge M'Alexander Gawle, mentioned in the note of such Scots as were in Ulster before the last coming of Sorley Boy,† and it will not be easy to sort out them, and such as them as Con Boy and Neill Oge.‡ This is difficult enough with well known names as William Cecill; how few know that there was William Cecill, for whom Sir William Cecill wrote to the Lord Deputy Sydney as follows, "I pray your Lordship to " be good to on Wm. Cecill of my name, and as I take it, of " my blood; he fondly but yet servisably went into Irland

 " without my knolledg, whan for his proffitt he ought to " have tarryed in England." Also William Cecill, eldest son of Sir Thomas Cecill, second Lord Burghley and Earl of Exeter, of whom there are letters extant at Domestic, 1579, January 1, and 1585, Nov. 8; also, Nov. 24, Guil. Cecill's Italian letter from Padua. And also William Cecill, a priest who was imprisoned. In addition to these there was a William Cicill, Sheriff of Herefordshire in 1580.§

It is hoped that the attempt to individualize the particular man by the uniform spelling of his name, and the adoption of settled orthography for Christian names, will tend to simplify the study of history, while it cannot but assist the philosophical scholar, the genealogist, and the antiquary.

Much having been said as to the names of persons, we may here notice the fluctuating orthography of the names of places. In the four books of reference by authors of undoubted learning and patience, Seward, Beaufort, O'Donovan, and Griffith, to which reference has been made, we find,— Killfeacle, . . . . in barony Clanwilliam, county Tipperary, Seward's Topographia Hibernica, 4to, 1795.

* Mentioned in the paper calendared at p. 349, No. 25, 1.; and also in the paper at p. 360, No. 15, 1.

† P. 360, No. 15, 1.

‡ Neill Oge O'Neill slain, p. 406, No. 1.

Kilfiacle, &c., &c. co. Tipperary, Seward, 12mo, 1789.

Killfeacle, co. Tipperary, barony Clanwilliam, in Beaufort's Memoir of a Map of Ireland, 4to., 1792.

Kill-fiacal, Kilfeacle, in Muschraighe - Bhreogain; Dr. O'Donovan's "Four Masters," Index, 4to., 1856.

And Kilfeacle in Griffith's General Valuation of Ireland, county of Tipperary, S.R., 4to, Dublin, 1854.

Thus, there are four different spellings for the name of the same place, while two out of the four authors spell the name two different ways. If, then, the painstaking compilers, who intended to print their books as works of reference, spell so uncertainly, what may we not expect, and what do we not find, in the loose orthography of the sixteenth century? Care has been taken not to unnecessarily increase the number of the names of the many places in Ireland, and when it is well ascertained that a certain Divlin or Dyvelyn or Dulin means Dublin, Dublin has been put without hesitation.

Sometimes where there was room a double spelling has been given, as at page 416, No. 39, Tavelaghe [Tallagh]; ib. No. 42, Munechan [Monaghan], M'Mawna [M'Mahon]. In this way the modern name is sometimes given thus, "Dyngham" [Philipstown.]*

Although a uniformity of style in the spelling of names of places has been aimed at throughout the Calendar in order to avoid confusion, yet, in cases where a misconception could not arise, it has been deemed expedient to accustom the eye of the reader, even in the Calendar, to look upon spelling as a mere accessory, and to seek in the phonetic combination of the letters the appellation of the place. Thus, at page 408, No. 23, Sligo is spelt Slygo, Sligo, and Slygeah, and Ilfracomb has been spelt at page 410, No. 52, Ilefarecombe, and at page 413, Nos. 11 and 12, Ilfracombe and Ylfarcombe. This plan was found the more requisite, as in some cases, where the name is not to be clearly identified with its modern name, the spelling of the document has been unavoidably followed, for example, Ravanaghe p. 487, No. 24, II. Has this place been thoroughly destroyed, or did the copyist mistake the name when he made the copy of the letter here calendared?

Some of the clerks who made the copies were rather careless, and, not being acquainted with the localities they were writing about, miscopied and obscured the names, as Sencaille, page 383, No. 45, VII. The name is clear enough in the document, which is a copy, but it is most probably a clerical error, perhaps it was not very clear in the original, and not considered of importance by the transcriber. Sometimes in such cases it has been thought best to give the name without any attempt at correction. The topographical or genealogical writer, who is interested and well versed in his particular subject, will frequently be able to gather from the confused name what place was intended. It is possible that the real name of this place would become apparent to a person possessing other letters written from the same neighbourhood about the same time; for instance, if it were known that Turlough Lynagh was at Lecale on the day of date of this letter, the termination of this date would speak clearly enough for the rest of the word, and the Sen of the commencement would be at once attributed to some error.

But there were many places which existed in the early part of Elizabeth's reign, and have since perished from the map. Many of these had names similar to names now in being, and it would have been unsafe to hazard any alteration in their spelling. Furthermore, it was not always to be ascertained, in anything like a reasonable time, whether a place mentioned was certainly one or other of several. Thus we have in 1566/7, January 29, the Lord Deputy writing from Lackagh. He had been three days before at Kilmainham; it is therefore more probable that he writes from Lackagh in co. Kildare than from either Lackah in Galway or Lackah in Donegal. However, as he spelt the place Lachaugh, his spelling has been left as it stands in the manuscript. There might have been a Lachaugh which no longer exists, or if any one were carefully investigating his particular proceedings, it would readily appear what place was meant by the name as his amanuensis spelt it. There is, too, a Maglass in the county of Wexford,* as well as Dr. O'Donovan's Moyglass in Galway. This is why various spellings for the same place will occasionally be met with.

It often happens that inclosures are placed in the order of their dates in this Calendar, and not in the letters which conveyed them, as the articles of instructions for the Earl of Ormond and others at page 219, No. 57, and the memorial of the parley, No. 58. These were inclosed in a letter now missing, which is answered by Queen Elizabeth, August 9; so also the copies of T. Lynagh's letters, calendared at page 485, Nos. 10 and 11. In such cases it is generally to be understood that the letter inclosing them has been removed from this collection, and it may very probably be found in the Archbishop of Canterbury's library at Lambeth Palace, at Hatfield House, or amongst the Cottonian Manuscripts at the British Museum; but this must not be taken for a certainty, for inclosures were not always mentioned in the letter inclosing them, as the following extract from a despatch of 8th June 1596 clearly proves:—"We have received divers letters from sundry parts of this realm, some points whereof we have thought meet to impart unto your Lordships by these our letters, and yet withal to send the transcripts of the whole, the more fully and particularly to give your Lordships satisfaction in all." The last inclosure to the above letter came after the sealing of the despatch. Indeed, it often happened that despatches were stayed on the Irish side of the Channel for wind after they were dated, in which case inclosures frequently underwent changes, and many were added, as at page 360, No. 15, i., where the inclosure bears the date 1567/8, January 27, whilst the letter is dated January 22, but the undated postscript which mentions the inclosure speaks of the delay occasioned by bad weather. Another example of this occurs in Sir Henry Wallop's letter of 1596, April 10, inclosing a certificate, with Wallop's own signature, after the 1st of May. In such cases the inclosures are placed in their respective letters, without always repeating the reasons for so doing, which will generally be found obvious by those who consult the papers.

In the Irish correspondence inclosures are very numerous; at page 368 is a letter No. 74, with 15 inclosures, and at page 390, No. 4, one with 16 inclosures. The month and day and place of the date of the inclosure is placed last of all; and the year is generally the same as that of the inclosing letter, in other cases the year has been specified when needful.

It was not always, however, that there were any letters at all from Ireland, for, in November 1568,* Cecill complains to the Lord Deputy Sydney that he has been almost five months without news. And this notwithstanding that in 1565† Sir Henry Sydney and the Council were commanded to read their instructions once a quarter, and make a return to Her Majesty thereon.

Occasionally letters were misdated by the writer, as that of T. Lynagh, which was dated on April 16th and received on the 15th, as explained at page 375, No. 13, II.; and sometimes undated papers were indorsed with a wrong date, as that at page 463, No. 52, which has been indorsed by Burghley as 1574, while there is internal evidence to show that it cannot be later than 1571, where it is placed.

There are many papers in this collection entirely without date. To these proximate dates have been assigned from the internal evidence, and the paper placed where it would have been, if such date had appeared on it. It would frequently require much space to detail the several reasons for deciding the date of a paper; it has been therefore considered sufficient to place the document in its natural chronological order, assuming the supposed date to be correct.

In cases where but slender reason exists for placing the paper in one place more than in another, the dates assigned may be wrong, but still it is hoped they are sufficiently near to bring them before the eye of the enquirer on whatever subject he may be engaged.

The dates of facts are not very well ascertained in history; for instance, in the "Four Masters"‡ it is recorded at the year 1547 that M'Murrough (Murtough the son of Art Boy) died. Now Anthony Colclough writes to Bellyngham that this very man came to him to Carlow. The letter is dated September 5, and directed to Bellyngham, who did not arrive in Ireland till May 19, 1548. It is very certain, however, that M'Murrough died in 1548, because his brother Cahir M'Arte Kavanagh takes his place after this mention.

It will be seen that divers of the papers printed in the second and third volumes of State Papers* have been here calendared; the first that occurs is at page 2.† Although these papers are already before the public in their entire form it was considered that, as they occur in the correspondence it was requisite to admit them to their due place, and further it seemed advisable to attach some mark to them to show that they have been printed in that collection. To answer all these conditions it was judged the simplest way to reprint the contents of them as already given at the commencement of volumes II. and III., and to include the same in inverted commas by way of quotation. This was thought sufficient to indicate to the reader such papers as are printed in those volumes. These observations apply only to the reign of Henry VIII., which occupies the first 76 pages of this Calendar.

The number of letters in foreign languages is very considerable; there are many in Latin, Spanish, and Irish, and not a few in French, Scotch, Italian, and Portuguese.

It is not possible that I should conclude these prefatory remarks without returning my warm acknowledgments to Dr. John O'Donovan, the learned editor of the "Four Masters;" to Richard Nugent, Esq., of Mount Nugent, co. Cavan; to Herbert F. Hore, Esq., of Pole Hore, co. Wexford; and to D. M'Carthy, Esq., of Stourfield, near Christ-1515. 1515.

Sept. 12. 6. Hugh Inge, Bishop of Meath, to Thomas Wolsey, Archbishop of Wells. York. Entreats his favour and support.

Dec. 1. 7. Gerald Earl of Kildare Lord Deputy to the King. Has received Dublin. his letters of July 8, for lawful assistance to Dame Anne Sentleger and Dame Margaret Boleyn, in the prosecution of their causes concerning the lands lately belonging to Thomas Earl of Ormond, deceased, in controversy betwixt the said ladies and one Sir Piers Butler. States what he has done in the case.

Dec. 12. 8. Wm. Rokeby, Archbishop of Dublin and Lord Chancellor, to Talente, beside Cardinal Wolsey. Has been occupied with the Lord Deputy in Dublin. Sir Thomas Boleyn's cause. Sir Piers Butler, who calls himself the [Tallagh.] Earl of Ormond, has not appeared. His greatness. Trusts that John Theodorici's cause will come to good pass. The Prior pretended, with divers of the city, kept the place against him [the writer] manu forti, and committed a great riot.

9. "State of Ireland, and plan for its reformation."

10. Articles of complaint, exhibited by Elizabeth Dowager Countess of Gerald eighth Earl of Kildare against the Lord Deputy Gerald ninth Earl of Kildare, her son-in-law. The said Lord Deputy has granted a tribute out of her lands named Coyle, to the King's Irish enemy called the Great O'Neill. Since her departing he has suffered the lands of her sons, his brethren, to fall into the hands of the wild Irishmen, excepting some part which is taken by one Delahide, of Moyclare, his steward, to the utter destruction of complainant and of her children. The lands of her ward, one Rochford, of Kilbride, are made waste by daily oppression of coin and livery. [This paper, which is much damaged, must be later than 1515, when Kildare was made Lord Deputy, and earlier than 1516, June 28, when the complainant died.]

March 10. Commission appointing Thomas Earl of Surrey Lord Lieutenant. Westminster. Latin. [Recited in 1522, March 6, No. 32, which see.]

July. 11. The King to the Lord Lieutenant Surrey, Lord Chancellor Rokeby, and Council. "State of Ireland on Surrey's arrival as Lieutenant. Cavalry to be sent to Ireland. Charges against the Earl of Kildare referred to Wolsey. Discord between Desmond and Sir Piers Butler [Earl of Ormond]. Francis I., King of France, offers to send troops to Ireland. The King's interviews with him and the Emperor Charles V."

August 3. 12. Surrey to Wolsey. "Is going to march against O'Neill. Dublin. Sickness. Recommends Sir Piers Butler to be Lord Treasurer."

In his bed. his return."

1521.
[Dec. 2.] 28. A device how Ireland may be well kept in obedience. [There is no date to this "device," but, from the circumstance of its being in the time of Cardinal Wolsey, it is not improbable that it may be "The Way how Ireland may be kept," alluded to by the Earl of Surrey in the preceding letter.]
- Dec. 21.
Dublin. 29. The Council of Ireland to Wolsey. "They praise the Lord Lieutenant Surrey on occasion of his return to England." Damaged.
30. Act of Parliament declaring Sir Piers Butler the true and lawful heir to James Fitz Edmond Fitz Richard Butler, otherwise called Earl of Ormond, and repealing the Act of 7 Edw. IV. made in favour of Esmond and Theobald. [It is probable that this Act was passed in 1521, in pursuance of the Earl of Surrey's request of Oct. 3, 1520.] 1522. 1522.
- March 6.
Kilmainham. 31. Sir John Rawson, Prior of Kilmainham, to Wolsey. "Thanks him for advancing him to the Treasurership."

1525.

April 7.
My Manor of Kilcaa.
[Kilkea.]

45. Gerald Earl of Kildare, Lord Deputy, to Cardinal Wolsey. To enforce a decree made by his Grace and the Council, that the late Lord Slane and his heir, the present Lord, now under age, should peaceably enjoy the manors of Highbray and Credehoo, with the advowson of the church of Highbray in Devonshire.

April 12.
Dublin.

46. Same to same. For the appointment of Dan John Sale, of the Cistercian order, to a vacant living in the West parts of Ireland.

1526.

August 27.
Rammesbury.

47. Dr. Richard Woleman to same. The King's pleasure that the Archbishop of Arnagh should not come to London, because there would be none of estate left in Ireland at the coming away of his Lieutenant and Deputy Kildare, and other Councillors into England.

Shirehampton.

48. Piers Earl of Ormond to same. Complains that the townsmen of Bristol, to the number of 600, pressed upon his lodgings to burn the house while he was in his bed in the night. Prays Wolsey's commandment to the Mayor and Sheriffs of Bristol to cease all process against his [Ormond's] servants, and to discharge his sureties till his next coming, when Wolsey may examine the matter.

Nov. 5.

49. Letters patent granting to Piers Butler, Earl of Ormond, and Margaret, his wife, and their heirs male, various castles, honours, and lands in Kilkenny and Tipperary.

1528.

Jan. 18.
Dromany.

50. Sir John Fitzgerald of Desmond and his son Gerald to the King. Have obeyed his commands, and aided James [Butler]. For this aid [James the eleventh] Earl of Desmond came with a host and burnt and destroyed the most part of their country. Have driven the said Earl to take shipping to the main sea, and slain many of his host. Damaged.

Feb. 23.
Dublin.

51. Hugh Inge, Archbishop of Dublin and Chancellor, and Chief Justice Patrick Bermyngham to Wolsey. "Lament the absence of Ormond and Kildare. Lord Delvin is insufficient as Vice Deputy. Want of good prelates and curates."

Feb. 24.
Manor of Dromany.

52. Sir John Fitzgerald to the King. Complains of the injuries done to him and his tenants by the Earl of Desmond. Solicits pardon for the inhabitants of Youghal, who suffered the said Earl of Desmond to land with a great company from certain English ships.

March 24.
Dungannon.

53. Con O'Neill to Wolsey. His readiness to serve the King against the rebels in Ireland. Latin.

1528.
May 10. Cloncurry. 54. Sir Gerot Shanesson [M'Shane] to the King. Prays that the Earl of Ossory may be prevented from disturbing him in the possession of the manor of Cloncurry.
- May 15. Dublin. 55. The Council of Ireland to Wolsey. "Lord Delvin taken prisoner by O'Conor. The Council have chosen Sir Thomas Fitzgerald to be Deputy ad interim." Incloses,
55. i. Walter Wellesley, Prior of Conall to Hugh Inge, Archbishop of Dublin and Chancellor. States that, immediately on the receipt of his letters, he repaired to O'Conor, whom he found on the confines of his country. O'Conor's complaint against the captive Deputy. He will neither make peace nor truce without the consent, of O'Carroll. It is to be feared he will burn Athboy, Mullingar and Trim. 1528, May 15, Ballybogan. [This letter is mentioned in the State Papers, Vol. ii., p. 128, note, as not found at the time of their publication.]
- May 17. Stoke. 56. Thomas third Duke of Norfolk, Lord High Treasurer of England, to Wolsey. Requests the King's letters to the Pope for the Prior of Conall to be Bishop of Kildare. The Archbishop of Cashel is come to petition the King that coin and livery may not be levied in his province. [This cannot be earlier than May 17, 1525, as Surrey, who wrote this, was not Norfolk till his father's death, May 21, 1524. See Index to State Papers.]
- May 20. Caphydyn. 57. Lord James Butler to the Lord Chancellor of Ireland. "Has had an interview with Lord Delvin, in imprisonment at O'Conor's castle, and also with O'Conor himself."
- May 21. 58. Piers Butler, Earl of Ossory, to same. "Measures for combining several chieftains against O'Conor."
- June 10. Waterford. 59. Piers Earl of Ossory to the King. "Tenders his services."
- June 20. Stoke. 60. Duke of Norfolk to Wolsey. "Ascribes the bad state of Ireland to the dissensions between Ossory and Kildare." Incloses,
60. i. Archbishop of Dublin and Chancellor, and Chief Justice Patrick Bermyngham to Norfolk. Cahir Roe O'Conor is likely to be at variance with his brother O'Conor, and trusteth to occupy his room. The variance of the two Earls will destroy the land. There must be more substantial order to make peace between them. Master James Glas, now Bishop of Killaloe, reports that Conor O'Brien, son to the last O'Brien, has confederated his kinsmen together with Cormac Oge M'Carthy, and other Irish Captains. Pray that the Earl of Kildare may be sent back. Recommend Christopher Delahide to be appointed Second Judge of the Common Pleas. 1528, May 30, Dublin. [James Glas must be James O'Corrin. He is given in printed books as succeeding at a later period, but this letter is signed by Hugh Inge, the Archbishop of Dublin, who died in 1528. The Second Judgeship of the Common Pleas was likewise filled up Dec. 19, 1528.]

VOL. I.

- 1528.
- June 26. Hertford. 61. Sir John Russell to Cardinal Wolsey. Giving directions from the King to put the affairs of Ireland in order, and to appoint the Lord of Ossory or Mr. Butler, his son, in the room of the Vice Deputy, Lord Delvin. The King's Majesty is much troubled with this disease of the Sweat; for, as this night, there is fallen sick "my Lord Marques, my Lady Marques," Sir Thomas Cheyne, and Mistress Croke. Mr. Poynes is dead. The King removeth to Bishop's Hatfield.
- July 3. 62. Norfolk to same. "Dissuades the King from appointing Ossory, or his son, Deputy of Ireland."
- Sept. 18. Power's Court. 63. Lord James Butler to Doctor Stevyns [Stephen Gardyner]. Thanks for his manifold kindness in his affairs. Prays Gardyner to move Wolsey to take some pains in reading over his letters.
- Oct. 14. Drogheda. 64. Piers Earl of Ossory to Wolsey. "Has received his commission. Complains of Kildare."
- Oct. 14. Dublin. 65. Lord James Butler to same. "Is flattered by Wolsey's compliments."
66. The Lord Deputy and Council to the King, Wolsey, and others. Report on the state of Ireland.
- Bill for the attainder of James eleventh Earl of Desmond, for treason in receiving and comforting the Lord Kendall [Comte de Candalle], of France, with other Frenchmen, his associates, within his lordships and manors in Ireland, and for privily sending messages to Francis, the French King, then being at war with Henry VIII. Ireland, Case A. No. 2. [After Nov. 10, 1522, and before June 18, 1529, when Desmond died. In this interval there was no Parliament held in Ireland, but in 1528 there was an intention of holding one; and this document is no doubt one of the bills prepared as was customary, under the Great Seal of England, to be sent over and passed in Ireland.]
- 1529.
- March 19. Dublin Castle. 67. Examination of Sir Gerald M'Shane, sworn right solemnly upon the holy mass book and the great relick of Ireland, called Baculum Christi, in presence of the King's Deputy, Chancellor, Treasurer, and Justice. The Earl of Kildare directed the said Sir Gerald M'Shane to retain possession of any lands he withheld from the Earl of Ossory. Sir Walter Delahide and his wife and the Lady Ellys instigated O'Connor in his wars. The Earl of Kildare gave a token to Melour Faa, that if his daughter the Lady Ellys came to Ireland before him, he was not at liberty to return himself. Kildare sent word to his friends to keep peace till St. Nicholas' tide.
- [August.] 68. The King to Sir Wm. Skeffington. "Instructions for his conduct as Lord Deputy of Ireland."
- Oct. 17. 69. Surrey to Wolsey. Fragment, relative to Frenchmen and ships.

Feb. 20.
Dublin.

71. John Topelyff [your Juge in Ireland] to the King. Complains that a secular priest and a secular abbot have by provision put out a good, blessed, religious father and prior, who had been by free election set over an abbey of regular canons in the town of Wexford.

March 19.
Dublin.

72. John Alen, Archbishop of Dublin, to Crumwell. "Applies for a commendam. Has not received his salary."

May.
Greenwich.

73. Depositions of Sir John Rawson the Prior of Kilmainham, and the Lord Chief Justice of Ireland, before the Privy Council, concerning the demeanours of the Lord Deputy, Sir William Skeffyn-gton, and the Earls of Kildare and Ossory. Edmund O'Byrne, the most "arande" thief. Shane Mac Lorkin. Exactions levied.
Imperfect.

Dec. 21.
Bristol.

74. Walter Cowley to Crumwell. "Kildare wounded. Lord Butler married to the heiress of Desmond. M'Gilpatrick taken."

Vol. II. 1533—1535.

1533.

Feb. 26.
Greenwich.

1. The King to the Mayor and City of Waterford. Promises continuance of favour to their city.

July 18.

2. Lord Leonard Grey to Crumwell. To labour secretly to get the manors of Rathwere, Castle Rycard, Rathcoure, Salsheagh, and Salrayne, in Meath, in farm, for his sister the Countess of Kildare and her son Gerald Fitzgerald. She supposeth her husband would be "more gladder" to get these manors unto his eldest son than unto this son that he hath by her.

[July.]

3. Report to Crumwell, "on the disordered state of Ireland, and the remedy for the same."

Oct. 10.
Dublin.

4. Mr. Justice Richard Delahide to Crumwell. He did not receive Crumwell's letter in favour of Thomas Cusake for an office in the Exchequer until after Cusake's departure. The said office had been granted to himself, the salary of Chief Justice being but 24*l.* 9*s.* per annum.

VOL. II.

1533.
Oct. 25. Skeffington. 5. Sir William Skeffington to Crumwell. "Lies in wait for the passage of Kildare."

Nov. 4. Skeffington. 6. Same to same. "Kildare's servants detained at Beaumaris by contrary winds."

7. A treatise by Patrick Fynglas, Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer; being an historical dissertation on the conquest of Ireland, the decay of that land, and measures proposed to remedy the grievances thereof, arising from the oppressions of the Irish nobility.

8. The answer of John Alen, Archbishop of Dublin, to the demand of 100*l.* sterling and one hundred . . . whereof the Earl of Kildare Lord Deputy, and others of the Council, demand account of him. Pleads the pardon and release which he had procured from the King, dated 1532, Feb. 7, as a bar to all further inquiry. Much damaged.

1534.

April 27. Dublin. 9. Mr. Justice Richard Delahide to Crumwell. Has never spoken ill of him. Promises to send him a goshawk after midsummer.

May 17. Youghal. 10. Richard Allen, John Allen, Robert Allen, Jasper Allen, and Melchior Allen to Thomas Allen, Warden of the College of Youghal. The Earl of Desmond marvels greatly at his long tarrying. Thomas Fitzgerald, Lord Offaley, the Earl of Kildare's son, is now with my Lord O'Brien, and does all he can to obtain Desmond's good will. He has burnt all Thomas Allen's corn that lay in Little Beverley. He says he will slay Thomas Allen with his own hand, for causing the Earl of Desmond to be his foe.

11. Report to the King "of the state of Ireland at the time of Kildare's recal from the Deputyship."

May. 12. Skeffington to Crumwell. "Disposal of Irish offices."

May 24. Poplar. 13. Same to same. "Disposal of Irish offices."

May 31. 14. The King and Ossory. "Grant of the government of Kilkenny, Tipperary, Waterford, Ossory, and Ormond, to Ossory, who engages to assist Skeffington, and the King's Deputy for the time being, to reduce Desmond, and to resist the Pope." [This indenture was executed on the day of the Earl of Ossory's departure from England, immediately preceding the commencement of the Geraldine Rebellion, which broke out in June 1534. See Ware's History of Ireland, Henry VIII., pp. 89, 90.]

June 27. 15. Letters patent, granting to Thomas Stevyns the office of Constable of the Castle of Wicklow. Latin.

June. 16. Robert Cowley to Secretary Crumwell. "Outrages committed by Lord Thomas Fitzgerald."

July 9. 17. Thomas Crumwell to his loving friend Mr. Thomas Alen, at London. Rayleigh. Trusted to have received from him at Midsummer last the 100*l.* which of gentleness he lent him. The 700 marks which Archbishop Alen owes to the King. Henry VIII. "is no person to be deluded or mocked withal."
- July 21. 18. Thomas Fynglas to Crumwell. "Fitzgerald's practices with Dublin. O'Conor."
- August 26. 19. George Wilkynsone to same. His intention of going into Crumwell's Ireland. His heart is ill at ease by the ungracious demeanour of Place his wife. Prays Crumwell to be a good master to his poor mother in England. and to his father-in-law in their lawful pursuits.
- August 30. 20. The King to the Mayor, &c. of Waterford. Understands Woodstock. how they have withstood the treason of Thomas Fitzgerald. Assures them he will send such power and succour to aid and maintain them, that the wretched traitor shall be extremely punished.
- [August.] 21. Thomas Alen of Rayleigh to Crumwell. On having intelligence of the murder of his brother, the Archbishop of Dublin, for whom he was surety for many debts, implores assistance to liquidate them. Desires credence to Mr. Lentall and George Alen.
- August. 22. Same to same. Prays his assistance for the discharge of a debt which was owing by his late brother, the Archbishop of Dublin, to the Crown.
- Sept. 24. 23. John Alen to same. Delay at Chester for the Lord Chester. Deputy's horses. Ships to transport Sir W. Brereton and Mr. Salisbury.
- Oct. 4. 24. Same to same. "Skeffington tardy in sailing to Ireland.
Chester. Dublin in danger."
- Nov. 8. 25. H. Halgrave to Thomas Alen, of Rayleigh, in Essex. The pitiful Dublin. death of his brother John, who was slain by the Earl of Kildare's eldest son, the 27th July [it was July 28?]. Hears from Mr. Transfilde that he, Thomas Alen of Rayleigh, has been sore sick through the fall of a horse. Has been a captive from the beginning of July till Oct. 18, when he was ransomed for 50 marks of his own goods.
The rebels took all the Archbishop's goods they could get; and the part which was saved by his naughty steward, Mr. Wm. Brabazon the King's Treasurer has seized, for the 200 marks to be paid at Christmas next. George Alen. Thomas Alen's wife.
- Nov. 9. The King to the Mayor, &c. of Waterford. Thanks for their Westminster. resistance to Thomas Fitzgerald. Will remember them to all their comforts. [See above, 1534, August 30, No. 20.]

26. "Ordinances for the government of Ireland."

29. John Alen to Crumwell. "Proceedings of Fitzgerald, and measures taken against him."

Dec. 26.

30. Instructions for Edward Beck [or A Beck], sent to England with the above letter.

31. Remembrances for Ireland. Mention of the book of the Earl of Kildare's rents and tributes, which is with the Countess of Kildare. The Parliament to be summoned. O'Connor upon his pledges to re-edify Kisshavanna and other piles "prostrate" by him. O'More to suffer Woodstock and the manor of Athy to be repaired. M'Murrough to re-edify the King's castle which he brake. Revenues of the Archbishoprick of Dublin to be called for, to the King's use &c.

Jan. 21.
Christchurch
in Dublin.

32. Deposition of William Lynche, of the Knock, in the County of Meath, Gent. He paid a sum of money to Walter Hosey, of Mellussey, deceased, to the use of Thomas Fitzgerald, the traitor, for safeguard of himself, his castle, lands, and tenants. Thomas Fitzgerald was ruled in his rebellion by Justice Delahide, Dame Janet Eustace, wife to Sir Walter Delahide, steward to Kildare, and her son James.

Feb. 10.
Holyhead.

33. Edward Beck of Manchester to Crumwell. Has been driven by bad weather back from the coast of Ireland. News from Dublin of Feb. 9, that the Lord Deputy and all the King's army are in good health, and lie abroad in the English Pale, so that the traitor Thomas Fitzgerald dares not show himself, and his power clearly goeth from him. They have Janet Eustace and her daughter both prisoners in the castle of Dublin. She has been the great causer of the insurrection of Thomas Fitzgerald, and of her own son, James Delahide.

Feb. 15.
Dublin.

34. Brabazon to same. "Stations of the troops. Want of revenue." Incloses,

34. I. Piers Earl of Ossory to the Lord Deputy. His policy to allure the pretended Earls of Desmond to some good concord. The sending of his son, James Butler, with 60 horse to hold with the Deputy for a season against the rebels. The Earls of Desmond have a malicious rebellion rooted in them ever since the execution of Thomas Earl of Desmond at Drogheda. His costs in keeping his son-in-law [the son of O'Brien] in his allegiance. Has sent to M<sup>r</sup> William, of Clanricard, and Richard Burke's sons, who are his lovers and friends, to annoy the Kellies in their back side, if they attempt to go to Westmeath to aid the rebel, Thomas Fitzgerald, with the 160 horse, which they have prepared. Prays the Deputy to spare Sir John Sayntiloo still longer. 1535, Jan. 17.

VOL. II.

Feb. 20. Dublin. 35. John Darcy to Crumwell. Has been far off on the borders of Irishmen, where he was appointed to do the King service, and could not write nor well indite letters to Crumwell. Crumwell to write to Mr. Wm. Brabazon ever to be good master to him as he is.
36. Sir William Skeffington to same. Desires that the treasure may be sent to Chester, where he will be before the ships do come "vpon the peyne of my lyfe as knowthe Jesus."
- March 12. Dublin. 37. James Boys to same. "All Kildare's effects were carried away by his son Thomas Fitzgerald."
- March 16. Dublin. 38. Thomas Fitz Symon to same. The Lord Deputy, with the King's army and the power of the country, are at the siege of Maynooth. As yet resistance is made against them by the ward. The country is sore oppressed by the holding of James Fitzgerald and Richard with Irish horsemen, whose service was never yet true to the King nor his subjects. Ever since we took Irishmen for our defence, we have never been well defended, which is the occasion that the English inhabitants are gone out of the land. Wishes the King would send for a time, a hundred or a half of Northern spears, and Mr. Bowmer [Bulmer], who was here before and knows the country.
- March 26. Maynooth. 39. Lord Deputy Skeffington and Council to the King. "Siege and capture of Maynooth. Prisoners taken, tried, and executed."
- March 26. 40. Abstract of a journal of the operations of the forces under the command of Lord Deputy Sir William Skeffington, and Sir William Brereton, during the rebellion of Lord Thomas Fitzgerald.
- April 10. Cardiff Castle. 41. Walter Harbartt to Crumwell. Explains the circumstances under which Robert Clere, a man of Waterford, captain of a ship transporting corn for supply of the King's army in Ireland, had been stayed at Cardiff. Scarcity of corn in Wales.
- April 30. Maynooth. 42. Skeffington to the King. "Vindicates himself against the charge of supineness. The Desmonds. Difficulty in taking Fitzgerald. Charge against Archbishop Cromer."
- May 10. Maynooth. 43. Lord Deputy Skeffington and Council to Crumwell. Commend the prowess of the bearer, Anthony Mores, for faithful service, with 17 others, servants of the Prior of Kilmainham. The said Mores boldly went out of the gates of Dublin, and with his own hand slew divers of the rebel's best footmen.

VOL. IV.

June 24.
Mulranean.

27. Walter Brown, of Mulranean, John Deverus and Alexander Ketyng, of County Wexford, to Crumwell. Complain that William Sayntloo, Watkin Apowell, and the 46 persons retained are not sufficient for the protection of Wexford. Propose that 5,000 or 6,000 persons, part soldiers and part husbandmen, should be planted between Dublin and Wexford; or otherwise, that the King should lease the County of Wexford to them for 100 marks, they making covenant to defend the same, and to pay all the officers of the said county their fees.

June 26.
Dublin.

28. The Council of Ireland to the King. Assault of O'Connor's new castle called the Dengan, built in a morass, and surrounded by great ditches and waters.

June 26.
Dublin.

29. The Council to Crumwell. "Capture of Dengan Castle. Praise Gray. Offaley committed to Cahir O'Connor. They recommend that Cahir should be elsewhere provided for, and Offaley settled; or, that he should have a grant of it, and be made a Baron. Athlone Castle obtained. Want of ordnance."

June 30.
Wexford.

30. Sovereign and Commons of Wexford to same. Thanks for the continuance of their liberties. Their town lies open on one side to the King's enemies, whereby they sustain great damage. Their ill market, as few strangers with their ships resort to their town for the ill entering into their haven. They have 500 men able to do the King service. Pray for remission of a chief rent of 18 marks, 3 shillings, and 5 pence sterling, for the reparation and defence of the town.

- Nov. 30. 46. John Bolter of London, Goldsmith, to Crumwell. Can have no furtherance in his causes before the Lord Chancellor, but is driven from term to term by the importunity of Patrick Barnewall, the King's Serjeant. His consanguinity with the Judges. Sir John Spelman drew out a book according to the truth and the whole truth of all the circumstances, and set his hand to it. Justice Luttrell is corrupt.
Dublin.
- Nov. 47. Nicholas Comyn, Bishop of Waterford, and Wm. Walsh to same. About certain lands and tenements at Youghal, in dispute between David Shyoghan, Crumwell's servant, and Alexander Gough, priest, which upon trial they had awarded to Gough.
Youghal.
- Dec. 10. Crumwell to the High Commissioners Sentleger, &c. "Answer to their dispatch of November 15." [See 1537, Oct. 6, No. 27.]
Oatlands.
- Dec. 10. 48. C. Lord of Howth to Crumwell. Sends a cast of falcons. Prays for letters in favour of his suits to the Lord Chancellor and the Master of the Rolls.
Howth.
- Dec. 13. 49. Crumwell to Gray. "O'Connor."
Oatlands.
- Dec. 18. 50. Deputy and Council and Terence O'Toole. "Submission for three years."
- Dec. 25. 51. Letter from the High Commissioners to Lord James Fitz John of Desmond. To lose no time in forwarding the proofs of his claim to the Earldom of Desmond; and to let them know how he intends to employ the 300 men he has requested to reduce Munster to obedience.

VOL. V.

Dec. 28. 52. Draft of the form of an indenture, granting lease for 21 years of lands in the County of Meath, with condition to use the English laws and language, and to have no connection with the rebel Irish.
- Dec. 30. 53. Brabazon to Crumwell. "Commissioner's survey. O'Connor's success in Offaley, and concord with Cahir O'Connor. Grant to Brabazon. Parliament. Desmond. Gerald Fitzgerald." Incloses, Dublin.
53. I. Schedule of the Acts passed in the first, second, and third Sessions of the Parliament in Ireland, 28 and 29 Hen. VIII.
- Dec. 31. 54. Gray to the King. Account of his proceedings against Brian Maynooth. O'Connor. O'Connor made an offer to submit, but he was dissuaded to come to the Lord Deputy by his brother Cahir.
- Dec. 31. 55. Gray to Crumwell. "Hostings against O'Connor. Submission Maynooth. of O'Molmoy. Cahir O'Connor has joined his brother. Gray asks leave of absence. "Wants artillery."
- Dec. 31. 56. Thomas Agard to same. "The Commissioners have visited Dublin. Meath, Louth, and Dublin. O'Connor."
57. Proclamation for settling the currency in Ireland, by assimilating it to the same value as the coin in England.
58. Account of the lands of the late Earl of Kildare, forfeited to the King for high treason; 894*l.* 11*s.* 7*½d.* per annum.
59. Pay of the garrison of the King's castle of Dublin.

- Jan. 19. 5. Gray to Crumwell. "The Priory of Christchurch to be converted into a Deanery."
Maynooth.
- Jan. 23. 6. Mayor and Aldermen of Dublin to same. "On the same subject."
Dublin.
- Jan. 24. 7. Francis Harbart to Duke of Norfolk. A truce for 15 days with Dublin. O'Connor and his brother Cahir O'Connor. The last hosting that my Lord Deputy made punished O'Connor sorely. If my Lord of Ormond and my Lord Butler would join their best endeavours with the Lord Deputy, they might soon banish the O'Conors out of their country. Wishes that Englishmen were planted in O'Connor's country, which is the only way to bring the wars with the Irish to an end, which wars do but spend the King's treasure. Harbart's service has saved to the King 10,000*l*. His farm of Portlester. Recommends the bearer Barnardying, Gunner, [prob. Bernerdine de Valoys].
- Jan. 29. 8. William Brabazon to Crumwell. Recommends the painful, diligent, and daily service of John Peppes, under Wm. Berners in the missioners to examine the causes of the grudge between the Lord Deputy and the Earl of Ossory and his son before their departure. Order to be taken for the sure keeping of the King's records, for as they be handled now it is pity to see them. They should be delivered by indenture to a keeper. Any person who would make search, to pay both for the search and for the copy of the record. Likewise order for the building of the Castle Hall, where the law is kept, for if the same be not builded, the majesty and estimation of the law shall perish, the Justices being enforced to minister the laws upon hills, as it were Brehons or wild Irishmen. O'Reilly's fine of the thousand kine would build it, and amend the gaol of Trim.

- March 3. 16. Piers Earl of Ossory to the High Commissioners. Detailing his exertions in reducing various chieftains to obedience.
- March 4. 17. James Lord Butler Viscount Thurles to the same. "O'Conor. Clonmel. The Kavanaghs."
- March 4. Copy of the above. [See March 3, No. 16.]
- March 8. 18. High Commissioners Sentleger, &c. to Crumwell. "O'Conor Dublin. has submitted. James of Desmond has delivered his son."
- March 9. 19. J. Alen to same. "Poulet's slander of Crumwell." Dublin.
- March 9. 20. Mr. Robert Cowley to same. Relative to slanderous words Dublin. spoken of his Lordship by Mr. Poulet. Exertions of the Lord Deputy and Lord Butler to reduce O'Conor.
- March 9. 21. Interrogatories relative to scandalous words spoken by Mr. George Poulet or any others, respecting the Lord Privy Seal Crumwell, and particularly that the King used frequently to call him Knave, and beat him about the head in the Council Chamber.
- March 9. 22, 23, 24. Answers of John Alen, Master of the Rolls, the Lord Chief Justice Aylmer, and Mr. William Berners, to the preceding interrogatories. [Three papers.]
- March 11. 25. Gray to Crumwell. "Submission of O'Conor." Incloses, Dublin.
25. I. Manner and form of the Parliament between the Lord Deputy and O'Conor, held in the open fields in Offaly, wherein the latter promises to come to Dublin, and submit himself to the King's mercy. March 2, Offaly.
25. II. Submission of Brian O'Conor, Lord of Offaly, before the Lord Deputy, the High Commissioners, and the Council of Ireland. March 6, Dublin.
26. Copy of the above submission, and translation of the same.

 March 16. 28. Edward Staples Bishop of Meath to Crumwell. Expresses Dublin. his willingness to serve the King, as well in the Parliament as in other places. Sends a small present. Desires him to send the obligation for 20*l.*, which he [the Bishop] had borrowed, and he would pay the money to Mr. Treasurer.
- March 17. 29. Lord Deputy Gray to the King. Attack on a strong castle Dublin. belonging to Cahir O'Connor. Narrow escape of Cahir in the assault. He surrendered next day, and made submission. Entreats the King to be good to his poor nephew [Dudley] the bearer.
- March 17. 30. Same to Crumwell. "Cahir O'Connor has surrendered and Dublin. submitted. Asks leave to return to England." Incloses, 30. 1. Submission of Cahir O'Connor before the Lord Deputy, the High Commissioners, and the Privy Council of Ireland. March 6,
Dublin.
- March 20. 31. Francis Harbart to Crumwell. This poor land was not these 20 years in better unity and peace. The Lord Deputy has made peace with O'Connor and his brethren. The Commissioners are making ready to return, and with them Justice Aylmer and the Master of the Rolls. The Commissioners have used themselves "lyke as vys men as ewer I sawe here." Has taken in farm the manor of Portlester, which was the Earl of Kildare's.
- March 27. 32. Earl of Ormond and Ossory to the King. Has consulted with Waterford. the High Commissioners, and drawn up a series of orders and constitutions to extirp the enormities and abuses accustomed in the Counties of Kilkenny, Waterford, and Tipperary, and to plant good civility.
- March 28. 33. James White to Crumwell. "Waterford, Kilkenny, and Dublin. Tipperary in a good state. A friar preaches against the dissolution.
 Gray has alienated the affections of faithful subjects."
- March 31. 34. Lord Butler to the King. "Applauds the preaching of the Dublin. Word of God. Praises the Archbishop of Dublin."
 35. "The Form of the Beads."
 36. Copy of the above form.
- April 1. 37. Gray to Crumwell. "The High Commissioners are on the Dublin. point of departure. Have done well. O'Connor wishes to take Offaley of the King."
- April 4. 38. Thomas Agard to same. "Enumerates Brabazon's merits.
 Dublin. Aylmer, J. Alen, R. Cowley, and Cusake accompany the Commissioners. The characters of the latter."
- April 5. 39. Same to same. "Those in authority all adhere to the Pope, Dublin. except Archbishop Browne, Lord Butler, J. Alen, and Brabazon."
- April 5. 40. Patrick Barnewall, of Fieldston, to same. "Praises the Dublin. Commissioners and Brabazon. Acts of Parliament. Inn of Chancery.
 Leases. Attorney General, and Prime Serjeant."

VOL. VI.

1538.

April 5.
Dublin.

41. Patrick Barnewall, of Fieldston, to Wriothlesley. Thanks for his goodness to him. The High Commissioners may declare the state of Ireland; they are substantial and politic men. They have taken great pains with the Treasurer's account and the making of the extent. He was inforced to pay 200*l.* for one of the King's wards. Some go about to avoid a certain lease, that he has, of the late house of Cartmel in Lancashire for 35 years. The Treasurer has proved himself a true man to his Master. Sends a blue Galway "mantyll" as a present.

April 14.
Dublin.

42. Edward Basnet, Dean of St. Patrick's, to Crumwell. Thanks for his favour in promoting him to the Deanery. Complains that the Archbishop of Dublin would not confirm his election without a payment of 200*l.*

April 15.
Drogheda.

43. Gray to the King. "Has cut passes towards Offaley. Has made a journey into Ferney, and taken booty. Wishes to go to England."

April 15.
Drogheda.

44. Same to Crumwell. On the same subject.

April 15.
Dublin.

45. Geo. Browne, Archbishop of Dublin, to J. Alen, Master of the Rolls. "Complains of the Bishop of Meath's sermons. Insinuates Gray's connivance."

April 20.
Dublin.

46. John Alen to Wriothlesley. Thanks him for the letters of Crumwell, dated Feb 24. Crumwell has been very evil informed of him without good cause. Sends "nine marterne skynnes" by Mr. Dudley. Commendations to Mr. Godsalve. [Mr. Dudley was Gray's nephew, and the bearer of Gray's letters of March 17.]

April 24.
Dublin.

47. Vice Treasurer Brabazon to Crumwell. Thanks him for obtaining the farm of Duleek. Crumwell to detain out of the next treasure 60*l.* sterling for his good will in the preferment of Sir Edward Basnet to the room of Dean of St. Patrick's. Has set good spials about William Dormor, who has neither money nor jewels. Has always practised the utmost frugality in the management of the revenues. At his coming, he "had neither scrip ne scrowe ner no pece of a rentall." His suit with Mr. Hastings about a title of land. Prays Crumwell to be good to the Chief Justice, who is a right honest and substantial man.

April 26.
Dublin.

48. Matthew King to same. "Gray invades Ferney. O'Conor obedient. Cahir O'Conor afraid of his brother."

April 26.
Waterford.

49. William Wyse of Waterford to same. Sends by his son, Henry Wyse, a letter, containing intelligence of a seditious tendency, that he had taken from the parish clerk of St. John's, who had it from a monk of Bath, called Brystow. Incloses,

49. i. Alexander Brystow to Edmund Walshe, at Waterford. Has received his letter with a saffron purse. Sends him half a pound of leek-seed for which he paid eightpence. Reproves him for babbling about a letter of news he had written to him, and desires it may be returned. Feb. 23.

VOL. VI.

April 27. 50. Matthew Kyng to Wriothesley. Arrived April 24. The Dublin. Lord Deputy at Drogheda, in a readiness to go in hosting into the country of Ferney. O'Connor is now likely to do well. He has been all this Easter with the Lord Deputy at Maynooth. Cahir O'Connor is now in Dublin. Desires the office of Carlingford jointly with Martin Pellys. Has done nothing with Sir John Rawson, Prior of Kilmainham. Has bespoken the blankets for Wriothesley, but it will be midsummer before he can have them done.
- April 30. 51. W. Brabazon to Crumwell. "James of Desmond has besieged Carrickogonell. Sermons of the Archbishop and Bishop of Meath.
Asks payment of the balance of his account."
- April. 52. Narrative of the treachery of Finnin O'Driscoll, Conochor his son, and Gilly Duff his base son, in seizing on a ship of Waterford, which they had succoured in distress off Innishirican; with the revenge of the Waterfordians.
- April. 53. Book by Robert Cowley:—The state of the realm of Ireland.
Phelim Bacagh O'Neill, Lord of Claneboy, as great a man of strength as O'Neill. M'Willie [M'Quillin] a Welshman of the English conquest.
M'Davy a Welshman, and divers gentlemen of the English race, rebellious in Connaught. M'Murrough, who calleth himself Prince of Leinster. O'Brien, beyond the Shannon, hath the hardiest band of men in Ireland. Investigation of the disaffection and disobedience of Ireland. The greatness and perverseness of Kildare.
[Copy. This paper was among the MSS. of Dr. Meredith Hanmer, and is probably in the handwriting of Thady Dowling, the Irish antiquary.]
- May-9. 54. Wm. Dormor to Crumwell. To write another letter to the Dublin. Council in his favour, for the office of Serjeant of the County of Kildare. [*The Commissioners were directed to appoint Mr. Aylmer, Chief Serjeant of Kildare, 1537, Aug. 25. See also Cowley's letter,
1539, Feb. 18.*]
- May 13. 55. Indictment against Peter Fitzgerald, late of the Great Grange, by Cloncurry, in Kildare, Maurice Bacagh Fitzgerald, Edmund Asbold, of Maynooth, servant of Lord Leonard Gray, and James Fitzgerald, of Ballysonan, for instigating Kedagh O'More of Stradbally, Shane M'Coyn of Kildare, and Neale O'Lalor of Disart, gent., to steal cows and horses from the Earl of Ormond and Alexander Fitz Turlough, of the Great Grange. Stephen Ap Harry of Rathangan, gent., received ten cows from the aforesaid Kedagh, for comfort and favour. Latin.
- May 19. 56. Gray to the King. "Has made terms with O'Neill. O'Reilly Dublin. alarmed."
- May 20. 57. George Browne, Archbishop of Dublin, to Crumwell. "Gray Dublin. has released a man the Archbishop had imprisoned. Complaints of Gray, Staples, and Rawson."
- May 21. 58. Same to same. "Suppression of religious houses. His debt Dublin. to Lord Rochford. Rumour of Crumwell's death."

VOL. VI.

May 22.
Roscarlon.

59. Wm. Sayntloo to Crumwell. Prays that certain wages for a constable and certain soldiers for the custody of the castle of Roscarlon may be continued.

May 25.
Dublin.

60. Thomas Fynglas to same. Informing him of a practice of the Abbots and Priors to grant long leases of the Abbey lands, in expectation that their houses would be suppressed. The Lord Deputy has obtained a lease of the lands of the Abbey of St. Mary, near Dublin, besides many others, for his own benefit.

[May.]

61. W. Cowley to same. "Dissension in the Council. Howth. Bath. Gerald M'Gerald. Golding. John Field. Ormond. Butler. O'Neill. O'Donnell."

62. A device to deceive the rebels and apprehend young Fitzgerald.

VOL. VII. 1538, JUNE—DECEMBER.

June 4.
Dublin.

1. Gray to the King. "Parley and agreement with O'Carroll. O'Toole has entrapped and slain Kelway, the Constable of Rathmore. Asks leave of absence. Has practised with William Wyse to persuade James of Desmond to repair to Court, and to catch Gerald Fitzgerald. Wants artillery."

June 5.
Dublin.

2. Thomas Luttrell to Aylmer. "Marriage of Lady Eleanor Fitzgerald. Gerald Fitzgerald has gone with her into Ulster. O'Toole. O'Reilly. O'More. Ormond."

[June.]

3. Ormond to R. Cowley. "Complaints against Gray."

June 6.

4. William Brabazon to Crumwell. Recommends Martin Pellys to be appointed to the farm of Rathmore, vacant by the death of John Kelway, lately slain by the Tooles.

June 10.
Dublin.

5. The Council of Ireland to same. "Peace with the M'Mahons of Ferney. Dispute with O'Reilly. O'More's dissensions. Ormond, O'Toole. O'Donnell's marriage. O'Carroll's death."

June 10.

6. Edward Staples Bishop of Meath to same. The Lord Deputy and Council have committed the examination of his late sermon made at Kilmainham to the Prior of Christchurch, the Chanter of St. Patrick's, and Nicholas Stanihurst. The Archbishop of Dublin of malice and disdain has accused him.

June 20.
Tallagh.

7. George Browne, Archbishop of Dublin, to same. "Destruction of images. Gray has gone to maintain O'Carroll."

[June.]

8. Aylmer and Alen's articles of accusation against Lord Leon. Gray:—"Combination with Poulet and the Geraldines. Hosting against O'Conor. Taking horses, &c. of Lord Delvin and others, and giving them to their Irish enemies. Not restoring them when ordered. Frightening Cahir O'Conor into a peace with his brother. Lying in ambush for O'Conor when upon safe conduct. Imprisonment of O'More. Not taking Gerald Fitzgerald. Receiving fines to excuse persons from hosting against O'Brien. Suffering Niall More O'Neill, when upon safe conduct, to be wounded. Making roads during peace into Ferney and on O'Reilly. Invading O'Byrne when under fine. Spoiling the rhymers, and Brian M'Mahon and Cahir Modder O'Reilly. Letting Cahir M'Arte Kavanagh, and Theobald Fitz Piers, a Geraldine, escape. Assessing the country for his provisions. Taking coin and livery. Not punishing malefactors. Not keeping a sufficient household. Not restoring the hosting money unapplied. Pressing horses and carriages."

June. 9. Original duplicate of the preceding document.

June 25. 10. Ormond to the Council of Ireland. "Gerald Fitzgerald and Kilkenny. Lady Eleanor have gone through Desmond and Clanricard to O'Donnell. Remonstrates against Gray's taking Birr and Modreeny. O'Carroll has married himself to O'Brien's daughter, and his sister to James of Desmond."

June. 11. Articles of complaint exhibited by the Earl of Ormond against the Lord Deputy Gray.

June. 12. Articles of accusation of the Chieftain O'More against the Lord Deputy. Has been grievously entreated.

June 27. 13. Gerald Aylmer, Justice, and John Alen to Crumwell. There Chester. has been no wind to pass into Ireland for a month. Desire Crumwell to be good to the bearers, agents for the City of Dublin, which does more service than all the other cities of Ireland. Good acquittal of the citizens against the traitor Thomas Fitzgerald.

June 27. 14. Aylmer and Alen to Sentleger. "Imprudence of Gray in going Chester. with a small retinue to parley with O'Brien, &c. Dissension between him and Ormond. Suppression of the abbeys."

[June 29.] 15. Stephen ap Harry to Crumwell. Expedition of the Lord Limerick. Deputy into O'Carroll's country. Submission of O'Carroll, Dermot O'Kennedy, Mac O'Brien Arra, Dermot O'Mulryan, and Tibbot O'Burke. James of Desmond commanded to cast down the strong castles built on O'Brien's Bridge. Donough O'Brien has promised to put in his pledge. Edmund Sexten has parleyed with the great O'Brien.

June 29. 16. Copy of the above.

June. 17. Charges against the Lord Deputy Gray. Rumour that the Lord Leonard Gray, now Deputy, and John Alen, Master of the Rolls, are sworn brethren.

July 14. 18. Stephen Ap Harry to Crumwell. His servant Thomas Stephens. Galway. Operations of the army against Murrough O'Brien. Capture of several castles. James of Desmond. Submission of O'Flaherty, Hugh O'Madden, Managhlyn [Mac Loughlin] O'Madden, and Thomas M'Yoris.

July 16. 19. Ormond to R. and W. Cowley. "A present of hawks for Callan. Crumwell. Meeting between Gray and James of Desmond. Gray is gone with O'Brien and Desmond to invade Murrough O'Brien, and is going with Clanricard against M'William. Sir John Seyntloe. Assault on Cahir M'Carthy's men. Fear of the Kavanaghs' design to lay siege to the castle of Fernes. O'More. Modreeny taken."

July 18. 20. John Prowd to Wriothlesley. Thanks him for putting forth Dublin. his bill for the office of Carlingford.

July 20. 21. Ormond to R. Cowley. "Reconciliation between O'Donnell and Callan. O'Connor of Connaught, in support of Gerald Fitzgerald. Messengers sent from Gerald for aid from Scotland. Gray's movements will encourage them. Birr and Modreeny delivered to O'Carroll. Misunderstanding between Gray and Desmond compromised. Gray's breach of promise to Donough O'Brien. Gray occupied for his own lucre, without advice of the Council. Delivered Clare Castle to Ulick Burke for money. Strengthens James of Desmond."

July 24. 22. Brabazon, Aylmer, and J. Alen to Crumwell. "Gray in Dublin. Galway. His intention unknown to the Council. A hosting prepared against O'Toole. Gray promised to return, but failed to come. Gray under the guidance of O'Carroll, O'Connor, and the Geraldines. Breach widened between Gray and Ormond, but they hope to heal it. Confederation between O'Neill and O'Donnell in favour of Gerald Fitzgerald. Aid from Scotland."

July 25. 23. Thomas Agard to same. The Lord Deputy has gone on Beetive. an expedition, and taken all the King's ordnance out of Dublin Castle, and only 100 Englishmen or few more with him. Ferdinando O'Carroll made chief of O'Carroll's country. He favours the Geraldines on every occasion, and has connived at the escape of young Fitzgerald. Mr. Agard laments the dissensions between the Lord Deputy and the Butlers, who are the most faithful subjects the King has in Ireland. Desires the seneschalship of Wexford, which W. Sayntloo has.

July 26. 24. Gray to the King. "Gives a minute description of his Maynooth. expedition to Offaley, Ely O'Carroll, Ormond, Arra, O'wney, Limerick, Thomond, Clanricard, Galway, &c. Many chiefs submit."

July 26. 25. Gray to Crumwell. On the same subject as the above.
Maynooth.

July 26. 26. Sir Richard Gresham to same. The merchants of Dublin
London. refuse to allow the merchants of London to trade into Dublin. Beseeches him to call the Recorder of Dublin, and others now attending in London, and to take order with them for the citizens of London to enjoy liberties in Dublin. Incloses,

26. I. Willian Lye and Thomas Crocker to the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of London. Complain that the Mayor and citizens of Dublin will not suffer them to buy nor sell with any man within their liberties. June 17, Dublin.

July 27. 27. G. Browne Archbishop of Dublin to Crumwell. Requesting that Dublin. he would direct the Bishop of Meath to produce a certain letter which contained calumnious and unfounded assertions against him.

VOL. VII.

August 5. 28. R. Cowley to Crumwell. "Suggests points on which a messenger from Ireland should be examined as to Gray's conduct. Death of Lord Chancellor Trymleteston. J. Alen recommended as his successor."
London.
- August 10. 29. Thomas Alen to Wriothesley. The Master of the Rolls is now with the Lord Deputy at Maynooth. The Lord Treasurer is detained by reason of war made upon him by James, pretended Earl of Desmond and O'Carroll. Mr. Treasurer, the Justice, and the Master of the Rolls have brought the country into good quietness.
Dublin.
- August 10. 30. Same to Sentleger. Wishes he might once again see him in Ireland. Trusts that at the coming of the Lord Treasurer, both the Lord Deputy, the Earl of Ormond, and he shall be agreed, and all displeasures set apart. Death of the Lord Chancellor Trymleteston [John Barnewall]. The Seal committed to the custody of the Master of the Rolls [Alen]. The Chancellor's fee is too small. Marvels that Mr. Cusake procured Mr. Poulet [at Chester] to write to the Lord Deputy that the said Cusake would do no hurt against him the Deputy.
Dublin.
- August 10. 31. Same to R. Cowley. "Ormond at war with Desmond and O'Carroll. Death of Trymleteston. If John Alen succeeds, R. Cowley will be Master of the Rolls. Commends Brabazon, Aylmer, and J. Alen. Prospect of reconciliation between Gray and Ormond."
Dublin.
- August 15. 32. Walter Cowley to Mr. Wriothesley. For letters to be directed to the Master of the Rolls, Mr. Treasurer, and the Chief Justice, to examine indifferently the truth in a cause wherein a friend of Cowley's is defendant, and the plaintiff is much maintained by the greatest possessioners in Wexford. - [Oct. ?] 49. Walter Cowley, Solicitor General of Ireland, to the Privy Tower of Council. Has this day received the Lord Deputy Sentleger's letter, London. wherein he writes, that if Cowley can show that he is not the inventor of those matters which he had set forth foolishly, he should have the more favour at the King's hands. Desires their Lordships to send the whole book of articles to him and John Goldsmyth, Clerk of the Council of Ireland. Cantwell made the Earl of Ormond

53. Walter Cowley to the Privy Council. The report of Cantwell, that the Lord Deputy Sentleger should compass to destroy Ormond. The letter found at Gowran was devised to save Cantwell harmless. Walter Cowley never bore malice to the Lord Deputy Sentleger for his father Robert Cowley's sake. Desires to be imprisoned in some house of the Lord Chancellor Sir Thomas Wriothesley. W. Cowley was never privy to the letters found in Ross and other places. Catherine Coke, one of the Lady Sentleger's gentlewomen, reported to Richard Fitzsimons, that the Lord Deputy hated Ormond above all men living. His wife and household in Ireland can testify how much he was grieved after his interview with Cantwell. Sentleger's words to O'Connor, "that hault prowde gentilman therll of Ormond accusith me for thy sake, but if thow wilt repair into England, thow shalt see part of ther flatt necks strokin of." Cowley trusts that their Lordships' noble hearts will incline to show mercy on him whose sorrowful letters "cumith to your honourable hands, amiddes your noble Joyfull feaste." ## EDWARD VI.

VOL. I. 1547—1548.

1547.
March 6. 1. Joan Countess of Ormond and Ossory to the Lord Protector Kilkenny. Edward Duke of Somerset. Objects to the imposition of 20s. upon every tun of her third part of the prize wines. Mr. Robert Sentleger has declared to her that her late husband's ancient servants and tenants shall be put from their dwellings, and others appointed in their rooms. Ormond committed his son to Somerset's tuition and protection aldernext unto the King.
- March 25. 2. Lord Protector and Privy Council to the Lord Deputy Sir Anthony Sentleger and Council. In answer to instructions declared to them by the late Dean of St. Patrick's and Henry Draycot. The King intends to renew their several commissions. Directions for the disposal of the ornaments of St. Patrick's. The Dean to have a pension of 200 marks. The exchange of monies.
- April 7. 3. The King to the same. To charge the Vice Treasurer to forbear the payment of the wages due to William Cantwell and his man.
Pensions granted to Piers Walshe, Oliver Nugent, and Owen Whyte.
The Archbishop of Armagh, Sir William Wyse, and Francis Harbart to be of the Council. The Lady Cecile, daughter of the late Earl of Kildare, allowed to retain certain plate which belonged to her father.
Grants to Harbart, John Parker, Walter Pepparde, John Goldsmyth, and others. Hugh O'Neill to have 10*l.* annuity, in augmentation of his living.
- July 6. 4. Joan Countess of Ormond and Ossory to Mr. Cecill, Master of Lambeth. Requests. To induce the Lord Protector not to change his conclusion for the Abbey of Leix. Mr. Barnaby's suit therein would much injure her.
- Sept. 29. Account of arrears of revenue arising from divers manors, lands, and tenements, as well of the ancient hereditaments of the Crown as of the attainted lands of Gerald Earl of Kildare and of the possessions of the dissolved religious houses for several years, ending at Michaelmas, 1 Edward VI. [Ireland, Folios, Vol. v., No. 1.]
- Sept. 29. Duplicate of the above. [Ireland, Folios, Vol. v., No. 2.]

VOL. I.

1547.
Sept. 29. Two rolls of accounts of Sir William Brabazon, Knight Vice Treasurer of Ireland, for seven years, from Michaelmas 33 Henry VIII. [Sept 29, 1541,] to Michaelmas 1 Edward VI. [Sept. 29, 1547,] inclusive. [Ireland, Folios, Vol. v., Nos. 3 and 4.]
- Sept. 5. Book of the total of all the sums received by Sir William Brabazon, Vice Treasurer of Ireland, for seven years, being 90,822*l.* 7*s.* 11½*d.*
- [Sept.] Roll indorsed "An answer from Mr. Brasier to the articles of the accounts found faulty." [Ireland, Case A., No. 4.]
- Oct. 15. 6. The King to the Earl of Desmond. Thanks for good service against rebels. Offers "to have your eldest son to attend here upon our person, and to be brought up in our company."
- Oct. 24. 7. Privy Council to the Lord Deputy and Council. Thank them Hampton Court. for their service done. Direct that the garrisons be reduced to the old number of 500. Leave for Sir Edward Bellyngham to repair to England. If O'Connor come in, he is to make a simple submission.
- Nov. 2. 8. Same to the same. To place the retinue on the Borders. The Shene. Lord Deputy to remain near them; to cause nightly watch to be kept. If the rebels increase, to make truce with them, and to accept of their submissions, except O'Connor.
- Dec. 1. 9. Same to Sir Edward Bellyngham. To stay his journey to Somerset Place. England, and content himself to remain still for a season in Ireland. Report that Garret [Fitzgerald] has returned to Ireland.
10. Device of George Browne, Archbishop of Dublin, for converting the lately suppressed Cathedral Church of St. Patrick's beside Dublin into a University, the church now called St. Patrick's to be named the Church of the Holy Trinity, and the college to be called Christ's College of the foundation of King Edward VI.
1548. 1548.
- Feb. 25. 11. Edmund Butler, Archbishop of Cashel, to the Protector Kilkenny. Somerset. Has done his best for the quiet of the country since the departure of the Countess Dowager of Ormond. Bellyngham has opened the very gate of the right reformation. Commends Walter Cowley's earnest truth in declaration of abuses. His father died in England; and Walter, after long durance, is now repairing thither.
- March 1. 12. John Butler of Ardmaile to the Lord Deputy Sentleger. Moyale. The White Knight refuses to appear before the Commissioners at [Mallow ?] Limerick to answer the charge of keeping the said John's wife and goods. O'Dwyer and his wife have agreed to send a good horse and 60 kine to maintain the White Knight.
- March 18. 13. Dispensation to Peter Lewes, clerk, to hold the rectory of Dublin. Mourne, co. Down. together with the office of chaplain to Sir Anthony Sentleger, K.G., Lord Deputy of Ireland. Latin.
- April 10. 14. Thomas Lord Wharton to the Lord Deputy Sentleger. In Carlisle. favour of the bearer Cornelius O'Sheridan, Irishman, who has served well on the Borders about Carlisle.

VOL. I.

- 1548.
- April 12. Greenwich. 15. The King to the Mayor of Galway. Announcing the recall of Sir Anthony Sentleger, and the appointment of Sir Edward Belyngnam, Knight, one of the Gentlemen of the Privy Chamber, to be Lord Deputy. [A like letter was sent to the Mayor of Limerick.]
- Tuesday. Carlow. 16. Anthony Colcloght and Brian Jonys to the Lord Deputy Belyngnam. Have delivered his letters to Cahir M'Arte Kavanagh, who refused to restore the prey, and denied that the thief was his man. He said he would no man to be hanged for stealing only, sticking to the Brehon law of restitution. They have got back the horse which was taken in Moryt Oge's prey. Sir Richard Butler did not come according to his promise to answer on his part; his examples are evil to all men, as taking of preys, bordrages, wounding of men by the night, and taking gentlewomen prisoners.
- May 27. Carlow. 17. Anthony Colcloght to the same. Stating that the bearer, Moryett Oge, was coming to submit himself, who complained of being ill-used by Watkin Apowell.
- May 28. Rathmore. 18. Edward Plunket, of Rathmore, to the same. Informing him that he is charged with certain horsemen to answer the King's affairs, and requesting him to write to the Cessors of the barony of Kenlis and Lune to furnish him with carts as his predecessors had.
- Sunday. Cleryston. 19. George Deverus to Mr. John Axssame. Complaining of ill treatment from Robert Roche in presence of Sir Walter Brown and others, he being there to serve the King's writ; and that Hamen Chever had been robbed of some horses he had taken in an hosting with Watkin Apowell.
20. John Brereton, Esq., Grand Captain of certain soldiers, to the Lord Deputy Belyngnam. Apologising for not waiting on him on his arrival in Ireland, being placed by the late Lord Deputy on the borders of Kildare, where every night or second night he is constrained to answer the cries and watch fires, both on horseback and on foot.
- June 11. Galway. 21. Mayor and Commons of Galway to the same. Congratulate him on his appointment. State that, by direction of the late Deputy Sentleger, they had raised an army of 800 men for 21 days, and borrowed money to defray the charges. The delay of the repayment has occasioned great distress.
- June 13. County of Waterford. 22. Freeholders of the County of Waterford to the same. Certifying that the Lord Power had, without right, cessed and distrained upon them six shillings upon every plough land, reserving all lands that hitherto have been free.
- June 18. In the Newgate of Dublin. 23. Henry Dillon to the same. It is now the time to carry out the device for a feat of war which he had recommended. Desires the loan of 10*l.* to rescue him from prison, where he lies in irons.
- June 21. Cashel. 24. Edmund Lord of Dunboyne to the same. Teig ne Carrige Carroll, the Calough O'Carroll's servant, and O'Meagh's sons had preyed his manor called Fymoyn, and two other towns; which they had done because he had discharged his men, according to his Lordship's pleasure.

VOL. I.

1548.

25. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to Lord Dunboyne, in answer. Telling him that he lied falsely; for that he [the Lord Deputy] had not willed him to discharge any true men, but only malefactors.

June 27.
Cork.

26. Mayor, Bailiffs, and Council of Cork to Sir Edward Bellyngham, knight, one of the King's Majesty's Privy Chamber and Lord Deputy of Ireland. Have sent the bearer, John Copinger, to the King to procure the ratification and confirmation of their grants and liberties.

July 8.

27. Mayor, &c. of Youghal to same. A pirate named Smith had plundered some of their fishing boats; they have captured him and other pirates; request to know what to do with them.

July 15.
Youghal.

28. Same to same. Have received his letters by James Brown, which they will fulfil to their utmost power.

July 15.
Kinsale.

29. Sovereign and Council of Kinsale to same. Had received his letters of the 14th July. All their men died of the pestilence, and they have a wide empty town, few men, and naughty neighbours. Their haven is stopped by Eagle's pirates, who will not suffer any victual to come to them. Now of late came one Richard Colle, a pirate, with a pinnace, and has married Barry Oge's aunt, and dwells in his castle, and will not suffer any to come to the town.

July 16.
Kinsale.

30. Same to same. Will see that no soldiers or other persons leave the realm without special licence or sure passport. Request letters to be sent to M'Carthy Reagh, Barry Roe, Lord Courey, and Barry Oge, commanding them to take the King's coin.

July 16.
Cork.

31. Mayor, &c. of Cork to same. Have received his letters by James Brown, and will take as much care as they can that no soldiers take shipping to leave the realm. Many English adventurers do much harm to them and the whole line of coast; they haunt the haven mouth, and will be like enough to take them over.

July 21.
Waterford.

32. Mayor, &c. of Waterford to same. Have arrested certain persons out of a great Portugal ship and a Spanish bark whom they suspected to be pirates, and now send them to him under the charge of James Wodloke. Refer to Matthew Kyng, who heard the examination of the same persons.

July 24.
Kinsale.

33. Sovereign and Council of Kinsale to Lord Deputy Bellyngham. Will make a strong fortress or bulwark for the defence of their town.

July 24.
Cork.

34. Mayor, &c. of Cork to same. State of their defences. Arrival of a big ship at Kinsale from St. Malo, going to Galway with wine and to take 15 lasts of hides. John Tomson and his men taken. Richard Stevens, late constable of Dungarvan, killed by O'Sullivan Beare.

July 25.
Wexford.

35. Sovereign of Wexford to same. Stating that a merchant named Nicholas St. John had been robbed on the seas by John Olonye and Thomas Hapykan, of Fécamp, in France, to the value of 600*l*.

VOL. I.

July 25. Galway. 36. Christopher Bodkin Archbishop of Tuam to Bellyingham. Had expected to see him in Galway. The fame of Bellyingham's proceedings is "divoligated" throughout all Ireland, to the great fear of misdoers and malefactors.
- July 27. Galway. 37. Thomas Kyrwayn, Mayor, and the Council of Galway to same. Have received his letters of the 16th instant, and read to the people the proclamation about all kind of money, silver, and plate. They are unable to make any fortifications on account of their poverty. Importance of their city among Irish enemies and English rebels, being the key of all Connaught, and only succour of the King's army at all times. Their labour and travail night and day. They fear only by sea, for lack of great ordnance. Their neighbours will not receive the new coined money.
- July 31. Waterford. 38. Mayor, &c., of Waterford to the Lord Deputy and Council. Announcing the arrival of Tomson, the pirate, in their port, who threatens to do them mischief for the taking of his boy by Watkin Apowell.
- July ? 39. Lord Deputy Bellyingham to the Lord Chancellor Sir John Alen. To send letters to the Mayor and chief officers of Drogheda, requiring them to furnish certain men and munitions for the war.
40. Same to the same. Desiring him to set a certain galloglas at liberty, and also a Captain of kerne, who was pledge for O'More and who would serve with Owen M'Hugh.
41. John Brereton, Richard Aylmer, Francis Cosbie, and James M'Gerrald to Lord Deputy Bellyingham. The gentlemen of Kildare are willing to serve. The castle of Lea given to James M'Gerrald to keep, who requires two gunners at the King's charges with powder and shot. Redmund Oge, who kept Bealanour [Ballynure] desires to have powder and shot. O'Conor, O'More, and Cahir O'Conor lie within three miles of Rathangan with 500 foot and 24 horsemen. O'Molloy and many galloglasses out of Connaught will draw to them.
42. John Brereton, Aylmer, M'Gerrald, and Robert Maneryng to same. Had appointed a meeting of the gentlemen of the country, and only fourteen appeared. Patrick and the Calough O'Conor are joined with O'Conor and Cahir O'Conor, and they all, with O'More, met at the Abbey of Killethe [Killeigh, King's County,] with O'Carroll, O'Molloy, and Omogowghegan, and had parleyed with the Lords and gentlemen of the country.
- Saturday. Rathmore. 43. Richard Aylmer to same. The Vicar of Rathmore has been with Shane M'Redmund O'Byrne, and his son Hugh M'Shane, at Glandelore [Glendalough], who pray to be protected against Tibbot M'Morrishe, and others, of the Byrnes, who bear them displeasure.
- Thursday. Kildare. 44. John Brereton to same. On Wednesday night a number of kerne came to Rathangan and burnt Raymond Oge's haggard; they went from thence to Clancullen, and then escaped. Owen M'Hugh's kerne lie by the Barrow side, far from us. Raymond Oge was much to blame to suffer his tenants to keep their garrans upon the bog so nigh the wood side.

Sunday.
Kildare.

45. John Brereton to Lord Deputy Bellyngham. A messenger from Cormac O'Connor has been taken in the woods. The garrans that were taken from Raymond Oge have been conveyed away by some neighbours within the country. Has received news that four score kerne have come into the great wood. Has sent to Owen M'Hugh, and intends, with Mr. Mannering, to go abroad to-night.

Monday.
Kildare.

46. Francis Cosbie to same. Raymond Oge has sent word that Cahir O'Connor and his sons have gone to O'Connor and all their goods with them. Has sent to Mr. Seynttloo, and hopes to meet him tomorrow to follow the track of the said goods.

Tuesday.
Kildare.

47. Same to same. Cormac O'Connor is going to his father. Onno M'Hugh is taking pains. Requests a letter to James M'Gerrald to comfort him. O'Connor, O'More, Cormac, and Cahir, with a great company, and their goods are within three miles of Rahaman [now Rathhamman, in Meath.]

Tuesday.
Kildare.

48. Same to same. Report that the traitors had taken a great prey; Onno M'Hugh followed them. Falsehood of the report. Went with Onno M'Hugh to meet Mr. Seynttloo. Refusal of the kerne to go two miles further than the castle of Lea.

Wednesday.
The Governor.

49. Same to same. Stating they had gone from Rathangan to Ballynure. Certain swine divided by the kerne and galloglasses at their coming to Clanbork. No man nor beast seen.

50. Same to same. Sending intelligence that on Wednesday night O'More with a large company came to the Barrow, and took 100 kine, certain garrans, and many sheep, and that James M'Gerald and Cormac O'Connor followed after them, and so also Onno M'Hugh with his kerne. Conflict between O'More and Onno M'Hugh's men. White, a horseman of Cosbie's, slain. Requests that himself and James M'Gerald of Lea may be appointed to have the rule of the country where they dwell. O'More, like a jolly fellow, offered the kerne 6s. 8d. a fortnight to serve him, and to their gentlemen according to their degree.

Saturday.
Kildare.

51. Same to Mr. Travers. Telling him that his spy had returned, and reported that the traitors had left the place they proposed going to this night, so he may keep his men at home. It is thought they are gone to the great wood in Leix.

August 1.
Carbery.

52. Nicholas Bagenall to Lord Deputy Bellyngham. Requesting thanks to be given to the bearer, Mr. Williams, for his honest pains at the rescue of the prey. He has satisfied every man at the Dangan. Mr. Seynttloo is contented.

August 3.
Kilkenny.

53. Walter Pepparde to same. Stating that the bearer, Connell M'Loughlin, had come to him because he would not be suspected of being concerned in the rebellion of Cahir O'Connor and his sons.

VOL. I.

1548.

August 8. 54. Simon Geffre, Vicar of Dungarvan, and Thomas Floyd Chaplain, to the Lord Deputy Bellyngham. The Earl of Desmond has made all the Lords and gentlemen of Munster be obedient unto him, and has the most part of them following him at this hour. Desmond is plotting rebellion. Gentlemen preyed upon by Watkin Apowell threaten to burn Dungarvan.

August 8. 55. Mayor, &c. of Drogheda, to Lord Chancellor Sir John Alen. Drogheda. The carters of Drogheda complain that the Sheriff of Uriel will only pay them for 30 days. They and their carts have been stayed by one Duke. They have only those three carts in Drogheda.

August 8 ? 56. Patrick Barnewall, of Fieldston and Grace Dieu, Solicitor Wednesday. General and King's Serjeant, to Lord Chancellor Sir John Alen. Grace Dieu. Relative to the employment of the carts in Dublin, and to whom they had been assigned.

August. 57. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to the Mayor of Drogheda. In answer to the complaint about the carts. He would rather they should remain unfurnished than he. Asserts that Duke's act was his. Money has been given to the Chief Justice to pay for the carts what price shall be thought meet, and what the King has paid.

August 9. 58. Mayor, &c., of Waterford to the Lord Deputy. Certain Waterford. Portingales have arrived with the Lord High Admiral's warrant for delivery of certain goods of theirs that had been seized under suspicion of piracy. A servant of the Admiral's has since arrived with a letter of a later date, directing the ships and goods to be given up to him. Inclose,

58. I. Lord High Admiral Seymour to James Walsh, Mayor of Waterford. To deliver up a bark lately belonging to Richard Coles [R. Colle?], of Myneth, to the bearer, his servant, Thos. Wodloke. July 19, Sudeley Castle.

58. II. Same to same. That the Portugal ship that was taken by Cole and Butside, two pirates, and the Spanish bark that was in her company, may be given up to the bearer, his servant, Thos. Wodloke, and also the persons who were taken in them. July 23, Corsland.

August 10. 59. Mayor, &c. of Waterford to the Lord Deputy Bellyngham. Waterford. Particulars as to the taking of a ship named the Jesus, of Caleise [Cadiz?], wherein one Edmund Roche was captain, with 55 men. The said ship enlarged to the hands of one Corneyles, of Calleise; whereupon the said Corneyles and his associates took a certain balynger, of Waterford, coming out of England, and afterwards took a Portugal ship in the haven of Cork. The charges of this affair, including the pursuit of Tompson, the pirate, who took part with the enemy, have been 1,000*l.* sterling.

August 13. 60. Stephen Lynche, Deputy Mayor, and Council of Galway to Galway. the same. Have received his letters of August 3. They are able to withstand and resist any invasion by land by any Irishmen. Have not one big piece of ordnance to defend their haven from any power with great artillery that might come by sea. Their readiness to live and die in the King's quarrel and service. The Captain of Clanricard Sir William Burke, Knt. and M<sup>c</sup>William Burke, with the sons of Miler Burke, have wasted the country round about. Pray the Deputy to send letters to the Captain of Clanricard and M<sup>c</sup>William Burke, also to the Earl of Thomond and his cousins and sons, to surcease their strife, and also to receive the new coined money.

August 13? 61. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to Sir Thos. Cusake and them of Kildare. Westmeath. He had appointed M<sup>c</sup>Donnell to bring with him forty spears [spars] besides their boys, who has brought six score. Their charges to be borne with the money of the cess, if it may be. Cusake to see the money levied for the galloglas upon Ferns and all other places that the Earl of Tyrone hath by his handwriting condescended unto. To let the galloglas Marshal go with them. To thank O'Reilly for his good conformity. [Imperfect minute.]

August 14. 62. John Arthur, Mayor of Limerick, to Bellyngham. Had with Limerick. the sheriff received his letters by Edmund Sexten, that they should cause William FitzEdmund Burke, and John and Richard FitzTheobald Burke, to put in their pledges to keep peace till his Lordship's repair into those countries; which they had done. The said John FitzTheobald Burke has departed, being one of the pledges himself, without licence, accompanied with the said Edmund Sexten.

August. 63. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to the Mayor, &c. of Limerick. Thanking them for taking the Burkes' pledges, who, with others of their country, should be made to promise to live quietly upon their own lands, without exacting the country either with kerne, galloglas, or otherwise. Obstinacy to be punished. To follow the advice of Edmund Sexten, with whom he [the Deputy] has conferred.

August 17. 64. Thady Duff, Mayor of Dublin, to Lord Deputy Bellyngham.
Dublin. The beer ordered has been in readiness for eight days.

August 18. 65. John Plunket and Thomas Alen to same. The beer brewed Kilmainham. is 15s. per hogshead; Peter Smythe to send back the empty barrels. The soldiers in Dublin are likely to perish for want of food. This day my Lord of Dublin coming not to preach, as it was said, in Christ's Church, Mr. Water [Walker] . . . . . virtuously supplied the room with good audience.

August 18? 66. James Everard to same. Had delivered his letters to Sir Saturday. Thomas Cusake [see August 13] on our Lady Day [August 15?] about the keeping of the country and cess of the galloglas upon those Randalston. Irish captains North, which he emptied from my Lord of Tyrone, as Magennis, O'Hanlon, M<sup>c</sup>Mahon, Bren O'Mogher and Ferny. Meeting of the Lords, the sheriff and Sir James Gerlon at the Navan. They have appointed 120 archers, 52 horse, and 60 kerne to meet in Trim; P. Barnewall Lord of Trimletston appointed their leader. Sir T. Cusake has this day gone to the Plunketts to cause them to be ready.

August.

67. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to the Privy Council and the Mayor of Dublin. Upbraiding them for their negligence and disobedience in not furnishing the supplies necessary for the King's service. It were better the great substance of the harvest of the County of Dublin for this year were lost, than this purpose of cutting of passes in Kildare should be forslowd. [Minute, with Bellyngham's corrections.]

August.

68. M<sup>c</sup>William Burke, Captain of Clanricard, to the Lord Deputy. Professing fidelity, and requesting him to send by Alexander M<sup>c</sup>Donnell, Captain of the galloglas, letters to Galway to supply him with force to act against young Richard Oge Burke. Latin.

69. Contemporary translation of preceding letter.

August 19.
Bridge of Athy.

70. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to M<sup>c</sup>William Burke, Captain of the country of Clanricard. Has dispersed Cahir O'Connor and his traitorous followers. Commands him to apprehend them if they should resort into his country. Cannot yet spare M<sup>c</sup>Donnell, Captain of the galloglas, whose counsel and advice "we much follow in the wars."

71. Same to [James Hancock of] Dublin. Reproaches him for his wilful obstinacy, by which his Majesty was in danger of being disappointed of certain hawks and dogs for a nobleman in Spain, which he, the Lord Deputy, had promised.

August 19.
Sunday.
Bridge of Athy.

72. Same to James Hancock, merchant, of Dublin. Pardoning him for his folly and disobedience. [This James Hancock was subsequently, in this same year, elected Mayor of Dublin.]

August 19.
Kilkenny.

73. Thomas Walshe to the Lord Deputy. Has despatched his business both at Waterford and in Kilkenny. Requests conduct to convey the Musters of the towns through the country, Sir Richard Butler and Edm. Butler the Archbishop of Cashel not being nigh at hand. The Archbishop of Cashel was gone towards Cashel to commune with the Earl of Desmond.

August ?
Sunday.

74. Patrick Sherlok to the same. Mr. Seynttloo has had an engagement with Cormac O'Connor at Clowneygawno. O'Connor lies about Killymore, [Killimore ?] accompanied by O'More.

August ?

75. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to Francis Harbart. Upbraids him for supineness. If he and his neighbours will exert themselves they need not fear the malice of O'Connor and his adherents.

August ?

76. Same to [Mr. Cusake ?]. Concurs in the service proposed by him. Large powers given to him to act against the enemies according to his own discretion. Mr. Seynttloo's victory gained over the rebels Cahir O'Connor and his adherents.

VOL. I.

1548.

- August ? 77. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to the Bishop of Westmeath. Concurs in his opinion as to O'Molloy. Requires him to give thanks to God for the recent victory over Cahir O'Connor and the rebels. [This minute, which is indorsed by Bellyngham's Secretary "To the Bishop of Westmeth," is probably intended for Florence Gerawan, the Bishop of Clonmacnois.]
- August 22. 78. John Goldsmyth to the Lord Deputy Bellyngham. Logan, a Dublin. Scotch pirate, appertaining of late to the Earl of Lennox, is hovering about Lambay and the Head of Howth; he has taken several vessels. Rowland White and John Parker offer to pursue him if they may have commission. White desires to have, besides his own artillery, "one fawcon of brasse, ij. dosson of Moryce pykes, and xl. sheaffe of arrowes," which he will restore. Some of the soldiers returned home rail upon Mr. Scott, the Deputy's Gentleman Usher.
- August 27. 79. Mayor, &c., of Cork, to the same. Edmond Tyrrye, bailiff of Cork. Cork, claiming some lands which were withheld by certain of the Barries, was last week referred personally to the Lord Barrymore, in whose country the said Tyrrye "was murdrede by 23 foynes of an Irishe knyffe, geven hym in to the very hart." John Tomson and other pirates set at liberty by O'Sullivan Beare for a large ransom.
- August ? 80. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to the Mayor, &c., of Cork. La-ments the murder of Edmund Tyrrye. Justice to be executed on the murderers. Will speak to the Earl of Desmond, on his repair to Dublin, to see them punished.
- August 28. 81. Thos. Walshe to the Lord Deputy. Had set forth the Musters Kilkenny. of the country towards the Fort Protector in Leix. Has delivered his Lordship's letters to the Sovereign, &c. of Kilkenny, who will send their men victuals for the rest of the thirty days. Mr. Butler is parleying with the Kavanaghs for redress of the matter of controversy that late chanced between Murrough Bacagh [Kavanagh, the MacMurrough] and him; if they cannot agree, the said Murrough will attempt all the hurt he can against the County of Kilkenny.
- August ? 82. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to Mr. Justice Thomas Houth. Requesting him to see Richard Burke of Clanricard obeyed in his country, and to hint to him from whence he derived, and was supported in, his authority, and not to think it was by his own power.
- August ? 83. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to Richard Burke of Clanricard [illegitimate son of the late Earl]. Advises him not to have a great idea of his own power, but to consider that it depends wholly upon the King. Justice shall be administered to both sides in the Galway causes. The person he recommended, and who was employed as a messenger, has run away.
- August ? 84. Same to the Privy Council. Recapitulates service. A hosting for thirty days proclaimed before his coming. A conclusion to make a town in O'More's country. Mr. Seynttloo made Captain of the new Fort Protector or Governor, there. Revolt of Cahir O'Conor and his two ill-disposed sons with him, men here much doubted and feared. Mr. John Brereton sent to Kildare. The rebels entered the English Pale in the Borders of Carbery, and burnt, destroyed, and killed man, woman, and child. By chance, Nic. Bagenall, the Marshal, with about thirty horsemen, met them. Mr. Williams, and as many as were archers, not past ten, lighted afoot, and rescued the prey, and killed ten or twelve of the outlaws. Mr. Seynttloo met with them in their greatest pride, and where they thought never Englishman would seek them; he killed many of their followers and slaves who carried their victuals and used them with such like as they had begun with us before. Mr. Brereton, Francis Cosbie, and Travers did good service. More woodkerne slain that day than the oldest man in Ireland ever saw. The Earl of Desmond has not as yet come in. Accounts and reckonings.

August? 85. Copy of the above.

August? 86. Thomas Barnewall to the Lord Deputy Bellyngham. For Robertstown. payment of the money which he and Sir Thomas Cusake had advanced for buying white cloth for the kerne. The Lord of Dunsany owes 7*l.* 11*s.* 4*d.*, prays Lord Deputy to compel him to pay it.

Sept. 5. 87. Anthony Colcloght to the same. Murtough [Murrough?] Carlow. Bacagh has promised that he and Cahir M'Arte Kavanagh would submit.

[Sept. 5?] 88. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to Anthony Colcloght. Does not see Brian Jonys's hand to his letter of Sept. 5. Warns him to be cautious how he receives persons on promise of submission.

Sept. 5. 89. Matthew Kyng to Sir W. Wyse. One Brown, of Youghal, Dungarvan. lately arrived from England, has brought the intelligence that the Earl of Desmond has the office of the Admiralty under the Lord Admiral's seal, and that the Earl shall execute the office from Dungarvan to Galway. Report that Sir Francis Bryan should be Lord President of Munster.

Sept. 5. 90. Mayor, &c. of Waterford to the Lord Deputy. Have received Waterford. an order from the Lord Admiral to deliver up to Francis Andreas the Portugal ship lately stayed by them. John Martyne, of Alicant, has written for the Spanish bark.

Sept. 6. 91. Same to the same. For the speedy discharge of the prisoners Waterford. suspected of piracy, who have behaved very ill in the gaol. Great expense of keeping and watching them.

Sept. 92. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to the Mayor, &c., of Waterford. Not to fear any danger for having apprehended the pirates; will write to the Lord Admiral about them, and if it be thought good for ensample to others, they should be punished in England, the Lord Admiral will see the city's charges indemnified. To deliver the small boat to Matthew Kyng, and to do all other things comprised in the said Kyng's commission for the works at Dungarvan.

VOL. I.

Sept. 13. 93. Mayor of Dublin to Lord Deputy Bellyngham. Sends him Dublin. seven tuns of beer. The makers of the same demanded 3*l*. Irish per tun, but he has persuaded them to take less.
- Sept. 15. 94. Richard Baron of Delvin, and Sir William Brabazon to same.
O'Kelly is conspiring to make war against the King. The Captains in the Annaly are ready to serve against the Kellys. Melaghlin Ballagh [Balbh] O'Madden, adjoining to Belletrawe, conducts himself well. Request the powers of their Commission to be extended. [The signatures to this letter appear to have been cut off.]
- Sept. 16. 95. M'Houcq, M'Hobert, O'Hein, O'Shaghnisy, and other Free-Laghreaghe. holders of Clanricard to the Lord Deputy and Council. Complain that Richard Oge's sons, who had been appointed to govern till Richard Burke, son of the late Earl of Clanricard should be of age, had cruelly burned, spoiled, and killed their men, women, and children, these four years past. Pray that Commissioners may be sent to settle young Richard Burke in his inheritance.
- Sept. 17. 96. Richard Baron of Delvin to Lord Deputy Bellyngham. Had The Roke. received intelligence that Connla M'Geoghegan was going to prey the lands of one of his servants; has encountered him and slain O'Melaghlin and his brother Cormac Ballagh, with above thirty of their kerne, and taken three of the Dillons and a brother of O'Me-laghlin.
- [Sept. 18.] 97. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to the Mayor, &c., of [Limerick.]
Desires them to show better favour to Edmund Sexten and John Burke; and also that they would elect the said Edmund Sexten to be their mayor.
- Sept. 22. 98. Ulick de Burgo [Burke], Captain of Clanricard, to the Lord Balle Clar. Deputy Bellyngham. Complains of the conduct of Richard Burke, the illegitimate son of the late Earl of Clanricard, who has joined Oberyne [O'Brien] and other neighbouring enemies, and laid siege to his castle, throwing the whole neighbourhood into confusion. Latin.
- Sept. 23. 99. Thomas Agard to the same. Sends xij*l*., and as much in Dublin. halfpence, of the first coined of that sort from the Mint.
- Sept. 26. 100. Robert Dillon to the same. The Baron Delvin has been at Wednesday before Michaelmas. Athlone with a good number of horse and foot. The Baron has enlarged some of the Dillons whom he took, being with O'Melaghlin, yet he keeps the prisoners for Bellyngham's commodity, that is to say, O'Melaghlin's brother and one other good prisoner, all the horses and arms, which if they be well gotten by the law of arms pertain to Bellyngham as Lord Deputy. The brothers of O'Melaghlin who remain alive will do Bellyngham good service. They beseech to have their brother's goods which remain for the most part in the hands of Niall O'Melaghlin who murdered their brethren. The said Niall had of the said O'Melaghlin's goods by his own hands and his mother's, fifty marks ready money, many horses and cattle, and household stuff. Niall's tenants are still providing artillery for O'Connor. The said Niall as yet lieth sore wounded. My Lord Dillon's son, servant to Mr. Treasurer, has made two roads and brought back divers kine. Hugh O'Kelly lieth sore wounded. Bellyngham should have the third part of every prey. They have taken in Edmund O'Kelly and Brian O'Kelly.

Sept. 28.
Alencourt.

101. Thomas Alen to Bellyngham. Not to grant any further interest to Ralph Banbriche to live in Maynooth Castle. Hugh M'Shane O'Byrne with sixty kerne has eaten meat upon the borders of Bocation for four nights. Shane O'Byrne will come to Dublin on Thursday next.

Sept. 29.
Michaelmas
Night.
Kilheale.

102. Same to the same. Being a duplicate of the preceding letter, with a postscript requesting that if any one should slander him, he may be brought face to face. Recommends John Pierson to be plover-taker.

Sept. 29.

103. Statement of the arrears remaining in the accounts of Sir William Brabazon, Vice Treasurer of Ireland.

104. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to Cahir M'Arte Kavanagh. Stating that he had sent his mind to him by Art M'Donald. Murrugh Bacagh shall receive every attention when he comes to him.

Oct. 4.
Waterford.

105. Mayor, &c., of Waterford, to the Lord Deputy Bellyngham. On the complaint of Laurence Wodloke, who, in conveying victuals to the Fort of Leix, had been compelled to pay certain money by Martin Pellys of Athy [Athighe], contrary to the privileges of the City of Waterford.

Oct. 6.
Kilkenny West,
Co. Westmeath.

106. Robert Dillon to the same. O'Melaghlin is elected, and sworn to be true to the King, but Niall detains his castle of Clonlonan from him. Hears that Richard Burke has married the Earl of Thomond's daughter. Report that O'Kelly will submit. The passes beyond the Shannon will not be cut without his Lordship's own presence. Unkindness of the Baron Delvin, who causes his messengers to be so menaced that none dares go either to his house or with business towards the Lord Deputy.

Oct. 6.
Dublin.

107. Richard Brasier to the same. Agard dares not for his life declare the proceedings of the Mint to any man except the Lord Deputy. He will wait upon him with the Controller, on Tuesday next, at Maynooth.

Oct. 11.
Limerick.

108. William Stridche, Mayor, and Council of Limerick to the Lord Deputy Bellyngham. Answer to his letters of the 18th Sept. John Burke is no worse as hostage entertained than your honour willed by your former letters. Decline electing Edmund Sexten for mayor. The bearer, Hector Arthur, will give further information.

Oct. 15.
Kilkenny West.

109. Robert Dillon to the same. Richard Burke says he will come with one thousand men to cut the passes beyond the Shannon. One pass lieth from Athlone two miles, and the pass in Leix is three miles long, not very thick, but great wood mingled with small hazel. O'Kelly is in great fear. Niall O'Melaghlin has restored the castle claimed by O'Melaghlin. Hugh O'Kelly, who is Captain and Governor of the Great Pass beyond the water [Shannon] lies on this side, sore wounded by his brother Edmund. Brian O'Kelly, for whom the Treasurer has written, and this Edmund take one part, they themselves being poor men of evil disposition, "wiche comyttyd diverse malefattes affortyme to the Englishe Pale." Melaghlin Balowe [Balbh] O'Madden, "beginethe to be prowde."

- Oct. 18. Dublin. 110. Andrew Wise to the same. About payment of all the gar-risons' wages, the galloglas to be paid no longer than to the 20th Oct. Requests that Mr. Agard may be allowed to issue some of the new coin for their payment.
- Oct. 21. Sunday. 111. Oliver Sutton, Sheriff, to the same. Transmits a letter from the Vicar of Rathmore, with information that Hugh M'Shane had gone to Cahir M'Arte Kavanagh, and they had agreed to make a prey, and with it to get silk, saffron, and cloth at Kilkenny. Hugh M'Shane is very glad to come in to the Lord Deputy. Is going to Clonmore to see if he can take certain thieves.
- Oct. 23. Waterford. 112. Mayor, &c., of Waterford to Sir William Wyse. Stating that David Power and James Goghe had arrived in their haven and desired permission to victual, which was refused them, and that the next morning they had robbed a Portuguese ship. No foreign ships dare come to their port for fear of the pirates. The ruinous charges they sustain in maintaining pirates in prison. Desire the despatch of the said prisoners, and a recompence of their charges.
- Oct. 24. Limerick. 113. William Stridche, Mayor, &c., of Limerick to the Lord Deputy Bellyngham. On the 23rd of October, Cormac Beg M'Kaery entered the Burkes' country with 150 men and burned three villages. Have written to the Earl of Desmond to stay them. Variance between the Earl of Thomond's children and Sir Donough O'Brien, Lord of Ibrackan.
- Oct. 25. Kilmainham. 114. John Plunket and Thomas Alen to the same. Plunket has had communication with Sir Francis Bryan, and showed him that Bellyngham had left in his house "half tune wyne, tune beyre, and six fatt mertes to his welcum." Carts must be hired to furnish Bellyngham in the absence of his own. Provision at Kilmainham and Maynooth. The house of Maynooth "is in hast forthewarded, and wol be the fairest stable and garnell in Ireland."
- Oct. 25. Waterford. 115. Mayor, &c., of Waterford to the same. Have apprehended the persons directed by his last letters, whom they send to his Lordship.
- Oct. 28. Dublin. 116. John Plunket to the same. Stating that Sir Francis Bryan required much to see his Lordship. Desires twenty-four hours warning before Bellyngham's return home.

117. John Plunket and Thomas Alen to the Lord Deputy Bellyngham. The desire of Sir Francis Bryan to see him. Bryan is at no small charge here at this present. The bedding of Maynooth is now at Kilmainham, and no provision there but all here.

Oct. ?
Friday.
Kildare.

118. Francis Cosbie to the same. Stating that he had lent the gentleman, whom Redmond Oge had mentioned, some kerne, with which he went a journey and killed eight men, and took 100 kine and other goods. Edmund Faye and Onno M'Hugh are yet with O'Carroll, and get much goods from the traitors.

Oct. ?
Friday.
Kildare.

119. Same to the same. Telling him that his men, Edmund Faye Captain of one hundred kerne and Onno M'Hugh, had come home.

Nov. 6.
Wexford.

120. Sovereign and Council of Wexford to the same. In answer to a demand to send four lath makers; there is only one in the town who can make laths. "As for all lathis ussid in our town, we hawe them of the dwellers of the Doffir and the corters ther aboute under the jurisdicione of Kayre M'Arte Kavanagh, MacMurrough."

Nov. 8.
Dublin.

121. Lord Deputy and Council of Ireland, including Sir Francis Bryan, to the Privy Council. In favour of the bearer, a townsman of Wexford, who had been robbed of his ship and goods by Frenchmen in February last.

Nov. 14.
Dublin.

122. Richard Brasier to the Protector Somerset. Sending a declaration of money received out of England since the arrival of the Lord Deputy on the 19th May, to the 14th November, and other accounts. Brewhouses made in Leix and Offaley. Somerset "to here the verytie of me a poure man. There was never Deputie in this realme that went the ryght wey as he [Bellyngham] dothe, bothe for the settinge forthe of Goddes worde to his Honour and to the wealth of the Kynges Hyghnesse subjectes." Promises to send the accounts of the Vice Treasurer for the last seven years ending Michaelmas 1 Edw. VI.

Nov. 14.

123. Memoranda, partly in the handwriting of the Lord Deputy Bellyngham, relative to some of the accounts mentioned in the preceding letter. Mistrust of the untruth of Agard of the Mint. Indorsed, "A copy of a letter sent from my Lord [Deputy] to Mr. Agar [Agard]."

Nov. 15.
Dublin.

124. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to the Baron of Dunboyne. Thanks him for the kine sent, taken from the Calough O'Carroll. If it should be proved that they belonged to some other man, they shall be restored.

Nov. 16.
Dublin.

125. Lord Deputy and Council of Ireland to the Privy Cotncil. About some leases in question between Captain John Brereton and John Issam and Richard Deverus, servants to the Lord Protector Somerset. They have granted to John Issam the office of Seneschal of Wexford.

VOL. I.

1548.
Nov. 16. 126. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to the Mayor of Dublin. Directing him to be vigilant in his absence, and to see Mr. Seynttloo's injunctions circumspectly executed; also to restrain the liberal use of boats on the river. Mr. John Plunket to be consulted.
- Nov. 18. 127. Mayor and Council of Cork to Lord Deputy Bellyngham.
Cork. Desire to know his further pleasure concerning the pirates, if they should apprehend them or kill them. The Lord Barrymore has delivered the murderers that murdered the King's bailiff to be put to execution. A great ship of Venice of 700 tons, with other ships of Spain, laden of malmseys and Spanish wool, have been driven into Cork harbour by stress of weather. All the lading of the said great ship of malmsey is to be given in gift to King Edward. Certain wild Irish, coming one night to make a prey near Cork, were met by Lord Barrymore, who was going to do the like on certain other wild Irish; the Lord Barrymore killed eighty of them.
- Nov. ? 128. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to Harry Colly. As to giving [Before 21st.] comfort to some party to submit himself.
- Nov. 21. 129. Lord Chancellor Alen to Mr. Comptroller Sir William Paget.
Dublin. The bearer, Mr. Issam, has obtained the Seneschalship of Wexford. Report that the French King will advance young Gerald Fitzgerald with an army to Ireland. They say that they cannot keep Scotland, but they must first have Ireland, and that the French King shall be King of Ireland or Michaelmas-day. The arch-traitor O'Connor has simply submitted; his life is promised him to give O'More hope to submit likewise. Alen would wish that none of them should be placed where they were before, but have honest entertainments at Boulogne or Calais.
- Nov. 21. 130. Same to the Protector Somerset. Report that the French Dublin. King intends to send young Gerald Fitzgerald into Ireland with an army. Shows what disadvantage would ensue should the French land and fortify at Skerries on the main land directly over against Lambay, which is the only road in these seas for them betwixt Brittany and Scotland, being in their direct trade into the Frith of Dumbarton. James Delahide has landed, and by like is secretly with the Earl of Desmond. His advice that, in case O'More and the rest come simply to submission as O'Connor has, they should never be restored to their own lands, but have entertainment elsewhere. They be under the number of twelve that be causers and principals of all these rebellions.
- Nov. ? 131. [Sir Wm.] Wyse to the Earl of Desmond. Has received his Waterford. letters, and is glad to hear he is so conformable to the King in all his doings. Wyse is ready to be friendly to Calough O'Carroll if he submits. O'Connor has already submitted. It is reported that O'More is taken by one of O'Molloy's [O'Mellie's] sons.

Nov. 22.

132. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to the Protector Somerset. Requests him to peruse two long writings, one directed to the Lord Admiral Seymour which he has kept by him for three months, and thought not to have sent, the other directed to my Lord Great Master, which has been written this month. Commends the services of the military and other officers. Prays him to be good to the bearer, Mr. Issam, so that he may return the more speedily, for the importance of his office requires it. Incloses,

132. *I. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to my Lord Great Master of the Household, John Duddleley, Earl of Warwick. In answer to his Lordship's letters touching the exemption of the Mint from Bellyngham's rule. Reckons he should be privy to the King's treasure in the Mint, or in any other place in Ireland. He has neither bought house, land, fee, nor office, diced nor carded, nor otherwise lasciviously and riotously spent nor unworthily given the King's treasure, nor yet hidden nor lent what he has remaining. Agard spent 2,000*l.* of the Bristol coin, which he brought over, to his own use, besides the 1,000*l.* delivered to him for bullion.*

139. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to ———. Thinks it better that his son should not be returned to him at present, for his own sake. Objects to write in Latin, which may be falsely expounded by deceitful friars. Imperfect.

140. Same to Mr. John Issam. He is not privy to the right claimed by Sir Francis Bryan and the Countess of Ormond to have galloglas in holding in the County of Kilkenny. Directs him to procure from the Lord Protector a letter to him [the Lord Deputy] confirming his authority over the estates belonging to the young Earl of Ormond during his minority. Gives his reasons for disliking of the coming over to Ireland of the young Earl.

141. Interrogatories, probably prepared by Chancellor Alen, against George Browne Archbishop of Dublin, for neglect of duty in the government of the church, his alienations and leases in reversion, his "indecent" sermon in September 1548, and letters received by him from Irishmen. [Probably in Nov. 1548; they are in the same handwriting as 1550, July? Vol. ii. No. 53.]

142. Maurice of Desmond to the Countess of Ormond and Ossory. Offering her his faithful service. "This is to shoue your Ladishipp that I am nothing as yet promoted by my Lord my brother." If she has any place in those parts that would do him pleasure or good, he desires her to give him the same, and he will pay such fine as any other man living would give.

Dec. 3.

143. Oliver Sutton to the Lord Deputy Bellyngham. States that Shane O'Folan, who was hanged at the Naas, confessed that Cantwell, servant to Morris FitzThomas, and another, had stolen the nine kine which were taken to William Tallon's house. The said Tallon has been indicted and confessed.

Dec. ?

144. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to Cahir M'Arte Kavanagh. Thanks him for his good conformity and constancy in the King's service as related by Cantwell. Is satisfied with a certain order for restitution. Shane O'Dore [O'Dwyer?] to have in mind the King's general pardon. There is nothing to be demanded of any man for the death of any one's brother, kinsman, or friend.

145. Same to [Hector Arthur?]. Giving his opinion that any man might lawfully take the prey of the malefactors. Marvels that he receives no more certain nor frequent news from him. Hears that the Lord of Ibrackan was some time with the Earl of Desmond, and the Earl of Thomond's son had passed the Shannon to meet the Calough O'Carroll. Desires that henceforward such news be minutely reported to him.

Dec. 6.

means of O'Carroll and Edmund Faye, between the date of his protection and the time of his notifying it to the said O'Carroll and Faye. Unfitting words spoken by the Earl of Thomond's messenger. If the Calough and O'Carroll will repair together to Dublin, Bellyng-ham will settle their differences.

Dec. 6.
Kilkenny.

148. Thos. Alen to the Lord Deputy. Has required the Constable and Portreeve of Gawron to provide for the coming of his Lordship. The Countess of Ormond and Sir Francis Bryan have removed from Callan to the Dammockes, within two miles of Kilkenny.

Dec. 10.
Waterford.

149. Mayor, &c. of Waterford to the same. Have delivered the prisoners, John Goodier and John Kirby, to Thomas Wodloke, servant to the Lord Admiral of England; the others remain in prison. Dearth of corn.

Dec. 15.
Limerick.

150. William Strydche, Mayor, and Council of Limerick to the same. Have received his letters by William Burke. Have set at liberty the hostages of the said William Burke and his adverse party John Burke. On the 11th instant Richard Burke, brother to the said John, preyed the said William Burke.

Dec. 16.
Dungarvan.

151. Mathew Kyng to Mr. Payne or to Mr. Charles Hopton, Gentleman Usher to the Lord Deputy Bellyngham. Desiring them to forward his letter to the Lord Deputy, and also to let him know when his Lordship will be at Dungarvan.

Dec. 19.
Kilkenny.

152. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to John Parker, Constable of Dublin Castle. To set one Quynny at liberty, and to see the money taken on him restored to the right owners.

Dec. 19.
Kilkenny.

153. Same to the Earl of Thomond. O'Carroll fears his Lordship will send a power to aid the Calough O'Carroll to prey his country, in revenge of such hurts as O'Carroll did to the Calough before he was informed that he had obtained the King's pardon. Admonishes Thomond not to permit anything of the kind to take place.

Dec. 20.
Kilmallock.

154. Sovereign and Council of Kilmallock to the Lord Deputy Bellyngham. To be favourable to their poor town, which is in great necessity and poverty.

Dec. 22.
London.

155. John Issam to the same. The King is in good health. All things go well forward in the Parliament House. They extinguish all popish traditions. "Goodly orders be already devysed to stablishe the King's Majesty's roiaulmes in devine servacie to be used in his churches, but there is great styckying touching the blessed body and bloode of Jesus Christe. . . . Parte of our busshopps, that have been most stiff in opynyons of the realytie of his bodye there, . . . now leaveth his body sitting on the right hande of his Father, as our common crede testyfieth, but yet there ys harde holde with some to the contrary." Issam was once called before the Lord Protector and the Council to declare the state of Ireland; thinks he shall be called for again, and then get his despatch for Ireland. Sends certain letters of Mr. Knollys with certain little French books.

Ardbraccan. 156. Edward Staple, Bishop of Meath, to ———. Particularizes the excessive hatred raised against himself among all ranks of society for preaching the Reformed religion, for which the people accused him of heresy. Fears for his life. Desires a chamber amongst the petty canons, which was Sir John Russell's.
- Dec. 29.
Cork. 157. Robert Myagh, Mayor of Cork, to the Lord Deputy Bellyngham. States that Tamsin [Tomson?] and Richard Stephenson, that was heretofore under Mr. Robert Sentleger, Constable of Dungarvan, had arrived in their haven on Christmas-day with a ship laden with wines, figs, and sugar, offering to trade. Request to know if he should apprehend them or trade with them.
- Dec. ? 158. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to the Mayor of [Cork?]. In answer, suggests that possibly Tomson and Stephenson may possess their pardons, and as it does not appear their goods are stolen, they may trade with them.
- Dec. 30 ?
Sunday.
Dublin Castle. 159. Morysh FitzThomast to the Lord Deputy Bellyngham, on being committed to prison by his command.
- Dec. 160. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to Hector Arthur. Sending him a letter unsealed, to be delivered to the Earl of Thomond, to the effect that the Earl should interfere to prevent a certain gentleman from making any attempt upon Dungarvan. [Minute.] Inclosets,
160. I. Sir Edw. Bellyngham to the Earl of Thomond. Understands that some displeasure has arisen between some gentleman and Watkin Apowell, and that the said gentleman intends, in "revengement thereof," to draw a company of the Earl of Desmond's galloglas towards Dungarvan to do hurt. Commands Thomond to assemble his forces and resist the same. December. [Minute.]
161. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to Edm. Butler Archbishop of Cashel. Desires him to prevent the gentleman pursuing any revenge upon Watkin Apowell for the prey taken by him, which he [the Lord Deputy] thought had been justly taken. [Minute, corrected by Bellyngham.]
162. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to my Lord Primate George Dowdall. Exhorts him to be circumspect as well in acts as words, and to set forth "the playn, symple, and nakyd truthes." The way to do the same is to know it, which, with a mild and humble spirit wished, sought, and prayed for, will most certainly be given. Archbishop Dowdall to hearken for Bellyngham's return to Dublin, and to repair thither to the intent, consultation be had for the better setting forth the truth and obedience amongst the King's loving subjects. [Dowdall was afterwards deprived of the title of Primate of all Ireland for his opposition to the Reformation, which in after times led to many jostlings at the Council Board between his successors and the Archbishops of Dublin. See also Abp. Browne's letter of 1551, Aug. 6. Vol. iii. No. 45, and Croft's letter, 1551, Nov. 11. No. 64.]

163. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to John Issam. Incloses a letter to be delivered to the Lord Protector, relative to the filling up of the See of Kildare, now vacant by the death of Thomas Miagh. "You know what pastors are here who came out of England, and how they lie upon the King's charges, which may from time to time be alleviated by giving them these promotions." The Earl of Desmond must amend, or it is neither for the surety of the King's royal estate here, nor honour, to defer the redress thereof. Bellyngham has resolved no longer to comport his detestable manners.

164. The same to . . . . . Thanks him for his good conformity. Has written to the Earl of Tyrone according to his request, and thinks that he will, as he has promised, desist from burdening him with any exactions. [Minute, in Bellyngham's hand, indorsed, "A copy of a letter to Edmund Sexten."]

165. Edmund Faye to the Lord Deputy Bellyngham. Complains that when he was with his Lordship at Kilkenny, he sent some men for victuals to Clonlye, belonging to the castle of Baly Cadam [now Cadamstown], who had been there ill-used by O'Carroll's brother and others of the O'Carrolls. [Dr. O'Donovan explains that this Edmund Faye was one of the Anglo-Norman family of Fays, who were seated in the County of Westmeath; the O'Fahys are Irish, and were seated in the County of Galway.—Annals of the Four Masters, A.D. 1548, note. This Edmund Faye is often mis-called O'Fay, as in the Lord Deputy Bellyngham's letter No. 147.]

166. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to the Lord Admiral Seymour. His sorrow that his long and tedious letters had given him offence. He is in like predicament or worse with the Lord Great Master of the Household, John Duddeley, Earl of Warwick. Incloses,

166. i. Bellyngham to the Protector Somerset. November 22.

167. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to Cahir M'Arte Kavanagh, i.e. MacMurrough. Divers persons go about to make him believe that these light persons who have misused Edmund Duff have acted at his instigation; can hardly think it of him, and will not take it at his hand.

168. The same to same. Is very willing to condescend to his request, yet thinks it good to respite the same till he knows surely whether right shall be done to Edmund Duff.

Saturday.
The New Abbey.

169. Oliver Sutton to Lord Deputy Bellyngham. Had spoken with Mr. Rowland touching Edmund O'Leyn and the company that are taken with him. Gives a bad character of Philip Pursell, who had killed Richard M'Shane Carragh. Sends a book of the names of gentlemen and their titles who appeared before his Lordship at Kildare. Mr. Rowland desires that this letter may be kept secretly for fear of the Lady of Ormond's displeasure.

170. Andrew Brereton to Bellyngham. Had received his stipend at the rate of four shillings per day. Requests that his brother Edward may be appointed a petty Captain of his band of horse.

171. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to Mr. Fytzwylliams, Treasurer of the late Monastery of St. Patrick's Dublin. Requiring and commanding him not to go about to disobey the King's injunctions for godly and true order to be set forth in the Church.

172. Gerald Dalton, Captain of his Nation, to Lord Deputy Bellyngham. Sending him a Captain of kerne, who had done the King diligent and true service in Ireland, France, and elsewhere.

Featherd,
Co. Wexford.

173. The Portreeve and Burgesses of Featherd to same. Complain of the Sheriff of Wexford, who had cruelly extorted coin and livery, wounding the portreeve and divers others with his sword.

174. John Brereton to same. To grant to a certain poor priest a certain living which is situated among his friends, who are desirous of him to declare the true worship of God to them. Brereton promises that the said priest will study his books, and first edify, and then minister according to the order that shall be set forth.

175. Walter Bermyngham of Milerstown to same. Complaining against one William Dynch, who had refused to victual certain kerne. Latin.

176. Fragment of one of Lord Deputy Bellyngham's minutes
No man in Ireland is able to resist the power of the King.

1548.

177. Brian Jonys Constable of Carlow to Bellyngham. Wyse, Mr. Robert Sentleger's man, has been here with the inventory of Carlow requiring money. Jonys reserves 14*l.* 14*s.* 0*d.* to pay workmen. The poor men who served Mr. Robert Sentleger doubt much their money. Has put one of the Keatings into the castle three miles off Carlow, which Gerald Sutton and his son have lately claimed. It belongs to the King by the attainder of Donnell M'Cahir who slew Kedagh O'More.

Jan. 6. 3. Privy Council to the Lord Deputy Bellyngham. Thank Somerset Place. him for the good condition of affairs. Sir Francis Bryan to be Lord Marshal of the Army. The simple submission of O'Connor cannot but tend to the King's honour. Wish that he would displace O'More from the rule of his own sept. The Dean of St. Patrick's to deliver to Mr. Agard 1000 oz. of plate, of crosses and such like, for the mint. The Dean of St. Patrick's allowed 20*l*. for the safe keeping of the said plate hitherto. Francis Digby useth for his private commodity to bring over halfpence, and receives plate for the same. Proclamation against buying plate. Digby's licence for transporting wools to be stayed. To be very vigilant that under colour of merchandise there be no train used by the French merchants to the danger of any part of Ireland. Earl of Tyrone to be aided against the Scots. Mr. Issam's patent. The Bishop of Meath to have a certain farm for 21 years upon surrender of his former lease. To take order for the surveying of certain of the Earl of Ormond's castles and holds upon the frontiers of the English Pale, presently in the occupation of certain mean persons who have not sufficient regard to the defence of them. Send certain proclamations against notable pirates to be published. The pirate Thompson. Sir Anthony Sentleger to enjoy his lands notwithstanding his absence. The mint to be continued till all the bullion is coined, and then to be closed. [Signed by the Protector Somerset and many of the Council.]

Jan. 6. 4. Henry Wise and John Moorton to the same. Deny that there are Fort Protector. many women of the country in the fort. There are none come since Mr. Seyntloo's departure. No persuasions of lightness in Christmas have been by them maintained. Watch has been duly kept. Mr. Seyntloo's letter to apprehend him who dwelt at the Shian Castle, with his sons, upon suspicion of burning of his corn. Henry Wise bailed two soldiers, who were in the Marshalsea at Shane O'Lalor's suit, upon sufficient surety, to get and occupy their irons for the safe keeping of the said Irishmen, having but three pair of bolts within the fort. No mutiny for victuals.

Jan. 6. 5. Anthony Colcloght to the same. Has apprehended Edmund Carlow. Rewe a Wall, and sent him to the gaol of Ballyadams.

Jan. 8. 6. Robert Dyllon to the same. That the report of O'Kelly and Newtown, co. Meath. Cahir O'Connor besieging the castle of Brian O'Kelly was untrue. O'Kelly's son has restored the horses he took from Dyllon. The Lord Delvin had made a prey upon Clayn Head, which is a parcel of the Annaly, where he was wounded, and one of the Nugents slain. Spoils done in the country since his Lordship's departure. Wishes he would appoint Thomas Barnewall to be Captain in the Barony of Kenlis. O'Ferral Boy's sons, dwelling in the Annaly, prey one upon another. John Wakley now being in England, has sent for the survey of the Abbey of the Navan, which he has in farm.

Jan. 10. Limerick. 7. Mayor, &c., of Limerick to the Lord Deputy Bellyngham. Complain that a ship of this town, laden with wines, &c., had been wrecked on the coast of Wexford, and the goods plundered by the inhabitants.
- Jan. 10. Cork. 8. Mayor, &c., of Cork to the same. Have received his answer concerning Tomson and Stephenson. The people of the adjacent country have long traded for their wares. Some of their neighbours have been compelled to restore wares bought of pirates by divers inquisitions made "here" by Shadwell, the Lord Admiral's servant. Ric. Cole and Freeman have arrived.
- Jan. 11. Waterford. 9. Matthew Kyng to the same. A Spaniard has arrived who claims the bark which he had given him to keep. Requests the loan of 20*l.* to buy her of the Spaniard.
- Jan. 15. Waterford. 10. Thomas Wodloke to the same. He desired the Mayor of Cork to apprehend Strangwythe and 15 more of Tomson's company. The Mayor was loth to make variance between Cork and the pirates without special commandment. They were refreshed with victual, and were making of ordnance within the city. Desires Deputy's letter to the Sovereign of Ross to liberate Bartholomew Smalwod.
- Jan. 20. Waterford. 11. Same to the same. Stating that on the day his Lordship left Kilkenny one Ricard Lucar came from Cork, where the pirate Tomson was. The said Lucar had seen my Lady's servant Skyde. A Flanders ship has arrived, which had been spoiled at sea by an Englishman, who had slain one of her men and wounded five.
- Jan. 25. Wexford. 12. Walter Cowley to the same. Certain offenders had come to Corbally, in Wexford, and stolen some kine belonging to Wm. M'Shane Mantagh. Proposes that some of the King's ships should be sent to put a stop to piracy; that new forts should be established, and Presidents and Councils appointed in Ulster, Connaught, and Munster. Policy to be pursued for the complete reduction of Ireland; the forts to be built, the persons to command them, and the forces to be raised for defence.
- Jan. 27. Carlow. 13. Anthony Colcloght to Cahir M'Arte Kavanagh. To keep his appointment of meeting him on Thursday sevensnight. Is appointed to reside at Leighlin Bridge.
- Jan. 31. Cork. 14. Mayor, &c. of Cork to the Lord Deputy Bellyngham. Remonstrating against Mr. Goldsmyth and his attorney, John Coppinger, having a patent to be gauger and searcher of their city, contrary to their charter.
- Jan. ? 15. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to "one of Wassheford." Has received letters complaining of injuries done by Art Boy. Wishes the gentlemen of the county of Wexford would join together in good love and amity for the service of the King, and then they need not fear the oppression of any such as he. Has no mistrust but Art Boy will see the harms recompensed, for Sir Richard Butler has promised much in his behalf.

[Bellyngham's secretary?] to [Anthony Colcloght?] To send away Mr. Roger's horse, if he be recovered of his disease. To prepare the house [of Leighlin Bridge?] as much as in him lieth, "for his Lordship knowith of none other place to resorte unto this winter. [Draft on the back of the preceding.]

Feb. 1. Leighlin Bridge. 16. Anthony Colcloght to the Lord Deputy Bellyngham. Has arrived at Leighlin, where he has begun to work a very good quarry of slate, which will be useful for Carlow as well as Leighlin. Desires 6 pickaxes, 20 shovels, some ordnance, powder, and money. The country will be glad to show the utmost of their powers in furthering these works.

Feb. 2. Carlow. 17. Brian Jonys to the same. Has been to Leighlin to see the slate. Interview with Cahir M'Arte Kavanagh [MacMurrough] at Leighlin Bridge. The letters brought from Bellyngham pleased Cahir M'Arte much, but he complained of Sir R. Butler and Art Boy for following of old and unjust actions upon him.

Feb. 7. Limerick. 18. Ordinances of 12 July, 1541, for Munster; also other Statutes made at Limerick by James Earl of Desmond, Edmund Butler, Archbishop of Cashel, John Travers, and Justice Thomas Houth, the King's Commissioners. No rhymer [poeta] nor other person whatsoever shall make verses [carmina] or any thing else called auran to any one after God on earth except the King, under penalty of the forfeiture of all his goods. Also, no one shall impede the market nor throw any impediment in the way of any body taking goods and wares to the market but the governor of a town or castle. Lat.

Feb. 13. Leighlin Bridge. 19. Anthony Colcloght to the Lord Deputy Bellyngham. The bearer, Wm. O'Broyne, offers to inhabit the Grove, and would do more but for fear of the Countess of Ormond. "Sir, I have sent you your horse, for heyre I cane nat gett no mete for hym, for I am glad to lede my hey frome Karlaght [Carlow] to serve Growbe, wiche commys here upon Monday next to care teymer [timber] . . . Sir, you shall have the fairest cabull here that shalbe within all Irland, and I trust a prattyne hansume lowgine for your selft." Prays him to write to Shane Barry, Serjeant, to cause the country to help better than they do.

Feb. 16. Waterford. 20. Mayor, &c., of Waterford to the same. Send the prisoners who have lain long time in their gaol for piracy. Edmund Russell and another of them who are unable to travel will be sent by sea.

Feb. 27. Carlow. 21. Brian Jonys to the same. Talloun has come to Carlow, and has reported that Wakley is in Dublin with news that Sir Anthony Sentleger is to be Deputy, and Robert Sentleger Admiral of these coasts. Has not heard from Sir Richard Butler and Cahir M'Arte Kavanagh touching the wheat.

March 1. Dublin. 22. Harry Coldewell, Graver of the Mint at Dublin, to the same. Sends a letter that this day came to his hands. He is not allowed the 30*l.* given him by my Lord Great Master. Has not one iron to sink in his office at this present hour.

VOL. II.

March 4. 23. Thomas Scotte to Deputy Bellyngham. Requests for John Nugent the office of Searcher of Dublin, Laurence Hamond, the late officer, being in the Tower for treason compassed by the Lord Admiral. Desires the lease of Castle Lea for himself. Mr. Bolton and Thomas Husscher have promised to get him health, although he finds little ease.
- March 8. 24. Walter Cowley, Surveyor, to the same. In behalf of Edmund Waterford. Fitz Davy, who wishes to have the lease of two villages in Leix. Fitz Davy is a nigh kinsman to Lewis Bryan.
- March 14. 25. Same to the same. Certain Irishmen of the Ryans came to my
"The Greige by the Ryans' contre." Lady of Ormond at Callan, and there would have made estate of some land to her and her children. Cowley declared that it would be evil taken if they should now cloke Irishmen's lands against the King, when he was ready to set his foot there. Sir Francis Bryan took it in good part, and much reproved my Lady therein. He said he "wolde not borrowe of the lawe as my Lorde of Ormond did." The said Ryans have since resorted to Cahir M'Arte. Has drawn a book of instructions to be given to Sir William Wyse, himself and others. Incloses,
25. 1. Device by Walter Cowley for reformation of certain exactions in the country of Cahir M'Arte Kavanagh, who has made a very honest offer, which is meet to be embraced and well accepted. The counties of Kilkenny and Tipperary to be next reformed, and then to proceed further. Abolition of coin and livery, and substitution of other modes of revenue. Planting various jurisdictions under governors and captains.
- [March.] 26. Bellyngham to Tallon. Wills him to come to him, and to mend his conduct for the future.
- March 27. 27. John Brereton to Bellyngham. Has not been able to accom-Kildare. plish his letters, on account of sickness.
- [Mar.?] 28. Proceedings of the Lord Deputy upon Mr. Auditor's book of arrears of the King's revenue in certain counties, and the arrears due from the executors of the late Earl of Ormond.
- April 8. 29. William Duke to the Lord Deputy Bellyngham. Complains that Murrough Hones, Dermot Hones, James Hones, and Ross Hones, notable thieves and murderers, have found such friends that they are allowed to remain in Offaley instead of going into England. Sherlock and Cowley favour them.
- April 15. 30. John Moorton to the same. For license to set up a tan-house Fort Protector. at Fort Protector. Requests a gift of bark. The letters to be directed to William Duke.
- April 21. 31. Lord Deputy Bellyngham to the Lord Protector Somerset. The affairs of Ireland seem likely to be very great and dangerous, through foreign aid and animation. The bearers, John Travers and John Plunket, commended.

VOL. II.

[April 21.] 32. John Alen, late Lord Chancellor, to Mr. Controller [Sir W. Paget]. It is not his custom to be a busy writer. Mr. Erereton sets Bellyngham against Alen. A tale ascribed to John Wakley, servant to my Lord of Warwick. Bellyngham is the best man of war that ever Alen saw in Ireland. Wishes that Jupiter and Venus were as bountiful to Bellyngham as Mars and Saturn have been. Letters to the Lord Protector are not always kept secret. Bellyngham's personal conduct towards the Council is overbearing in the extreme; telling them it would be a good turn for the King if they were all hanged. Alen's objections to part of the instructions sent by Cantwell, particularly as to letting the Irishry enjoy their liberties. The Scots and wild Irishmen contend only for liberty. The towns are incorporate upon condition that none of the Irish blood or nation shall be of their corporation. The precedent betwixt the English towns in Wales and the Welshmen. When Walter Cowley was in the Tower he declared things against the writer which when he gained his liberty he confessed to be untrue. The Surveyorship; creation of additional Justices and Councillors, especially Walter Cowley. Indorsed by Sir W. Paget, "From Allen of Ireland."
- April 26. 33. Sovereign, &c., of Kilkenny to the Lord Deputy. Had Kilkenny. received his letters by Anthony Coleoght, and had, in compliance with them, warned all the priests of that country to appear personally before him and the Council, wherever the same shall be, on the following Sunday.
- April 27. 34. Mayor, &c., of Waterford to the same. "Eche King of Englande Waterford. that did cum into Irelande did chose their place of chief refuge here in this citie, and the good happe of our predecessors have bene not onely ever to preserve theym selves unatwited of cryme against their Sovereaigne, but have done in sondry wise notable service," and in consequence they have had many privileges granted to them. Their intention of repairing their fortifications this summer. Have suffered greatly by pirates the last three years. The bearer James Wodloke.
- April. 35. [Brian Jonys] Constable of Carlow, to the same. In consequence of Sir Richd. Butler building a castle at Garryn Denn, in Slew-marge, the people will not inhabit there, but leave the neighbourhood. The country belongs to O'More, and not to Sir Richard. Jonys desires to enjoy quietly all that the King has in Slew-marge. Whale's claim founded on an old record brought over by Sir Anthony Sentleger and Baron Walshe, the Commissioners. All the profit Baron Lyster had through Slew-marge "yn hunnaye, corne, butter, catell, and munnaye, by the yere, came nott paste iiij nobelles yryshe and vd." Jonys desires the spirituality of Clowne and of Shroyle (Shroyle), which hath but half an acre sown.
- May 8. 36. Dominick Lynche, Mayor of Galway, to the same. In favour of Galway. Sir Dermot O'Shaughnessy, an honest and good man, and made Knight by King Henry. Incloses, 37. Necessary artificers desired by Mr. Travers for the furniture of the King's Majesties' Ordnance.

38. Requests by John Travers to the Lord Protector Somerset to have the constableness or keeping of the castle of Knockfergus and lands of the late St. Mary's Abbey by Dublin, and of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem.

June 9.
Carlingford.

39. Nicholas Bagenall to the Lord Deputy Bellyngham. Has received his letters of May 31. Piers Walsh had come to Carlingford with 70 kerne and ought to have had but 50. Received his secret letter by the hands of my Lord of Louth. In Dundalk he met with the Lord of Louth, Sir James Garland, Bedlo, and the rest of the gentlemen of Uriel, who agreed to send labourers for the Newry, which will be a check upon the Earl of Tyrone. Carlingford Castle and the Green Castle are in a wretched condition. Mr. Brereton and Mr. Brookys have great need of their wages. Bellyngham to induce Magennis to cut the great pass called Ballogh Enary. Peter Lewys can give further particulars.

June [12.]

40. Anthony Colcloght to the same in favour of the bearer Shane Ballowe M'William, who requests a pardon for himself and his two sons. He has promised to be a good neighbour both to Carlow and this house. Knows "no theyffes that be come now in I-drone but I-doright is full."

June 14.
Down.

41. Andrew Brereton to the same. Two of the chief Scots of the Dufferin are taken at Knockfergus, and those that were the chief undoers of Lecale. John White, the heir of the Dufferin, who is like to be undone by the Scots, is an honest man, and ready to his power to serve. [White was slain by the Scots; see 1551, Nov. 18.]

June 21.
Beling.

42. Thomas Alen to the same. Complains that the number of carriages and labourers for the works of Even have not been duly answered. Prays that there may be appointed 30 carts and 60 labourers for the 6 weeks to come, besides the 120 labourers and 15 carts granted by the county of Kildare. The five "clarances" retained these twenty days past have brought more wood for the lime kilns than forty of their carts. They bear the name of carts, but good cars would bring as much, "and wold to God, all carriages laid by water." Has sent for sixteen more good masons into the country of Kilkenny and Tipperary, "whom hitherto I found always obedient and willing subjects."

June [22?]
Saturday.
Kilkenny.

43. Walter Cowley to the same. That old Sir John Grace may not be deprived of the custody of a friary in Roscrea. Gives his advice as to the occupation of lands, tithes, &c., for the King. Thinks it not meet that the Countess of Ormond should have the King's two parts of Ormond's lands at her liberty.

June 23.
Dungarvan.

44. Matthew Kyng to Bellyngham. Had been appointed with others to hear certain bills of complaint exhibited against Sir Gerald Fitz John and his followers. Sir Gerald appeared, but when he perceived that judgment was given upon the very persons who had offended, he went away in a rage, declaring that no matter should be ordered against any of his followers, and that he would himself make answer to the whole. Desires a larger commission. Another enormity is used; when the Lord of a country is displeased with any of his followers, he will imprison him, take his goods, and use him at his pleasure, without any order of law.

June 24.
Kilkenny.

45. Walter Cowley to the same, signifying the pleasure of the Marshal of Ireland Sir Francis Bryan and the Countess of Ormond, that James White of Clonmell and Nicholas Brown might have in lease the village of Lawleston. Requests Bellyngham's concurrence.

June 24.
Richmond.

46. Privy Council to the Lord Deputy and Council, in answer to remembrances sent by William Cantwell; such of the Irish as are to be ennobled shall receive their honours at the King's own hands. The authors of vain rumours to be punished. The Earl of Derby appointed to be ready with 1000 men to assist the Lord Deputy. The 300 footmen appointed to proceed to Ireland with Sir John Seyntloe stayed. To inquire what money is in the Mint. Restoring of lands in Leix and Offaley. To employ the pirates to aid against M'Donnell of the Isles. Suit of Cowley and John Plunkett. To consider of houses abroad in the country fit for the Deputy. Kildare and other bishopricks shall be filled up according to the Lord Deputy's recommendation.

[June 25.]
Tuesday.

47. Walter Cowley to the Lord Deputy Bellyngham. On the direction of the Council that he himself and Mr. Attorney should in this journey put in execution ecclesiastical jurisdictions and abolish idolatry, papistry, the mass sacrament, and the like. It is expedient that the Archbishop of Cashel should accompany them to serve the King, for his being with them shall do more good than his continuance in Dublin. Has been persuading with O'Brennan and his kinsfolks of the Brennans, and with O'Ryan and the Ryans, of whom he shall have for the King an honest portion of land for their offences. Interference of the Countess of Ormond in his proceedings. 50. Instructions from Lord Chancellor Alen to his brother Thomas Alen to declare to the Government of England. Their proceedings since the departure of Sir Edward Bellyngham. Strangeness of O'Carroll at their coming to Kilkenny. They allured Cahir M'Arte Kavanagh's wife to come to them. A displeasure betwixt my lady of Ormond and my lady of Desmond. Desmond came with us to the burial of the Lord Justice Sir Francis Bryan. Wish Desmond to have both thanks and some gift of apparel sent him from the King to animate him in his well doing. Great combination of the wild Irish on account of the rough handling of them by the late Deputy. Hope of comfort and aid of Scots promised to the rebels by [Waucop] the blind Bishop who "came from Scotland owte of Rome." The Countess of Ormond's practice to marry with the heir of Desmond. Alen's remonstrance. Her honour first to have to husband so noble a man as she had, and after his death to have so noble a gentleman as this was, by whom she should enjoy an honest portion of living for little more than a year's pain. "So as in thende she promised me upon hir honor that she wolde lyve sole for oon yere." The new Deputy always dislikes to hear from Alen such advice as his knowledge of the country enables him to give. Prays for 100*l.* annuity and license to live in England. Imprisonment of Watkin Apowell for misdemeanors both by writing and deed.

51. George [Dowdall] Primate of Armagh to Sir John Alen Knight, the Chancellor, and to the Council of Ireland, transmitting the letters sent to the Earl of Tyrone by the French King and by George Parys. An army of Frenchmen in Scotland ready to land in Ireland. They have 36 ships with as many Scots and Scottish ships. The blind Bishop [Waucop] at Derry: "he ys a very schrowth [shrewd] spy as I hyre say and a gret brewer of warr."

"the King's fader with a few in number extinguysshed the traytor Thomas Fitzgeralde, being by parentele of the greatest reputation and power here," and now the King our master has subdued O'Connor and O'More. Beg that O'Connor may be detained in England, considering how oft he has been an offender, and that no "reconcyliation coulede wyne, neither othe ne promyse staye him to absteine from rebellion," and how this George Parys, who "hathe byn as appeareth by the saide letters inclosid, with the Frenche King, was his chieffe man, with whome nowe the said Ochonours sonne Cormocke ys Joyned bothe to explore the Frenche and Scottes intentyon for thexpelling of all englishemen oute of this Realme." Cahir M'Arte Kavanagh "hathe of late by tradymente attayned the possession of the Castell of Fernes," the chief garrison the King has in those parts being in the guard of Sir Richard Butler. Incloses,

52. I. Manus O'Donnell to the Lord Deputy and Council. The blind Scottish Bishop [Robert Waucop latinized as Venantius] that is come to "erlonde was in outhier plasys and contres afor he came to my contrey." Will not maintain the said Bishop in his country but at their wills. There came to Lough Foyle two great Lords Frenchmen out of Scotland. They sent a gentleman to speak to him [O'Donnell] but no letters, for they had knowledge that he sent to the Lord Deputy and Council the letters of credence that came to him in times past. They intend to do some great deed before Whitsuntide. The Calough O'Donnell took Hugh O'Donnell by a train of great falsehood and treason. Requests that the said Hugh may be set free. It cannot be proved that Manus O'Donnell ever drew Scots into this land. March 4, Donegal.

52. II. Earl of Tyrone to George Dowdall, Archbishop of Armagh, Primate of all Ireland. The blind doctor [Waucop] who calls himself Primate, came lately with certain French noblemen who brought him letters from the French King. They conferred many gifts on James M'Donnell [M'Connell] on gaining his alliance. Aenghus [Æneas] the brother of the said James came with them to Ireland. The said Aenghus had for them three castles in the Island of Eugenius, commonly called Inishowen. Latin. March 7, Dungannon.

52. III. Lord Chancellor and Council to the Earl of Tyrone. Thanks for his speedy information to the Archbishop of Armagh as to the coming of the French Ambassadors. Assure him that the said emissaries only seek an occasion to invade the northern parts, and although they may pretend that they will only offend Englishmen, still their scope is to subject all Ireland to their control. Show how miserably the French had ruled in Italy and Sicily, from which on account of their innumerable oppressions and unspeakable wickedness they were justly expelled. Characterize their noblesse as fierce, proud, and rapacious, so that it were better to live under the Turk than under them. Latin. 1549-50, March 17, Dublin.

The Castle of Maynooth.
1. Lord Deputy and Council to the Privy Council. To confirm to the bearer, Wm. Shawe, the grant of the office of Auditor on the decease of the late Auditor [Richard Brasier].
- [Jan. 7.]
2. Articles for the expedition into Ireland. The fortifying of the havens in the south-west and the north, viz.—Baltimore, Beare, Olderfleet, and the Ban. To have six ships, two or three rowing pinnaces, and 1000 men, of whom 200 to be pioneers, 100 artificers, and 200 mariners. [Probably the minute of the expedition intended under Lord Cobham, and which Sir J. Croft was afterwards nominated to execute. This is stated in King Edward's Journal to have been appointed on the 7th of January.]
- Jan. 19.
Maynooth
Castle.
3. Lord Deputy Sentleger to Mr. Sec. Cecill. Malicious reports raised against him. Doubts not the King's Majesty has now five thousand hearts more in Ireland than he had "at my repaier." His chaplain, James Bicton, is no papist; no man within this realm has more set forth the King's proceedings than he. Is sorry the device for Leix and Offaley [late O'Connor and O'More's countries] is not like to take effect. The contention between the earls of Desmond and Thomond pacified; the son of either given as a pledge. The coming of O'Donnell expected, whose son, the Calough O'Donnell, had been with him, Sir Anthony, nine days. The Earl of Tyrone called traitor. Such handling of wild men has done much harm in Ireland. Has caused the whole service of the Communion to be drawn into Latin. The city of Limerick has gladly condescended to embrace the same. Desires that his poor servant, William Jarbard, may resort to Cecill for knowledge of his mind from time to time. Has at large declared the misbehaviour used towards the Earl of Tyrone in letters now sent to the Protector Somerset.
- Jan. 26.
Greenwich.
4. Privy Council to the Lord Deputy and Council of Ireland. Informing them secretly that Lord Cobham should be sent to the south of Ireland with a navy and army to put the port towns in a proper state of defence. In the mean time they may survey Cork, Kinsale, Baltimore, and Beare Haven. Further information sent by the bearer, Nicholas Bagenall. [Information had been received by the English Government of a projected invasion of Ireland by France.]
- Jan. 31.
Galway.
5. Richard Earl of Clanrycard to the Privy Council. He could not hitherto since the death of his father bear up head in Connaught. Resistance of his kinsmen and others of the Burkes. The whole country of Clanricard made waste to the gates of Galway. The Lord Chancellor Cusake has quieted all our contentions. Will from henceforth be able to serve the King with a band of men. To the intent the Lord Chancellor's conclusions may sink the surer in their hearts, Clanrycard has caused certain gentlemen to be hanged, drawn, and quartered, which was by so much the greater terror to the rest, that the like execution was never seen there before.

Kilmainham. 9. Lord Deputy Sentleger to the Lord Protector Somerset. To be good to the bearer, John Goldsmyth, Clerk of the Council. John Parker is detained to victual and order his forts of Knockfergus and Olderfleet to resist the Scots of the Out Isles, who mind to make a descent. Parker cannot as yet repair to England to answer the variance between him and the two Bagenalls. Complains that he is restrained from the receipt of money out of the mint in Ireland. Trusts they may have money to serve their turns, and promises that there shall no service be slackd. The bearer, John Goldsmyth, can more amply declare the proceedings here. A bishoprick granted to one of his chaplains. Desires the deanery of Kilkenny for a scholar of the King's Majesty's at Oxford, called James Bicton, who was chaplain to the Earl of Ormond, and a born man of that country. [This James Bicton was likewise Sentleger's own chaplain. See Dec. 5, 1550.]
- Feb. 18.
Kilmainham. 10. Lord Deputy Sentleger to W. Paulet, Lord St. John Earl of Wiltshire [and afterwards, 1551, Winchester], the Lord Treasurer of England. On the report of Lord Cobham coming to be Deputy, and Sir Wm. Seynttloo to be Lord Marshal; remonstrating on his being restrained from drawing money out of the Mint; 2,000*l.* will not pay that is now due. Hears that Sir George Harper has obtained part of Langley Park.
- Feb. 21.
Dublin. 11. Martin Pirry to the Privy Council. Detailing the course of his journey in conveying the bullion and treasure from Holyhead into Ireland. Account of 7,273*l.* 18*s.* 3*¼d.* delivered to the warrant of the Deputy Sentleger, and coined from 1 Oct. to 31 Jan.
- Feb. 21.
Dublin. 12. Walter Cowley to Paulet, Earl of Wiltshire, Lord High Treasurer of England. He sent a little book of his late proceedings by young Mr. Bryan. Leases of Leix, Offaley, and other places, passed to divers persons. State of Ireland. Recommends that Commissioners should always be with the Earls of Thomond, Desmond, Tyrone, and O'Donnell.
- Feb. 24. 13. The King to the Lord Deputy Sentleger. Informing him that the proposed expedition into Ireland under Lord Cobham was deferred, but that Sir James Croft was sent to make the necessary preparations; full credence and all possible assistance to be given him.

25. The Council in Dublin to the Privy Council. Reasons for displacing Andrew Brereton from his office in the north parts and placing there Mr. Sentleger, son of the Lord Deputy. Andrew Brereton had honestly served under his uncle in those parts. The Earl of Tyrone sent a certain force with two of his wife’s brethren, young men, to distrain for rent owing by the Macartans, a sept of Irishmen bordering upon Lecale. Brereton set upon them and slew the Countess of Tyrone’s two brothers and divers of their men. The said Brereton, to the intent to dwell in the College of Down, which one Prior Magennis had in farm, expelled the said Prior from his farm. Prior Magennis was seized and put into the Castle of Dundrum by Roger Broke ; and a gentleman of the Macartans beheaded without any order of law. The Earl of Tyrone, with the Countess, his wife, and the Earls of Desmond, Thomond, and Clanrycard resorted to Dublin last Michaelmas Term to welcome the Lord Deputy, then newly returned out of England. Andrew Brereton called the Earl of Tyrone traitor at the Council Board. He spoke after the report of a kerne of M’Quillin’s, who said that Tyrone had sent answer to the King of France that he would take his part against King Edward. Brereton has long served in Ireland, where his grandfather and kinsfolks deceased in the King’s service. [It is remarkable that the signature of P. Barnewall, Magister Rotulorum, is appended both to this and the preceding letter dated from Cork. There lived at this time both Patrick Barnewall, of Fieldston, Gracedieu, and Turvey, Master of the Rolls, and Sir Pat. Barnewall of Trimletston, son of the Lord Chancellor Trymleteston, whose death is mentioned 1538, Aug. 5. This last Patrick signs the proclamation of 1561, June 8, as “P. Barnewall, Lord of T.,” but they were not both Masters of the Rolls. It is probable both signatures are genuine, and it is possible one may have been added to Sir James Croft’s despatch after it reached Dublin, on the way to England.]

Cork. 27. Sir J. Croft to J. Duddeley, Earl of Warwick, Lord Great Master of the Household. Had received the Council's letters by Crofton, about Cork, Kinsale, and Baltimore. Thomas Greves. Gives his opinions on several points, previous to his assuming the office of Lord Deputy, particularly recommending the punctual payment of soldiers. 1,000 soldiers and 140 labourers arrived without any money to find them. Desires that Mr. Rogers may be employed for furtherance of the fortifications. Sir Ralph Bagenall has a place of charge and small entertainment. Waiting for his patent and instructions.
- May. 28. Note of money due to the King out of such bullion as has been coined in the Mint in the Castle of Dublin, being 7,270*l.* 18*s.* 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ d., and 5,372*l.* 6*s.* 8 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. Signed by the Lord Deputy Sentleger, Chancellor Cusake, and others.

- Aug. 6. 45. Geo. Browne Archbishop of Dublin to the same. Accuses Sir A. Sentleger of papistical practices. Flight of George Dowdall Archbishop of Armagh. His writing "that he wolde never be bushope where tholie masse was abolished." The Archbishops of Armagh claim the primacy and "tyle of thooll realme, by the bushope of Romes bulles;" Browne claims the same "by the Kynges Maiestie and his most noble progenytours graunts and giftes." Commends the present Lord Deputy.
- Dublin.
- Aug. 10. 46. Sir J. Alen to the Privy Council. Their letters of the 29th of January last, whereby they willed him, upon consideration of his experience and long service, to meet the Lord Cobham at Waterford, and attend upon him as a Councillor. Money defrayed by him for all my Lord Cobham's provisions. Thanks them "aldernext" the King's Majesty for his obligation for certain money which he had of the King at his return. Suit for the perfecting of the grant of the annuity of 100*l.* promised him for license to pass and repass with his goods "out of this realm," and for the renewal of the leases of his farms for 21 years. [Original minute in his own handwriting.]
- Dublin.
- [Probably soon after the above letter.] 47. Grant to Sir John Alen, late Chancellor of Ireland, of an annual pension of 200 marks, from Michaelmas in the year 1550; and license of absence to leave Ireland at his pleasure. Indorsed [Grant] of 200 marks to Sir John Alen, Knight, Chancellor of Ireland, with licence of "absenty" out of Ireland. Latin.

1551.
Aug. 17. 48. The King to the Lord Deputy Croft. Answer to his letters of the 28th July, and the instructions given to Thomas Wood. Directions in many important matters. Sends 16,000*l.* Coinage to be made by Pirry. Leases of lands in Offaley. Objects to the formation of two councils. Cahir M'Arte Kavanagh to come into England soon. Suit of Elizabeth Duke, widow, late the wife of William Duke. Cantwell to have one of his ears cut off for counterfeiting of the hands of certain of the Privy Council, or to be punished by the laws of the realm, if they prescribe any punishment. Grant to Walter Cowley in fee farm of lands of the clear value of 20*l.* sterling.
- Aug. 17.
Kilmainham. 49. Lord Deputy Sir J. Croft to the Privy Council. Had discharged the Vice Admiral with the Hart, and detained the bark of Boulogne and the bark of Morlaix, which are meter for this coast than any other the King's ships.
- Aug. 30.
Tallanstown. 50. Lord Deputy and Council to the Privy Council. That the money may be at the same valuation as in England. The English merchants pay unreasonable prices for all kind of merchandise in Ireland, and utterly impoverish all the King's subjects. "Neyther ys ther any man presentely habull to lyve apou his entertaynemente, but as we force the country, the contynuaunce whereof woll growe to a weryness." The present state of dearth is to be wondered at, every thing that was worth one penny is now worth four, and yet of all things there is a reasonable plenty. Walter Cowley of Waterford is not yet returned from Court.
- Aug. 31. A brief declaration of the receipt and expenditure of 10,000*l.*, commencing the 27th of May, 1551, with an estimate of what resteth unpaid, which shall be due 31st August, 1551, under the hands of Sir William Brabazon and Andrew Wyse. [Ireland. Folios. Vol. v. No. 6.]
- Sept. 2.
The Newry. 51. Lord Deputy and Council to the Privy Council. Acknowledging their answers to the instructions sent by Thomas Wood; are now on their journey to the North, but will give their opinions for leasing of Leix and Offaley on their return. The Scots have made a prey in Claneboy; and the ships which arrived at Knockfergus with our victuals, hearing thereof, "are gone to cut their passage, which we trust they shall do, if they take the sea."
- Sept. 27.
Lismullin. 52. Thos. Cusake, Chancellor of Ireland, to the Earl of Warwick, minutely describing the proceedings of the Lord Deputy and the forces, who in a general hosting set upon the Scots under James M'Donnell (M'Connell) in Raghlin Island. Colla [Maelduv] M'Donnell the second brother to James, had a strong castle over the sea, named the castle of Keanbaan, which the Lord Deputy caused to be defaced. Transactions with the Irish chieftains O'Donnell, Calough, his son, and Hugh O'Donnell, his second son. Contention between Savage of Arde and Hugh M'Neill Oge ordered. Sir Donnell Magennis to pay yearly 40 kine, and the finding of 80 galloglasses. O'Hanlon to pay 30 kine and 40 galloglasses. M'Cartan to pay 20 kine and 30 galloglasses. A general order taken amongst all the Irish Chiefs, that they should have no more Scots in bon-naught. The Lord Deputy "dud make a shiref in Clanneboy,...and an other shiref in Arde, a contre next adyoyneng to the same." "The contre of Tyroon is brought throughe warre of the Erle and his sonnes (oon of them silves against other) to suche extream myserie, as there is nat ten plowes in all Tyroon." "Hundreddis this last yere and this somer died in the field throghe famen."

Sept. 29. 53. Croft to the Privy Council. The bearer, Thomas Wood, has Kilmainham. been through the whole of this journey. Has brought the Earl of Tyrone into the English Pale for ending certain variances between him, his son Matthew the Baron of Dungannon, and others.

Sept. 29. 54. Instructions to Mr. Wood, to be declared to the Privy Council. The journey to the north; the Scots; the Earl of Tyrone's conduct; money to be of like value both in England and Ireland. Leix and Offaley. The Earl of Desmond's office for the Treasurership of Ireland. Augmentation of the Chancellor's fee, &c. Marshal Bagenall's request for the Newry. Willingness of Magennis to further the King's service. [To the several articles of these instructions are postils in Cecill's hand declaring the resolutions taken.]

Sept. 29. 55. Brief of the account of Sir William Brabazon, Knight, Receiver-General of the revenues, and Vice-Treasurer at Wars by the space of eleven years, ending Sept. 5 Edw. VI. The sum of the whole charge is 180,185*l.* 4*s.* 4½*d.* and half a farthing (q. di. q.) Sum of the payments, 167,740*l.* 9*s.* 4¾*d.* (ob. q.)

Oct. 27. 56. Nicholas Bagenall, the Marshal, to the Lord Deputy Croft.
Armagh. The bands of Cuffe, Gwillim, and Portas resorted to him to Armagh. To provide masons and labourers for the muring up of doors and windows in the Friars, for the better safeguard of the soldiers appointed there to reside. Coming of Felim Roe with 30 horsemen in his company, besides M'Mahon and Henry M'Shane, having three horsemen apiece in their company. They alledged that the Earl of Tyrone, at his coming home, would destroy their lands and countries, as he will in case he be not restrained. The Baron of Delvin's brother came with 25 kerne. The rest would not come, which is a good occasion for the Lord Deputy to put them out of wages. The Dean of Armagh [Terence Daniel] gives false information as to the distance of Shane O'Neill's country. The Baron of Dungannon declares himself, but the King's man, advances with but four horsemen in his company against Shane O'Neill on a hill, accompanied with 18 horsemen and 60 kerne. As he griped to have taken him by the neck a bough in the pass put the Baron from him and almost from his own horse. Nature of the instructions given by Tyrone to Shane O'Neill. Terelaughe Leuenaghe [Turlough Luineach O'Neill] and Shane be agreed. The Baron of Dungannon to be the umpire. The Baron of Dungannon desires to have half-a-dozen men of Mr. Cuffe's band in household wages. Bagenall has sent his brother's company and Mr. Blike's to Uriel. [This was an

- Nov. 6. 58. Same to John Sutton Duddeley Duke of Northumberland.
Kilmainham. In favour of Thomas Brown.
- Nov. 59. Richard Kettyng to the Privy Council. The Council of Ireland will not, in compliance with the King's letters, grant him a lease of the Castle of Ferns and Enniscorthy. Prays they may be granted to him by patent. His lands of Kilelogan and Ballycoke granted in reversion to Walter Cowley.
- Nov. 6. 60. Lord Deputy and Council to same. Giving their opinions that Dublin. the Castle of Ferns and Manor of Enniscorthy were not meet to be granted to Richard Kettyng.
- Nov. 8. 61. Croft to the same. In favour of the bearer, Captain Atwood, Kilmainham. for his painful service in Cork and Limerick, as a joint Commissioner with Captains Warren and Ovington and the Earl of Desmond.
- Nov. 11. 62. Lord Deputy and Council to the same. In favour of the Dublin. bearer, John Bathe, for the office of Chief Chamberlain of the Exchequer, held by his father for many years, who is now impotent.
- Nov. 11. 63. Lord Deputy Croft to the Duke of Northumberland. That Kilmainham. persons may be nominated to the sees of Armagh, Cashel, and Ossory. Recommend one Leverosse for learning, discretion, and good living as the metest man in this realm for Cashel or Ossory, and best able to preach both in the English and Irish tongue. He was schoolmaster to the young Lord Gerald Fitzgerald, of Kildare, and has had his pardon for conveying him out of the realm. Great misery by reason of the bad state of the currency. Knows not why this realm should have worse money than England. [It appears from this letter that G. Dowdall was stripped of his archbishoprick; Ware says he was deprived of the title of Primate of all Ireland, October 20.]
- Nov. 16. 64. Lord Chancellor Cusake and Council to the Privy Council.
Molville. In favour of the bearer, Captain John Wakley, in his suit for the reversion of the Abbey of the Navan, which he hath presently for years.
- Nov. 18. 65. Croft to the Privy Council. He sent Marshal Bagenall Baron of Delvin's house in Meath. to expulse the Scots that had slain White, and inhabited the Dufferin. Recommends Sir Donnell Magennis to be created Baron of Evaigh. Incloses,
65. 1. Marshal Nicholas Bagenall to Lord Deputy Croft. Being accompanied by Edward Brereton, Felim M'Neill Boy [O'Neill?], Donnell M'Shane, Sir James Garland, Sir Donnell Magennis, Captain Gwillim, Matthew Baron of Dungannon, and Thomas Fleming, a gentleman of the borders, he proceeds against the Scots

and Hugh M'Neill Oge, who succoured them. Mr. [John] Moorton drives the Scots' kine through Arde to Strangford, and so home. The Bishop of Dromore and Prior Magennis sent with letters and large offers to Hugh M'Neill Oge. Prey of Hugh M'Neill Oge, 1,000 head of cattle taken. The Baron of Dungannon met with a hundred Scots at the entry of a wood, who withstood him with shot of arrow, of whom he slew twenty, and brought their bows and arrows away. Intends to return to Belfast. It is very requisite for Marshal Nicholas Bagenall to be now in England. Nov. 11, Strangford.

Nov. 18. 66. Lord Deputy and Council to the Privy Council. In favour of Robt. Goodwyne, a poor old trumpeter.
Castleton in Delvin.

Nov. 18. 67. Lord Deputy Croft to the Duke of Northumberland. In favour of the bearer to have the reversion of the farm whereon he now dwelleth.
Delvin.

Nov. 22. 68. Warrant to the Treasurer of Ireland to pay to the Lord Deputy Sir J. Croft the allowance of 40 horsemen and 60 footmen over and above his ordinary allowance; and to the Lord Chancellor an extra fee of 100*l.* per annum.

Nov. 22. 69. Privy Council to the Lord Chancellor Cusake. The King hath a very good and favourable opinion of him, and the Council think the same justly conceived and well deserved. They have obtained an increase of his fee to the sum of 100*l.* by the year, to begin at Christmas next, and also a gift of the site of the Abbey of Clonard with the vicarage of Kilbrenye and the parsonage of Kilbegan and Tyghenam.
Westminster.

Nov. 70. Privy Council to the Lord Deputy. Advising him what line of conduct to pursue for the better government of Ireland. Religion to be cherished. The office of the Ordnance. The provision of bow-staves of the yew-tree growing in Ireland, and of shafts, chasing-staves, pikes, elms for planks, and iron. The lands and revenues to be looked into. Private suits in general shall be referred to the Deputy's determination. Have written to Mr. Record touching the change of the Almaines, if they be not profitable to the King.

Nov. 71. Transcript of the above minute, with an additional article referring to the lengthened answer in the King's letter to the instructions brought by Mr. Wood.

Nov. 24. 72. Fair copy of the above transcript, with a still further article, recommending the suit of one Francis Lee for a lease of the late Priory of Killewgh, lying in Offaley [Killeigh, in King's County].

Nov. 73. The King to the Lord Deputy Croft. In answer to his letters and instructions of the 29th Sept., sent by Thomas Wood. The Earl of Tyrone to be sent into England, and his son Shane, if he can be had. The Baron of Dungannon to have authority in his father's absence. Will send over Martin Pirry shortly with a device for the improvement of the currency to a better proportion in fineness. The leasing of the countries of Leix and Offaley, and the governance thereof by two constables. They shall be erected into one or two shires, and divided into hundreds, cantons, or other parts. Courses to be taken for the suppression of certain colleges and chantries. Rowland Burke, the Bishop of Clonfert, to have the see of [Elphin] in commendam, and to serve as one of the new Council to be established in Connaught. Magennis to have an estate of such lands as he has justly in his possession confirmed to him, and thereupon to be made a Baron, on condition that he shall induce the people inhabiting within his rule to leave off their wild and savage rites and manner of living. The Earl of Desmond shall enjoy the office of Treasurer, with such preeminences and dignities as may stand with the surety of the State. An augmentation of 100*l.* to be added to Chancellor Cusake's fee, to commence from Sept. 29, 1551. A further lease to — Plunkett of certain tithes and villages, part of the possessions of St. Patrick's and St. Mary Abbey, in Dublin. Resolution not to sell the King's lands about Dublin. The money to be reformed.

Nov. 26. 74. Fair copy of preceding minute, with subsequent corrections and additional articles, on receiving the Lord Deputy's letter of the 30th Oct., inclosing Bagenall's letter of Oct. 27. Notable good service done by the Baron of Dungannon against his brother, Shane O'Neill. If Shane is likely to amend, and convert himself to his duty, he may still abide in Ireland. The Earl of Tyrone's faults do daily more and more appear. The Lord Deputy Croft to have in reward, of the King's liberality, 1,000*l.*, to be taken of the treasure in Ireland, and to have 40 horsemen and 60 foot in wages.

Nov. 26. 75. Privy Council to the Lord Deputy Croft. Questions and Westminster. articles whereon he shall consult the Council and other wise men for the regulation of the standard of the Irish currency. Whether it be expedient that the King's money, current in Ireland, should be of such value as that in England? Whether it be profitable for the King, but not for the people, or for the people but not for the King?

- May 8. 43. Book by Sir Thomas Cusake, Lord Chancellor, sent to the Duke of Northumberland. Present state of Ireland. Munster is quiet. There be divers Irishmen's countries betwixt Athlone and Offaley, as O'Brien, M'Coghlan, the Fox, O'Molloy, and M'Geoghegan's countries, very strong countries for woods, moors, and bogs, by means whereof much cattle was stolen out of the English pale. They all condescended to cut passes in their fastness, that men might pass through without danger. In Claneboy is one Moriortaghe Dulenaghe, one of the Neills, who hath the name as Captain of Claneboy, but he is not able to maintain the same; he hath eight tall gentlemen to his sons and all they cannot make past 24 horsemen. There is another sept in that country of Felim Bacagh's sons, tall men, which taketh part with Hugh M'Neill Oge, till now of late. The same Hugh was preyed by Marshal Bagenall, who has made preys upon other of those confines for the same. The said Hugh went to Colla M'Donnell (Connell) who landed with 140 bows. O'Reilly refusing to repair to Dublin, Cusake went to meet him to know his mind. "He declared that he feared to be kept under reste as therle [of Tyrone] is." "The cause of his [Tyrone's] retheyner was, bothe for the wasting and distroing of his Countrey; and for that he said, that he would never for his tyme care for the Amendement of the same; and if there were But one plughe going in the Countrey he wolde spende uppon the same, with meny other undecent words for a Capten of a countrey to saye." Shane O'Neill, the Earl's youngest son, came to Dungannon, and took with him of the Earl's treasure 800*l*. in gold and silver, besides plate and other stuff. He sent to the Scots to give them entertainment. On May-day Cusake went to him and did parley with him, and perceived nothing in him "but pryde, stubbornes, and all bent to do what he coulde to distroy the pore Countrey." If a good President were placed in Tyrone the country would prosper. The manner how O'Donnell banished his father, and how he made war with his son

[March 1.] 26. Instructions from the Earl of Desmond to his chaplain Sir Dorbye ne Royne to be declared to the Privy Council. Setting forth at length his various petitions, and requests particularly his right to Dungarvan and the prize wines of Youghal and Kinsale, granted of late to the Earl of Ormond. In all these suits "my lorde of Penbrooke, my lorde of Ely, and Master Peter, I trust wyll further youe."

[March 1.] 27. Requests of the same for the manor of Dungarvan and all lands now in his possession by patent. Also confirmation of the liberty of Kerry. Item to have a letter from Her Majesty to the Vice-Treasurer for his discharge since his last quietus est for the rents of religious houses by him restored to their former state. Item, to have letters to the Mayor of Cork to let him have certain, of Her Majesty's shot and powder that is there in keeping, and if need be the loan of certain great ordnance, to plague disordered people within his rule.

April 4. 28. Lord Deputy Sussex and Council to the King and Queen. James M'Donnell desires peace and prays for a pardon under the Great Seal to him, his brothers, and relations. Offers to permit the Deputy to enjoy the fishing of the Ban, on condition that the fishers pay him the accustomed droits. Wishes for certain lands to be assured to him, some as his patrimony and some for which he shows no title. The O'Mores who inhabit Leix are quiet. [Abstract in French, probably made for the use of King Philip.]

Notes on the above. The said James M'Donnell is one of the Redshanks, and has been permitted to overrun the North from the 6th year of King Edward VI. till the coming of the present Lord Deputy. He had then 7,000 Scots, and had enthralled several chiefs of large countries and many of the people. The O'Mores and O'Conors cost Henry VIII. and Edw. VI. 100,000*l.* sterling. At the accession of the Queen, the said O'Mores attacked the English planted by Bellyngham and Sir James Croft, and put man, woman, and child to the sword, razing the castles and burning everything to the gates of Dublin. In December 1556 the O'Mores and O'Conors submitted without condition, and promising obedience and loyalty.

April 4. 29. Lord Deputy Sussex to the King and Queen. Pepparde's suit as to Slewmarge. Numbers of English planted in Leix and Offaley. Has imprisoned certain lawyers for withstanding their Majesties' prerogative. Mr. Stafford's offer of 40*l.* per annum of increase, for the reversion of the manor of Rathewyr (Rathwere?). That money may be despatched with Sir Henry Sydney on his return to Ireland. [French abstract.]

April 15. 30. Lord Deputy and Council to the Queen. Sends Sir Hen. Radecliff to ascertain her resolution for the north parts of Ireland. Have summoned a Parliament at Dublin for the 1st of June. Pray for money and munition.

August 4. Leighlin. 61. Lord Deputy Sussex to Secretary Boxoll. Has received the three patents dated 14 July. 'Is anxious for the ships and pinnaces to come a month sooner. Mr. Wingfeld sent to London. The E. of Desmond not dead but past recovery. Hears that his, Sussex's, "father's late wyfe maketh sume styrrre with my tenants in Lyncolnshyre." [Partly in cypher.]
- Aug. 4. 62. Postscript to the above, signed by Sussex, Sydney, Stanley, and Radecliff, urging despatch, as the year is far advanced for the intended expedition. [Partly in cypher.]
- [Aug. ?] 63. Private suits of G. Dowdall, Primate of Armagh, to be obtained of the Queen, for the restoration of the hospital of Arde Priory. His servant Richard Plunkett, of the New house, to have assurance of the office of Chief Serjeant of the county of Louth for the term of his life. Some learned men are of opinion that it would be a case of præmunire to curse any of the wild Irishry, who do not answer to the Sheriff's writ, in a temporal cause. Desires license to exercise and minister all kinds of ecclesiastical censures against the wild Irish. Also, to have certain lands for a college in Termonfeckin.
- Aug. 4. 64. The Queen to the Lord Deputy Sussex. Touching the suits of the Primate of Armagh. To take order for the new erection of the priory or hospital of Arde to be a hospital as it was before the dissolution, for the better relief of poor and sick people. To cause the house of the friars of Arde to be newly erected in the Queen's name. Sussex to suffer the Primate of Armagh, without peril of the laws, to exercise and use all manner of ecclesiastical censures against the disordered Irishry. To sell certain parcels of land to the Primate to enable him to erect a college in the town of Termonfeckin.
- Aug. 6. 65. The same to the same, in answer to his letters of 10th and 11th June. The Earl of Ormond to have the temporalities of the late abbey of Athassell in fee simple, with the temporalities of other houses, to the value of 88*l.*, at a yearly rent. - Feb. 6. 12. Memorial of letters to be prepared for Ireland, respecting Shane O'Neill's coming to England. The proclamation for the coin. The fittest place for refining. State of munition in the forts.
- Feb. 8. 13. Lord Justice Sir Wm. Fytzwylliams to Cecill. The 100
Thomas Court. masons despatched for Berwick. Shane O'Neill is likely to do mischief in the English Pale. He has burned three small villages. Incloses,
13. 1. T. Lord Louth and Capt. Humphrey Warne to the Lord Justice Fytzwylliams, respecting Shane O'Neill's refusal to come to terms, till Henry O'Neill be turned out of the English Pale. Jan. 5, Tullanstown.
- Feb. 8. 14. Shane O'Neill to the Queen. His early service. Sussex
Benborbe, favoured Matthew Kelly, whom some men called Baron O'Neill.
[Benburb.] His father "never Refucid no child that any woman namyd to be his." His election to be O'Neill. His prosperous government has caused all the waste country to be inhabited. He desires some English gentlewoman of noble blood to wife. He sends by the bearer the Council's letter in his favour [Jan. 26].—He claims the town of Balgriffin as his father's heir, and denies that the son of Matthew O'Neill has any right to it.—The interview with the Lord of Louth and Capt. Warne, Commissioners for a reformation, was not productive of good effect, through the hindrance of Felim Roe O'Neill and his son, in pursuit of whom some of Shane's men had burnt some houses within the English Pale. He desires that Teig O'Brien may have a safe conduct, to accompany him.
- Feb. 10. 15. A memorial of the charge committed to Thomas Smyth and William Williams presently sent into Ireland, to seek out a fit place for the refining of the base monies in Ireland. Recommending Dublin, Wicklow, Power's Court or Monasterevan.
- Feb. 12. 16. Shane O'Neill to Sir William Cecill. Desires his favour in Benwribe, forwarding his suits to the Queen. He doubts not that within [Benburb.] three years he may be a mean that Her Majesty may have a yearly revenue instead of the continual charges she has been at. He prays that his man the bearer may resort to him, and that he would bring him to the Queen's presence.
- Feb. 12. 17. A remembrance by Sir James Croft, showing the need of some to administer justice throughout Ireland, and proposing that Grammar Schools be erected, that the people may be bred to be meet for that purpose; also the dissensions in Ulster, the numbers of Scots, and proposals for reformation thereof.
- Feb. 12. 18. Memorial by Cecill, taken out of Sir James Croft's proposal relative to the lack of justice and ministers in Ireland. And out of Sir Henry Sydney's [letter] for dividing Ulster into shires, and reducing it to obedience like England.

April 26. Dublin. 59. Lord Justice Fytzwylliams to the Queen. Shane O'Neill is not able to come without the loan of 3,000*l*. Probability that he would rebel on the receipt of the money. He spoils O'Reilly and others in the English Pale.
- April 27. 60. Instructions given by the Earl of Sussex to William Hutchinson sent into Scotland to James M'Donnell, and so into Ireland to O'Donnell. To go to Berwick, then to Endinburgh to Thomas Randolphe, the Queen's ambassador, and then by his means to the Earl of Argyle, and deliver to him letters from Sussex and Cecill, and desire his letters to James M'Donnell, and to the old Countess of Argyle now in Ireland. To repair next to James M'Donnell, and deliver to him the Queen's and other letters. Then to cross to Knockfergus and proceed to O'Donnell, and deliver to him the Queen's and other letters, with offers of creating him Earl of Tirconnell. And deliver Sussex's letters to his wife, and tell her of the presents he has for her, from Queen Elizabeth. The object of the mission is to engage them all against Shane O'Neill.
- April 27. 61. Same to the same, with further orders for his conference with James M'Donnell, after he shall have proceeded, as far as is contained in his other instructions.
- April 30. St. Patricks. 62. Alexander Craik, Bishop of Kildare and Dean of St. Patricks, to Lord Robert Duddleley. He cannot preach to the people, nor can the people understand him. He desires to be discharged of his bishoprick, and that his man may be despatched. His chaplain, Mr. Lofthowse [Adam Loftus, a native of Yorkshire], who has lately come over, is his only help in setting forth God's word. [Craik was the first to put up a public clock in Dublin. Cotton's Fasti. ii., p. 96.]
- May 3. Dublin. 63. Sir Henry Radecliff to Cecill. Shane O'Neill is not likely to go to England. Comments on "the superflewte of wyne wiche dayly usith, and his pernysius counsellors." He has spoiled O'Reilly. Policy of attacking him. Wm. Williams and Smythe have been before the Justice and Council, about the refining and recoining. Dublin is chosen as the fittest place. Ireland is in good quietness.
- May 4. Thomas Court. 64. Lord Justice Fytzwylliams to Cecill. The ordnance at Knockfergus to be mounted. Shane O'Neill. O'Brien. O'Mores and O'Conors. William Williams and Thomas Smythe have returned from their journey the last of April. Dublin is the fittest place for the Mint. The merchants withdraw all the base coins. Shane O'Neill has lost two great preys, one by Sorley Boy and the other by one of O'Donnell's sons. Incloses, 64. 1. Capt. W. Pers, Constable of Knockfergus, to the Lord Justice Sir W. Fytzwylliams. Brian M'Felim Bacagh O'Neill persecuted. Sorley Boy will not help him. A kinsman of the writer and Brian M'Felim sent to M'Donnell to complain of Sorley. James M'Donnell has many carpenters come out of Scotland, to build him a house in the Red Bay. James M'Donnell used very evil talk against the Queen, and said that the Queen of

Vol. IV. 1561. JUNE—DECEMBER.

- June 8. 1. Proclamation shewing the presumptuous, arrogant, rebellious and traitorous deeds of Shane O'Neill, and denouncing him as a rebel and traitor. Signed by the Lord Lieutenant and Council. [The printed copy of this is inclosed in June 23.]
- June 9. 2. Shane O'Neill to the Lord Justice. Has read his complaint against his (O'Neill's) messenger. Has tortured him, and cut off his ear. The messenger had not spoken O'Neill's mind, as he had been provoked by being robbed on the way, by the people of Henry O'Neill. He desires to know if any news has come from England about his journey thither, or the money he desires to borrow. The Constable of Carlingford has spoiled his men. He desires restitution. Latin.
- June 12. 3. Council of Ireland to the Queen. Have received, on June 7, Her Majesty's letters of May 22 (21 in draft). No foundation for the slanderous reports against the Earl of Sussex. Morough M'Morish was by the sheriff of the county apprehended, and by due order of the laws attainted and put to execution. Donough O'Connor. They are very glad, that the Earl of Kildare has so gravely and truly uttered his opinion, touching the proceedings against Shane O'Neill.
- June 12. 4. Same to the Privy Council. Have received their letters of Dublin. May 24th stating that the Earl of Kildare is not the author, or furtherer of books of complaint and mislike of the government.
- June 16. 5. James, Lord of Slane, to the Lord Lieutenant Sussex. Has Beallaho. executed a certain business according to the instructions his Lordship sent him by Thomas Fleming of Siddan. He desires to know by the bearer whether he is to go forth this journey, or to stay and keep the borders. Has but two carts appointed "unto my cariadg." Desires 4 or 5 carts.
- June 16. 6. The Queen to the same, with directions for decrying the monies Greenwich. of Ireland by proclamation. Resolution for them to be refined and recoined in the Tower of London. A reasonable gain to be allowed to those who shall bring them to the Mint in England. [Draft in Cecill's hand. The original letter was dated June 18, and is inclosed in July 14.]
- June 17. 7. Fair copy of the above.
- June 17. 8. Certificate of rates convenient for the Irish monies to be current in the realm of Ireland, and also of rates convenient to be given in the Mint in England for the same.
- June 17. 9. Certificate of the gain to be allowed to the bringer of Irish monies to the Mint in England.
- June 19. 10. Lord Lieutenant to the Lord of Slane. Slane to remain at Kilmainham? home to keep his borders; but to send his men to the hosting. The causes moved to him by T. Fleming of Siddan, viz, the dealing with Shane O'Neill to go to England. Slane to meet Sussex the first day of the hosting and tarry three or four days.

VOL. IV.

- June 22. Thomas Court. 11. Sir Wm. Fytzwylliams to Cecill. The Lord Lieutenant has left 200 soldiers at Armagh, and fortified the great church there for keeping his victual. Shane O'Neill on the borders of O'Donnell's country, seeking to bind peace with him and the Scots. Imprisonment of the Calough O'Donnell and his wife the Countess of Argyle. Suits of the bearer the writer's cousin. His own suit to come to England. The Earl of Kildare's charges against him not to be credited.
- June 23. Thomas Court. 12. Same to same, commending the diligence of the bearer, Thomas Smythe, in collecting materials for the lately proposed mint in Ireland. The materials will serve any other work.
- June 23. Kilmainham. 13. Lord Lieutenant Sussex to same. Arrival June 2. Oath June 6. Proceedings in Council. General hosting to meet on the borders of Tyrone July 1. Journey to Armagh. That place to be a staple of victual for these wars. Hutchinson on hearing of the taking of O'Donnell has returned hither. James M'Donnell and Sorley Boy. Proceedings with the old O'Donnell and Con O'Donnell. Earls of Ormond and Desmond. O'Reilly still endeavouring to persuade Shane to repair to England. Incloses, 13. 1. Proclamation against Shane O'Neill. Printed.
- June 24. Dublin. 14. Gabriel Croft, Auditor of Ireland, to Cecill. While on the journey mischanced to lose his purse, which contained a letter directed to Sir W. Fytzwylliams and the Barons of the Exchequer. The money that was in the purse would not let it be heard of Cecill to procure a like letter.
- June 24. Bealahoo. 15. James, Baron of Slane, to the Lord Lieutenant. According to directions by his cousin Thomas Fleming, he has sent to Shane O'Neill. Shane has thereupon sent his letter in Irish with his messenger to the Lord Lieutenant. The writer sends Edmond Darcy to interpret the Irish.
- June 30. Dublin. 16. Sir Henry Radecliff to Cecill. The Lord Lieutenant's expedition to Armagh. Earls of Ormond and Desmond have promised to aid against Shane O'Neill. Shane has sent down one Ony M'Lyse to molest the countries committed to his charge. Maguire, Magennis, and others relent, and shrink from Shane; O'Reilly, O'Donnell, and Sorley Boy remain constant to the Queen.
- July 6. Dublin. 17. Jenico Viscount of Gormanston, Roland Baltynglas, James Baron of Slane, and C. Baron Donsany to the Queen. That she would please send some Commissioners, who (without respect to the Governor or any other) may indifferently examine how the subjects of the English Pale are used, and make true report thereof to Her Highness.
- July 14. Raskeaghe. 18. Lord Lieutenant and Council to same. Have received letters for the rating of the base coins. Complain of error in the casting up of the rates. The Mint-men have much erred in their division, or the writer in his writing. Have set forth the general rates by the

18. Proclamation for decrying the base coins of Ireland. The rates. The gain to be allowed to such as bring them to the Tower of London. July.

18. II. The Queen to the Lord Lieutenant Sussex for decrying the monies. June 18, Greenwich. [Original with notes in the margin.]

18. III. Lord Lieutenant Sussex and Council at Raskeaghe to the Lord Chancellor and Council at Dublin, inclosing a proclamation for decrying the base monies and desiring them to set their hands thereto, and cause it to be printed and proclaimed with all speed. July [14]. Camp at Raskeaghe.

[July 14.] 19. Memorandum of the rates for the base monies of Ireland contained in the Queen's warrant of June 18 to the Lord Lieutenant, and also the rates which were set forth in the proclamation.

[July 14.] 20. Memorandum of the difference of the above-mentioned rates.

July 14. 21. Shane O'Neill to the Lord Lieutenant Sussex. Has read his From his Woods proclamation against him. Desires that his messenger may be forwarded with his letters to the Queen's presence, that he may make answer and excuse to every article of the proclamation. Protests his readiness to abide by and perform Her Majesty's orders. Lat.

July 16. 22. Lord Lieutenant and Council to the Queen. Have practised Camp by Raskeaghe. with Shane O'Neill to go to England, by means of the Lords of Slane and Howth, and by letters. Journey to Armagh 12 to 17 June. Have sent Her Majesty's letters to Sorley Boy, Con O'Donnell eldest son to O'Donnell, and O'Reilly to persist in their fidelity, and to M'Mahon, Magennis, Maguire, and M'Randal Boy to withdraw from Shane O'Neill. Sir George Stanley and others, under the guiding of Henry O'Neill, chase Shane O'Neill. The proclamation against Shane O'Neill published July 7. Skirmishes with Shane at Armagh. A proclamation. They will set forward into Tyrone on the 18th. The Earls of Desmond, Clanrycard and Thomond will join them Aug. 1. Inclose,

22. I. Lord Lieutenant Sussex to Shane O'Neill. Has received his letters, too proudly written, of the 25th of this month. Will not withdraw the Queen's soldiers from Armagh. If Shane will repair to the Queen's presence he must come quickly to the Lord Lieutenant. June 26. Latin.

22. II. Shane O'Neill to the Lord Lieutenant. His messenger has returned from the Queen's presence. Her Majesty's gracious answer. Nothing hinders his own repair to her presence but the lack of money. He protests against the war. He did not write the book against the Lord Lieutenant. June 28, Armagh. Latin

VOL. IV.

22. III. Lord Lieutenant Sussex to Shane O'Neill. Shane has misrepresented the Queen's answer concerning his repair to her presence, and concerning the money. If he will not do according to Her Majesty's directions, he has orders to chastise him as a traitor. July 1, Kilmainham. Latin.

22. IV. Copy of the above. July 1. Latin.

22. V. Shane O'Neill to the Lord Lieutenant Sussex. He wonders that his Lordship will put the Queen to unnecessary expense in waging war against him. He will ask no peace nor truce while the soldiers remain at Armagh. He desires that his messenger and letters may be forwarded to the Queen's presence. July 1. Latin.

22. VI. The same to the same. Has received his letters, by which he learns that his Lordship does not desire to send him, or his messenger to the presence of the Queen with his answer. He will not come into his Lordship's presence till he has seen the Queen, because many lords and gentlemen have been slain and tortured in his time, as, Dominus M'Murcha, Dominus O'Briain et frater ejus Datheus O'Briain, Dominus O'Docartaid, Donatus Oconcubair, Ronaldus Sawis, Connall O'Morra and many other of the O'Mores; Ros M'Cyun Iconcubair and many other gentlemen. If Sussex will withdraw the soldiers from his country, he will do his best diligence to come before the Queen. This letter to be showed to the Council. From his Camp in his woods. July 4. Latin.

22. VII. Letter from the same to the same, expressive of his discomfort at the proceedings commenced against him. Irish.

22. VIII. English translation of the above.

22. IX. Shane O'Neill to the Lord of Slane and to my Lady. Complains that the Lord Lieutenant will neither permit himself, his men nor his letters, to be sent to the Queen. That he desires to conquer his land, and calls himself Earl of Ulster. Counsels the Lord of Slane to be upon his keeping. Irish.

22. X. English translation of the above.

22. XI. Proclamation calling upon all the gentlemen of the name of the O'Neills, and all other the freeholders of Tyrone, to refuse the traitor Shane O'Neill, and repair to the Lord Lieutenant Sussex, for the service of Her Majesty and aid of Brian O'Neill, the rightful Earl of Tyrone. July.

July 17.
Camp by Raskeawgh.

23. Lord Lieutenant Sussex to Cecill. Shane O'Neill lays his stay to these three causes: the fortifying of the church of Armagh; murder of such as have come in to Sussex on protection; and the fact that Sussex assumed the name of Earl of Ulster. Mischievous rumours. When once he is discharged of the government he will shew his opinion. Mr. Treasurer has received the robes, collars, and coronets for O'Reilly and O'Donnell. The monies. The rates miscast. His deputy in the government. To-morrow he will set forward with the army. M'Randal Boy, Magennis, and M'Mahon will join him at the Newry and Armagh.

VOL. IV.

July 31. Armagh. 24. Lord Lieutenant and Council to the Queen. Proceedings of the army. Take 500 cows. The Great Water impassable. Parley with Shane. He refuses to give O'Donnell as a pledge. An engagement. Thirty of the English slain, including Robert Sexton, petty captain, and Thomas Flodde, serjeant. X
Donnell slain
- July 31. Armagh. 25. Lord Lieutenant Sussex to Cecill. Detail of the disastrous engagement with Shane O'Neill. Fifty of the best footmen slain and 50 wounded. Gallant conduct of Sir Wm. Fytzwylliams and Captain Humfrey Warne. Bemoans that he had remained with the Earl of Ormond, who was sick. Short absence from camp to gather soldiers and confer with the Council.
- Aug. 4. London. 26. Thomas Stanley and Thomas Fleetwood to same. Certify that the alterations made in the rates of the Irish monies by the Lord Lieutenant and Council could make no material difference.
- [Aug. 4.] 27. Shane O'Neill to the Earl of Ormond. Sends Neyle Gray to the Lord Lieutenant. Hopes thereby to conclude peaceably. [Probably a translation of an Irish Letter.]
- Aug. 6. Dundalk. 28. Lord Lieutenant and Council to the Queen. To credit Sir W. Fytzwylliams, who is despatched to inform her of the state of the warfare, and to bring back Her Majesty's resolution thereon.
- Aug. 6. 29. Remembrances or instructions given to William Cantwell to make answer to certain letters brought by Nele Graye from Shane O'Neill. The pardon. Money. Garrison of Armagh. Shane to keep peace with O'Reilly, Con O'Donnell, Maguire, Sorley Boy, M'Cann, Magennis, M'Randal Boy, O'Hanlon, and Patrick M'Rowry. Shane need not fear the hosting, if he will be obedient.
30. Copy of the above.
- Aug. 8. Ardraccean. 31. Lord Lieutenant to Cecill. To procure Sir W. Fytzwylliams good audience of the Queen. The four points of his instructions. What has passed. What good may grow by drawing Shane into England. What preparations are to be made to expulse him. What danger of further toleration. Sussex is weary of the recklessness of the English Pale and their opposition to the army.
- Aug. 9. From his woods. 32. Shane O'Neill to the Lord Lieutenant. His Lordship's messenger came with Neal Grae, August 8. He cannot make peace while the soldiers occupy Armagh. Will give hostages to the Earl of Ormond for his going to the Queen, and restoring the church of Armagh. Shane's own man to go to the Queen. Latin.
- Aug. 9. From his woods. 33. Same to the same. How he may be at peace with his Lordship. His Lordship to forward Shane's secure and speedy repair to the Queen's presence. Moreover he desires his Lordship's sister to wife, and that his Lordship would be his, Shane's, gossip. Latin.
- Aug. 12. Ardraccean. 34. Memorial or instructions given to W. Cantwell to make answer to Shane's letters of August 9. Armagh. Pledges. No need for Shane's man to go to the Queen. Shane to say whether he will keep peace in the meantime.

Ardbraccan.

35. Lord Lieutenant to Cecill. Turlough O'Neill, brother to Shane, and Brian M'Henry M'Shane, brother's son to Shane, have come in, and taken their oaths to serve the Queen. Sir T. Cusake has gone to O'Reilly, to take the oaths of O'Reilly, Maguire, Turlough, and Brian. James M'Donnell has come with 1,000 men. Hutchinson sent to make terms with him, for the Queen's service. Shane greatly dismayed at the late conflict. All his men would have forsaken him had he been followed up. The hosting. Sir Wm. Fytzwylliams to be hastened back with 200 men. Demands 3,000*l*. English.

Aug. 18.
From his woods.

36. Shane O'Neill to the Lord Lieutenant. He will not grant peace to his subjects or urraghs but at his own option. But will not pursue them on the confines of Dundalk. He desires that the peace formerly concluded at Dundalk may be reviewed before he goes to the Queen. He desires 16 days for the giving of hostages into the hands of the Earl of Ormond, and the treating of peace, with five days' truce afterwards. His own man must be present before the Queen to receive his pardon and protection or he will not accept of them. Latin.

Aug. 19.
Ardbraccan.

37. Lord Lieutenant to Cecill. The general hosting deferred till the 30th of August. Mr. Treasurer Fytzwylliams to be hastily despatched with the 200 men. Many seek to "blowe into the pepell's heddes" that Shane would gladly go to the Queen's Majesty, and that Sussex will not by any means suffer him. Such reports "be lyke inoughe to grow shortly into the nature of Sir John Gaskon's tales, who devysyng them himselfe, beleved by often tellying of them, that they were trew in dede." It is known in Ireland who [Kildare] first to win time, advised Shane to go, and after time won, counselled him not to go. The Byrnes, Kavanaghs, and Toolles answer all men at the castle of Dublin, which was never heard of before. Ossory, O'Carroll, O'Molloy, M'Geoghegan, M'Coghlan, and all between Leix, Offaley, and the Shannon answer the orders of Sir Henry Radecliff. O'Reilly is as faithful as any subject. Cecill to peruse the chart of Ireland which Sussex gave to the Queen. "Yf Shane be overthrowen all is setteled, yf Shane settell all is overthrowen."

VOL. IV.

59. I. Shane O'Neill to the [Lord Lieutenant] after the parley with the Earl of Kildare. His petitions and promises similar to those in his preceding letters, or rather enlarged. Oct. 18, Caele Castle. Latin.

59. II. Lord Lieutenant and Council to Shane O'Neill. Their acceptance of the terms of peace proposed in his letter. Oct. 19, Dundalk. Latin.

Oct. 19. Dundalk. 60. Lord Lieutenant Sussex to Cecill. The English Councillors are busily occupied in arranging the matters of the army. The Queen to suspend her judgment on the peace.

Oct. 23. Ardraccan. 61. Lord Lieutenant and Council to the Queen. Discourse on the state and forwardness of the preparations against Shane, with the plan of operations intended. The items of the peace, with particular comments and remarks. The coming of the Earl of Kildare with commission to treat with Shane was the destruction of the whole campaign. The Lieutenant to go to England with all books, indentures, records, &c. relative to Tyrone. Plantation of Leix and Offaley.

Oct. 23. Ardraccan. 62. Lord Lieutenant Sussex to Cecill. The great grief caused to him, who has spent so carefully his whole endeavours in his charge for five years, by divers expressions in Her Majesty's letters, and by the association with the Earl of Kildare. He greatly desires that he may have a good trial, to free him from the imputations unjustly attached to him.

Oct. 23. Ardraccan. 63. Lord Lieutenant and Council to the Privy Council. The Earls of Ormond and Desmond have dispersed their forces according to order. They rest to have their causes heard. Opinion that they should be called before the Queen, and order taken for the punishment of their offences and breach of former final orders. The 500 footmen and 100 horsemen sent from England. Two hundred foot under Mr. Brian Fytzwylliams from Berwick. Discharge of some of the above troops.

Oct. 30. Manor of Saint James. 64. The Queen to the Archbishop of Dublin, Lord Chancellor of Ireland, for the consecration of Adam Loftus and restoration of the temporalities of Armagh. [N.B. This was inclosed to Sir Robert Cecyll. 1599, Dec. 3.] Inclosing,

The necessity of some speedy order to be taken in England for their reformation. Shane O'Neill. The army placed for one month. Copy. [The original perished with Terrell. See December 20.] Inclose,

VOL. IV.

65. I. [Lord Lieutenant and Council] to the Earl of Desmond. The quarrel with Ormond. To disperse his power, and remain in peace within his own territories. To deliver up to the bearer Captain Heron, his brother John, the White Knight, and Browne, as pledges. To be ready to repair to them for the ordering of the matters. September 27, Ardraccan.

65. II. Earl of Desmond to the [Lord Lieutenant and Council]. The Earl of Ormond lay in wait to surprise him on his return from the Queen's service. One of the men of the Constable of Carlow killed, and the Constable's commands in the Queen's name disregarded by Ormond. Oct. 4, "Loghuar."

65. III. Sir Edmund Butler to the [Lord Lieutenant]. The Earl of Desmond refused to send his pledges to him to Clonmel. His brother's pledges were ready by the time appointed, Oct. 30, Ballinnowre. Inclosing,

65. IV. Earl of Desmond to Sir Edmund Butler. He will not send his pledges until he know further of the Lord Lieutenant's pleasure; at whose call he will be forthcoming himself, and his pledges also. Sunday, Oct. 26. Lyshfynny.

Nov. 3.
Dublin.

66. Lord Lieutenant to Cecill. Reports of great alterations to be made in the Government. Distracted state of the whole English race in Ireland. It were fit that at the coming of Shane O'Neill the Earls of Kildare, Ormond, and Desmond, the Chief Justice, the Attorney General, and some others may be called and consulted as to the best policy to be pursued. He desires license to return.

Nov. 16.
Ardraccan.

67. Lord Lieutenant to Cecill. Has received the Queen's letters and his of November 1st. The Queen to suspend her judgment till she knows the truth of all men's doings. The faithful service of Captain Warne will be greatly missed. He died November 13th, after seven days' sickness. Glad to hear of Cecill's recovery. Desires to be informed relative to any intended fall of money, that he may not suffer loss in the receipt of money for his lead, sold in Lancashire.

Nov. 16.

68. A brief note of the mineral affairs in Ireland in annis 2 & 3 Eliz. 1559, Nov. 17, to 1561, Nov. 16.

- April 30. 100. Early draft of the above.
- April? 101. Memorial by the Earl of Sussex, showing the state that Ireland was in at his "coming thither." The state it is now in. What state it may be presently brought unto, with daily diminishing of the charges, and how the same could not have been done without the charges already employed.

Vol. VI. 1562. MAY—AUGUST.

- May 2? 1. Petition of Shane O'Neill to the Queen, for the loan of money to defray his expenses here. The 300*l.* promised him by Mr. Secretary not sufficient. Has to tarry the coming of the son of Matthew Kelly called Baron.
- May 2. 2. The Queen to Sir Wm. Damsell, Receiver General of the Court of Wards. Warrant for loan of 300*l.* to Shane O'Neill.
Westminster.

VOL. VI.

May 3. Dublin. 3. John Parker, Master of the Rolls in Ireland, to the Queen, for license to repair to England, to utter his knowledge relative to the affairs and state of Ireland.
- May 3. Dublin. 4. Same to the Privy Council. The Earl of Sussex has detected him to be a maker of books against his lordship, and has taken from him such living as he could. Parker denies the accusation and begs for means of purgation, or license to come to England. He desires deferred terms of payment of 600*l.* which he owes to the Crown. Or a 21 years' lease of certain lands.
- May 4. Thomas Court. 5. Lord Justice Fytzwylliams to Cecill. Burning committed on the lands of Anthony Colcloght in Wexford. Some malefactors executed. Richard Kettyng, the chief doer in this mischief, has departed to his master the Earl of Kildare, hoping by his means to obtain a pardon. No pardon to be granted him. Desmond departed five days before the Lord Justice heard of it. Quietness.
- May 5. 6. Proclamation by the Queen in favour of Shane O'Neill. His submission accepted, and he in future to be accepted and reputed as a good and natural subject. The Barons of Slane and Louth, Sir Thomas Cusake, and Terence Danyell the Dean of Armagh, appointed for the hearing and determining of controversies between Shane and the gentlemen of the English Pale.
- May 7. Dublin. 7. Matthew Kyng to Cecill. For his son to be made joint patentee with him in his office. Report of an intended change of the Lord Chancellor. The present Lord Chancellor a most upright judge. If Her Majesty please to appoint another, it is expedient that he should be an Englishman, otherwise no English inhabitant will find justice.
- May 13. Thomas Court. 8. Lord Justice Fytzwylliams to same. Thomas Bathe's suits. Foul usage of Records. Corrupt dealings of Justices. The Cesses and provisions for the Forts and the Lord Lieutenant's house. Proceedings at Drogheda relative thereto. Incloses,
8. I. The Queen to the right trusty, &c. of Ireland, to proceed to the hearing and determination of a traverse against the Crown, now depending in the Exchequer, and put in by Thomas Bathe for the title of certain lands. April 21, Westminster.
8. II. Henry Draycott to Mr. Secretary, respecting the records of the attainder of Bathe of Dollardstone, which have all been lost, embezzled, or the names erased. If Bathe's traverse pass, the lands of Eustace, Kettyng, and Nevelle, will be in danger to go in like manner. May 13.
- May 17. Thomas Court. 9. Lord Justice Fytzwylliams to Cecill. The claims of Sir Maurice Fitzgerald who dwelleth between the Earls of Ormond and Desmond. He seeks to depend upon the Queen's authority. He has sent certain articles to the Earl of Sussex to be considered. He is greatly commended. Sir Maurice "of Totane," [i.e., Atotane, or the incendiary,] uncle to the Earl of Desmond, is not dead as written April 17. Sir Maurice received the Queen's proclamation humbly and obediently.

VOL. VI.

- May 20. 10. Notes of misorders committed by the Earl of Desmond in making war upon Her Majesty's subjects. Refusing to come before the Lord Lieutenant and Council. Refusing to perform orders, and in maintaining all open rebels and proclaimed traitors.
- May 20. 11. Notes of matters to be ordered with the Earl of Desmond. To swear to be true to the Queen and obedient to the principal Governor. To suffer the Lord Great Barry, the Lord Roche, Little Barry, Barry Roe, the Lord Courcy, the Lord Fitzmaurice, Sir Maurice Fitzgerald, M'Carthy More, M'Carthy Reagh, Teig M'Cormac [M'Carthy ?], O'Sullivan Beare, O'Sullivan More, M'Dongho, O'Callaghan and others in Munster, to remain in the Queen's peace. And he to have the leading of his own kin and holders of land in Cork, Limerick, Kerry, and Desmond.
- May 27. 12. Sir Oliver Plunket, Sir Christopher Chevers, and others, noblemen and gentlemen of the English Pale, to the Queen. Have heard that Her Majesty gives no credit to the declaration or articles showing the miserable estate of the English Pale by certain Irish students [Mar. 21.] They desire that indifferent commissioners from England, associated with the Viscount Baltinglas and John Parker, Master of the Rolls, may be sent to make inquisition of their state.
Dublin.
- May 27. 13. Same to Lord Robert Dudley, Master of the Horse. Thanks for his furtherance of the Irish students' declaration. Desire his interest with the Queen, to send commissioners to Ireland to inquire of their state.
Dublin.
- May 28. 14. Lord Justice Fytzwylliams to Cecill. Thomas Fytzsymond
Thomas Court. Chief Officer of the Staple, gave information of three Frenchmen laden with hides, tallow, &c., all forfeited by Statute 8, Hen. VI. The French not stayed, considering the state of the world. Has received the Queen's and other letters with a copy of Shane O'Neill's indenture. W. Bermyngham. Shane O'Neill arrived on the 26th and delivered the Queen's letter of the 5th instant. He would not rest one whole day in Dublin, but had the proclamation proclaimed and departed with a guard into Tyrone, as it was reported that Turlough Lynagh had been made O'Neill. Great disorders committed by Desmond's followers. Sir John Travers died 25th May. Incloses, 14. i. Book of the debt of the old Earl of Desmond, and of Gerald the now Earl, for rents and possessions held of the Crown. 1,386l. 10s. 8d.

Kilmainham. to the relation of the Commissioners. Cannot deal in so great a cause before his sufficient purgation. Cannot write his advice to the Prince by letter. The charges to reform Shane O'Neill are set forth greater than they need be, if every man will do his part. Backwardness of the Council to victual soldiers at Armagh the cause of Shane's great strength. Mr. Treasurer Fytzwylliams will declare how the commissioners for the musters have left things so uncertain that no pay can be made till further order.
- Dec. 7. 54. Alexander Craik, Bishop of Kildare, to the Lord Lieutenant Deanerath. Sussex, relative to certain "undecent" words spoken by William Leich, a Scotsman. Desires that his Lordship would protect the bearer John Douglas, whom Leich is endeavouring to oppress by a warrant for the keeping of the peace, on account of his testimony against him. Incloses,
54. I. Certain articles against William Leich, Scotsman, accused by John Douglas, a Scotsman also, of certain indecent words spoken against the Queen's court and subjects.
- Dec. 8. 55. Certain notes or memoranda on the state of Ireland, shewing how the people are stirred to hate the English, and procured to exclaim against disorders without seeking amendment.
- Dec. 10. 56. Instructions given to William Pers by the Lord Lieutenant, on his despatch to James M'Donnell.
- Dec. 15. 57. Lord Lieutenant and Council to Maguire and Turlough Lynagh, Kilmainham. persuading them to stand on their own defence against Shane O'Neill, and promising the Queen's assistance as soon as possible.
- Dec. 28. 58. Lord Lieutenant to the Privy Council. Has travailed with Kilmainham. O'Reilly, Maguire, and Con O'Donnell, who remain in Her Majesty's service, notwithstanding their continual great losses. Has procured Turlough Lynagh, the second person in Tyrone, to forsake Shane.
Sorley Boy. The new M'Mahon. Dealings with "Donell Grome Odonelloughe" of the sept of Terence Danyell, the Dean of Armagh, to bring all his sept to serve the Queen. That is the strongest sept that followeth Shane. Sussex will go with the army to Armagh to parley with Shane the bright moons, to keep him from preying the Irish chieftains. The Master Gunner gone to assist the Earl of Thomond. Mores, Byrnes, and Tooles. The Earl of Clanrycard's kinsmen troublesome.
- Dec. 28. 59. Same to Cecill. A weak body and a worse head. Weakness Kilmainham. of Shane O'Neill. Lack of furniture and provisions.
- Dec. [28]. 60. Memorial or abstract of letters from Ireland, from 1562,
Aug. 20, to Dec. 28.

Aug. 4. Braynforde. 61. G. Earl of Desmond to the Privy Council. Benefits to be looked for, from the articles devised by Sir Thos. Cusake to be put in execution in Munster. Necessity of Cusake's being joined with Desmond in the execution.
- Aug. 5. From the ward of the Marshalsea in Ireland. 62. Alexander Craik, Bishop of Kildare, to Cecill. He is at present in the Marshalsea for his first fruits, &c. Desires him to join with the Lord Robt. Dudley for obtaining the Queen's letters to the Lord Lieutenant, for the Lord Chancellor to pass the Queen's pardon of the same.
- Aug. 6. 63. Memorandum of offices to be granted in Ireland.
- Aug. 6. 64. A memorial for Sir Thomas Cusake of certain things to be declared to the Lord Lieutenant Sussex, as to means to be used to bring Shane O'Neill to submission, to be executed by the said Sir Thomas and other trusty persons, such as the said Earl and the said Sir Thomas shall think meet.
- Aug. 7. 65. The Queen to the Lord Lieutenant Sussex, for furtherance of means to bring Shane to submission, wherein though some part may seem to touch Sussex otherwise than he has indeed deserved, yet Sussex will bear some burden rather than see the Queen forced to grant Shane pardon, before his submission as before.
- Aug. 7. 66. The same to the Council in Ireland. Sends Sir Thomas Cusake to assist in the great and public affairs of that realm. His advice and counsel to be esteemed and regarded.
- Aug. 7. Windsor. 67. Orders meet to be taken with Shane O'Neill in eschewing of more trouble. [This bill of articles devised by Sir Thomas Cusake seems to be a different draft of the above of Aug. 6.]
- Aug. 9. 68. The Queen to the Council in Ireland. Has received the letters relating the proceedings with Shane O'Neill, and considered the instructions given to the Earls of Ormond and Kildare [See July 26], and Shane's answers thereto [See July 30]. She is sorry to see they have been constrained to proceed so remissly with such a man; assures them that she cannot allow to yield to him, as she has instructed Sir Thos. Cusake, who is returned thither.
- Aug. 14. St. Albans. 69. George Gerland and George Parysh to Cecill, concerning the surrender of Gerland's patent of Agher in favour of Parysh. Gerland to have of the Queen an equivalent from the house of St. John's of Ardee in the county of Louth.
- Aug. 15. St. Albans. 70. Sir Thomas Cusake to Cecill, in favour of the agreement between the bearer George Parysh and G. Gerland. Cusake desires Cecill to write a few lines to the searchers, to suffer him to transport such stuff as he wants to carry with him into Ireland.
- Aug. 18. 71. The petitions of Andrew Wyse late Treasurer in Ireland for divers sums of money by him disbursed and paid in the same office by virtue of sundry warrants to him, made from the Lord Deputy and Council, which sums William Berners and John Wiseman, assigned auditors for the taking of the account, did not allow.

VOL. XI. 1564. JUNE—DECEMBER.

June 8.
Dublin.

1. Sir Thomas Cusake to the Privy Council. Received their Lordships' letters whilst at Waterford, taking order for the causes between the Earls of Ormond and Desmond. Repaired to O'Neill's country, and not finding him there, followed him to O'Donnell's country, where he was pretending to recover certain kine due for the ransom of O'Donnell. Confirmation. Creation. O'Neill offers for the entertainment of 40 men to expulse all the Scots out of Ireland, and restore to Her Majesty the fishing of the Bann and Lough Foyle. O'Neill doth much mistrust of some secret favour to be used towards the late Baron of Dungannon's sons, lest they should at length obtain the governance of the country. O'Neill's servant to be despatched. Incloses,

1. I. Bill showing the articles contained in the peace concluded by Cusake and O'Neill, and the article comprised in the agreement which was omitted in the confirmation.

VOL. XI.

August 8. 69. Lord Justice and Council. Commission to Henry Colley to pursue the rebels.
- August 8. 70. Similar commission to Francis Cosbie.
- Aug. 10. 71. Book of arrearages of the Queen's revenues, for sundry years ending at Michaelmas 1563, to the amount of 29,392*l.* 3*s.* 7 $\frac{3}{4}$ d. made out by Mr. Crofte.
- Aug. 12. 72. Lord Justice and Council to the Earl of Ormond. Have received Dublin. his letter of Aug. 7. Have written to the Earl of Desmond, to call back his men from aiding Sir Donnell O'Brien against the Earl of Thomond. Earl of Ormond not to leave off the pursuit of the Mores and Conors, but may help the Earl of Thomond also.
- Aug. 16. 73. Sir T. Wrothe to the Lord Robert Dudley. The unsettled Dublin. state of Ireland. O'Mores and O'Conors are out killing in a cruel manner. Kavanaghs and Byrnes have preyed Tibbot M'Maurice. Earls of Thomond, Clanrycard, and Desmond. No conclusion with the O'Reillys of the Brenny. O'Neill. Wm. Pers, Capt. of Carrickfergus. Capt. Brian Fytzwylliams's band. Bermyngham's checks. The trials will spend the checks in charges before they make the pay. Wrothe desires to return home. 13,000 pecks of the cesses due to the Queen. Book of leases to be forfeited and corn reserved. Integrity of the Earl of Sussex.
- Aug. 16. 74. Proclamation by the Lord Justice and Council against the Dublin. rebels of the O'Conors, containing many names, including Dermot O'Spellan and Shane lea O'Connell. "Imprynted at Dublyn by Humfrey Powell, the 16 of August 1564."
- Aug. 17. 75. William Dyxe to Cecill. Views of accounts taken. Sir T. Dublin. Wrothe only, hath painfully travailed in levying the Queen's debts, which otherwise would soon have been desperate. The Lord Justice has appointed Wrothe and Dyxe to wait on him into Leix and Offaley. Brian Fytzwylliams's band was mustered in May, and his checks are not yet determined. The captains are dispersed for defence of the English Pale. 14,900 pecks of corn, besides beeves, are due to the Queen.
- Aug. 18. 76. O'Neill to the Lord Justice and Council. The Lord Robert Castle Corera. Dudley has advised him, by letter, to do some notable service, whereby he might be the better accepted of the Queen. He can see no greater rebels and traitors than the Scots. He O'Neill has a mind to do them some mischief. Desires they will send the Earl of Kildare to his aid, or write to Capt. Pers to fight boldly against the Scots. And to permit O'Neill and his to enter Knockfergus. Latin.
- Aug. 19. 77. The Queen to the Lord Justice, Lord Chancellor, and Sir T. Wrothe, to cause a commission to be issued to three or more gentlemen, to hear and determine sundry wrongs, done to Thomas Flemyng of Stevenston, by the Baron of Slane.

VOL. XI.

Aug. 20. 78. Indenture between Sir T. Cusake and Sir Maurice Fitzgerald, Sheriff of the county of Cork. Witnessing the said Fitzgerald to have received Owen M'Care M'Carthy, Cormuck M'Teig M'Cormuck, "Diermod adowna M'Shane M'Craghe," Donnel M'Arte, David Oge's son called Richard, and Mahon O'Lein, as prisoners, to be re-delivered, at the pleasure of the said Sir Thomas Cusake, for such pledges as the Sheriff shall think good.
- Aug. 21. 79. Terence Danyell, Dean of Armagh, to the Lord Justice Benborbe. Arnold. He received his letter the 17th, and immediately repaired to O'Neill. O'Neill requires to have freedom of Knockfergus, but is content to abide a convenient order. Requires the Lord Justice's letter to Captain Pers, to be favourable to him. O'Neill intends to serve upon the Scots. He has a host and victuals ready for five or six weeks.
- Aug. 22. 80. Lord Justice and Council to O'Neill. Have received O'Neill's Dublin. letters of the 18th. Approve of his intention to attack the Scots. The Earl of Kildare is occupied with the pursuit of the rebels. They are sorry Carrickfergus cannot assist him with force or victual, because they are so few and so poor. They have written to Capt. Pers, who must remain in ward of his castle. Latin.
- Aug. 23. 81. Memoranda for examination of certain circumstances concerning the priest Sir Thady Newman, Dennis M'Vard, Malachi O'Quin, Richard the clerk of Wicklow church, Thomas Fitzgerald, Sir Peter Fitzgerald, that is at Paris, James Quemerford, and Patrick Cusake. [See 1563, Dec. 7.]
- Sept. 2. 82. Order taken between the Earls of Desmond and Thomond Limerick. by Sir T. Cusake and his associates. "Maoenes oig o Shihie," capt. of galloglas, with his 600 men to be called home, from aiding the traitors against the Earl of Thomond. The constables and others who ferried over the malefactors, to receive condign punishment. The two Earls to join in amity. To stand to the order of four indifferent men, or umpires, for composition of their wrongs. Copy, certified by Sir T. Cusake and John Myaghe.
- Sept. 5. 83. O'Neill to the Lord Justice and Council. Has received their Culrath. letters of Aug. 30. Great usurpation of territory by the Scots in the Route, which is M'Quillin's country, in Claneboy [clan Aedha bidhe], the Dufferin [Dubh trian], and Lecale [Lethcathayle], and in the country of O'Cassidy [M'Cabhissidh]. O'Neill having no sufficient boats to cross the Bann, which is swollen, builds the castle of Culrath on this side of the Bann, and sends over a detachment in cots or coricles by two or three at a time, to occupy the monastery of Culrath on the further side of the river, which they defend 24 hours against the Scots. O'Neill's casualties. Sorley Boy M'Donnell wounded. O'Neill renews his requests for aid by the Earl of Kildare or others, and for letters to Knockfergus. Latin.

VOL. XI.

Sept. 10. Armagh. 84. T. Danyell, Dean of Armagh, to the Lord Justice Arnold. O'Neill came to the Bann where he found a great flood and could not pass. He made a strong fort in the old castle of Culrath. He passed over in cots and set a few men to ward the Friery of Culrath. The Scots attacked it like madmen. 90 of them killed and wounded. They parley and show six or seven hundred men.
- Sept. 10. Dublin. 85. Lord Justice Arnold and Sir Thomas Wrothe to Cecill. Have received the Queen's letters of July 15, for Robt. Loftus to have the rectory of Dunboyne. They have no power to make any lease of of anything to anybody, unless Her Majesty will send them a commission.
- Sept. 11. Limerick. 86. Earl of Desmond to Sir T. Cusake, to stay till the coming of his man John Daly out of England. Promises to deliver the pledges named at Clonmel, to send his brother John to the Queen. To revoke the galloglas from Thomond, and restore the cattle.
- Sept. 14. Dublin. 87. Lord Justice and Council to O'Neill. Have gladly received his letters of Sept. 5 by Gerald Flemyng. The Earl of Kildare, with the whole disposable force of the realm, is occupied against the rebels. A general hosting, as he demands, would require too long time. They will write to the Queen, and send his letters. Have written again to Capt. Pers. Latin.
- Sept. 16. St. James's. 88. Lord Robert Duddleley and Sir W. Cecill to the Lord Justice Arnold. The Queen has hastened to return from her progress for the consideration of the Irish affairs, &c. In the meantime Arnold's servant is sent back. They are very sorry for the division between Arnold and Wrothe in the service. Sorry that the matters of the rebels in Leix and Offaley grow so chargeable.
- Sept. 17. Dublin. 89. Lord Deputy and Council to William Pers, Captain of Knockfergus. They marvel at not receiving answer to their former letter. Renew directions for his guidance, in case O'Neill should require him to go with him, against the Scots.
- Oct. 4. 90. Queen Elizabeth to the Lord Justice Arnold and Sir T. Wrothe. Disappointed that nothing of moment has been done under their commission for the musters. Will not continue that charge. Sir T. Wrothe forthwith to return. Sir N. Arnold to remain still as Justice. William Dyxe.
- Oct. 10. Dublin. 91. Richard Overton to Cecill. Difficulty likely to ensue in Ireland. Justice administered with partiality. Suit for one of the divers vacant offices.
- Oct. 10. 92. Book of all such traitors as have suffered or been apprehended by Sir George Stanley, Marshal of Ireland, since the charge of Meath was committed to him about Aug. 7, and ending at the six weeks. Delivered at the Council Board, Oct. 10.
- Oct. 16. 93. Charge of Edward Hughes and eight men in the transportation of 10,000*l.* from London into Ireland, departing Aug. 14.

VOL. XI.

1564.
Oct. 19. 94. Sir W. Fytzwylliams to Cecill. Enumerates the men under Glasen Hall. the Earl of Kildare now occupied against the rebels. The strength of the rebels. O'Neill in good estate. Tirconnell is at his commandment. Scots. O'Donnell. O'Reillys. Tooles. Byrnes. Conors.
Mores.
- Oct. 21. 95. Sir Thomas Wrothe to same. Returned 20th from Offaley.
Dublin. The Lord Justice was presented with Calough O'Connor's head.
He was killed by Calough Roe. The Earl of Kildare's praise. Sir Barnaby Fitzpatrick's encounter with the Mores of Leix. The Earls of Ormond and Desmond are on evil terms. The Earl of Thomond complains of Desmond. O'Reillys and Byrnes.
- Oct. 29. 96. The Calough O'Donnell to the Queen. Relation of the occurrences between O'Neill and O'Donnell for the last seven years. O'Donnell's cruel captivity and chains for 2 $\frac{3}{4}$  years. 500 competent persons besides above 4,000 poor have perished through Shane's spoils. His eldest son Con O'Donnell tormented. The Castle of Finn delivered. Lord Justice and Council would not undertake to further his business according to the Queen's letters.
O'Donnell repairs to England and appeals for help.
- Oct. 31. 97. Lord Justice and Council to the same. O'Donnell has de-Dublin. parted for England without permission, while Arnold was in Leix.
Declaration of the state of the controversies between O'Donnell and O'Neill. Reduction of the O'Conors and O'Mores. 90 of the O'Conors and 35 of the O'Mores slain and executed.
- Nov. 2. 98. Sir T. Wrothe to Cecill. Sir Barnaby Fitzpatrick's doings with the rebels. The Mores have desired peace by Francis Cosbie.
The Lord Justice and Council have rejected their request. O'Reilly, Sir T. Cusake, and others have gone to O'Neill. The matters between Ormond and Desmond worse and worse. Lord Chancellor sick of palsy. The commission. Bermyngham's secret dealings.
- Nov. 2. 99. The Calough O'Donnell to the Queen. He appeared before the Earl of Leicester, the Lord Marquis, and Mr. Secretary Cecill, who told him, that the Lord Justice had written word that he had come without license. The Lord Justice could not help him because of O'Neill's great friendship among the Council. O'Donnell's great poverty. Begg assistance. There is no man that will trust him one meal's meat.
- Nov. 14. 100. Shane O'Neill's answer to Sir T. Cusake, upon the reading of Benborb. the Queen's letter to him. O'Neill meant not to impair Her princely honour. O'Neill desires the Parliament may be accelerated that the controversy as to the earldom may be determined.
- Nov. 14. 101. Sir T. Wrothe to Cecill. Has received his letter of Oct. 3.
& 17. with Queen's letter for his recall of the 4th. He will make good Dublin. speed to come home. Mr. Heron is come from the Earl of Desmond.
Desmond attempted to take the castle of Killfeacle; he burned two houses. Stucley is upon the west coast.

VOL. XI.

1564.
Nov. 18. Dublin. 102. Mathew Kyng to Cecill. The recall of Sir T. Wrothe will be lamented by the English army. Desires Cecill to enquire of Wrothe touching his behaviour.
- Nov. 20. Benborb. 103. Con O'Donnell [Con O'Domnaill] to Sir T. Cusake, desiring him to labour that the Queen may become surety for him, for the preservation of the peace just concluded between him and O'Neill.
- Nov. 21. Dublin. 104. Gabriel Crofte to Cecill, for the money he had been allowed for engrossing the records of the Auditor's office, which remained not engrossed, for two years ending at Michaelmas, 2 Eliz., when Crofte entered the office. Desires that Sir Walter Mildmay may hear the cause of contention between him and the Clerk of the Pipe. Incloses,
104. 1. A memorial of the cause of contention between the Auditor of Ireland, and one that only supplieth the name of Clerk of the Pipe.
- Nov. 21. Dublin. 105. Lord Justice and Council to the Earl of Ormond. Send him commission for the pursuit of the proclaimed rebels of the Mores and Conors. Entertainment for 200 holding kerne, for 3 months from Nov. 20. Disposition of the force.
- Nov. 22. Dublin. 106. W. Dyxe to Cecill. He is in despair because Sir T. Wrothe is sent for and he stayed. Desires to be recalled. Sir T. Wrothe and he have taken the views of the accounts of all the victuallers, Master of the Ordnance, and the fortifications and reparations; also the accounts of the revenues for five years at Michaelmas, 5 Eliz., 1563. Sir T. Wrothe always attended the Council, and alone devised and penned all directions, orders, letters, and warrants of the Commission. Bermyngham's gross injustice. Mr. Fytzwylliams's check is 3,300*l*. Certain bands not yet discharged.
- Nov. 22. 107. Lord Justice Arnold's warrant for the entry of certain men into Mr. Colley's band.
- Nov. 22. Dublin. 108. Earl of Ormond and Ossory to Cecill. Her Majesty's subjects under his rule are daily invaded by the Earl of Desmond, his brother and his retinue. Desires the Queen's letters to the Lord Justice for speedy redress. When Ormond was on the very point to take away coin and livery, the invasions of the Earl of Desmond forced him to continue one disorder to withstand the other.
- Nov. 22. Thomas Court. 109. Sir W. Fytzwylliams to same. Desires special order to issue the treasure as, Sir T. Wrothe being recalled, he has no power to do it. Hurts by the O'Mores and O'Conors. Mr. Delve's losses. O'Reillys. O'Neill. Cusake. Earls of Thomond, Ormond, and Desmond. Fytzwylliams has had a fever. The allowance for Sir Nicholas Arnold.
- Dec. 3. 110. The Queen to the Lord Justice Arnold, to proceed to the ordering of the variances between O'Donnell and Shane O'Neill by way of Commissioners; he is to have some allowance to keep him from penury, till it may appear what shall become of his causes. Her Majesty is not without compassion for him.

- Feb. 11. Dublin. 29. Sir W. Fytzwylliams to same. Earl of Ormond desires Desmond may not be taken from him, till he bring him to England. Foul devices. Cahir O'Reilly continueth burning and spoiling.
- Feb. 18. Waterford. 30. Articles administered to the Earl of Ormond by the Lord Justice and Council, relative to his conflict with the Earl of Desmond.
- [Feb. 18.] Waterford. 31. Earl of Desmond's answer to the interrogatories ministered to him at Waterford, dated 18th Feb. 1564/5.
- [Feb. 22.] 32. Questions by Cecill for the interrogation of Richard Creaghe, titular Archbishop of Armagh, relative to the cause of his going to Rome.
- [Feb. 22.] 33. Richard Creaghe's answers to the questions delivered to him by Mr. Secretary. The cause of his repair to Rome. He was made Archbishop of Armagh, and supported by the Pope. English and Irish acquainted with the cause of his return to Ireland. "Other men by the way knew or harde more abouth me, as the Cardinal of Augusta [Augsburg], who did hold me the space of a senyght to be receased and to recover my helth of the ague that I caught by the way." Creaghe had letters from the Pope to Shane O'Neill. Shane O'Neill desired to have the archbishoprick of Armagh for Terence Danyell, the Dean there, who, as Creaghe thinks, is one of his fostered brethren.
- Feb. 22. Waterford. 34. The answer of the Earl of Ormond and Ossory to the articles ministered to him, relative to the conflict with Desmond.
- Feb. 24. Dublin. 35. William Bermyngham to Cecill. Excuses his defect in the knowledge of an auditor's faculty. Desires that no opinion or judgment be formed of him, till he be heard personally before Cecill. Hopes to bring the matter of the checks to a good end.
- Feb. 24. Dublin. 36. Same to the Privy Council. His proceedings in the matter of the musters. The refusal of Sir Henry Radeclwyff and the captains, to deliver perfect reckonings for the pay of every soldier to be made by the Commissioners by poll. Imprisonment of Sir H. Radeclwyff.
- Feb. 26. Waterford. 37. The Earl of Ormond's writing, addressed to the Lord Justice Arnold, charging the Earl of Desmond, Thomas of Desmond, and others with treason.
- Feb. 28? 38. Memorandum of letters, &c., to be despatched to Ireland for the repair to England of the Earls of Ormond, Desmond, and others, and for the government of their countries during their absence.
- Feb. 28? 39. The Queen to the Earl of Ormond and Ossory. Mislike of the meeting in such manner of hostility between him and the Earl of Desmond. To repair to the Royal presence. To leave his country to the government of some person of credit.

- Feb. 28 ? 40. The Queen to the Earl of Desmond. Mislike of the conflict. To repair to the Royal presence. The government of the country.
- Feb. 28 ? 41. The same to M'Carthy More, for his repair into England, to be present at the determination of the controversies between Ormond and Desmond.
- Feb. 28 ? 42. The same to O'Sullivan Beare, to repair to England, together with the Lord M'Carthy More.
- Feb. 28 ? 43. The same to the Lords Roche, Barrymore, Fitzmaurice, Power, and Dunboyne, to preserve the peace of Munster, and assist the Commissioners there, during the absence of the Earls and others.
- Feb. 28 ? 44. The same to Sir Maurice Fitzgerald, for his coming over to England with the Earl of Ormond, whose controversies are now to be taken in hand, in consequence of the conflict between the said Earl and Desmond, who met in the country of Sir Maurice Fitzgerald above said.
- Feb. 28 ? 45. The same to Fitzmaurice, for the preservation of the peace in his country, and the assisting of the Commissioners.
- Feb. 28 ? 46. Two drafts of letters from the Queen to some Lords in Ireland, for maintenance of peace in Munster, during the absence of the Earls of Ormond and Desmond. [Drawn on the back of the draft of a petition to the Queen, respecting a lease of the manor of Bulteford, claimed by John Barwyk, of Wilcot, in co. Wilts.]
- Feb. 28. 47. Commission for Mr. Marshal Sir Geo. Stanley, Mr. Vice-Treasurer Fytzwylliams, Sir T. Cusake, and Capt. Francis Agarde, to govern Munster during the absence of the Earls of Ormond and Desmond.
- Feb. ult. 48. Robert Flemyng, Mayor of Drogheda, to Sir W. Cecill. Thanks for the friendship shown to his factor concerning Gressame's matter. O'Neill attacked the Scots at All-hallowtide last, burned part of their country, and has taken their pledges. Three hundred Scots of James M'Donnell's household men have arrived at Lecale, and are now entertained by "M'Gillespoke" [Gilla-Easpoig]. His suit for the fee farm. Brewing utensils.
- Feb. 49. Privy Council to Lord Justice Arnold. Send him a copy of the letters of the captains of 1564/5, January 10, their articles and answers, together with their opinion on every item. Direct that he should follow the same, unless he should see that he had sufficient matter to convince them otherwise. Receipt of letters of January 29, after the writing of these letters. The imprisonment of Radecliff misliked.
- Feb. ult. 50. Sir W. Cecill to the same, in reply to the notes sent by him, Westminster. 1564/5, January 29. Arnold is not to consider what the world only will judge, but what God sees. Answers to the notes respectively. Cecill as a Christian man cannot without perplexity contemplate the wild Irish set to fight as bears and bandogs.

Nov. 12. 42. The Queen to the Lord Deputy Sydney. Instructions to move Shane O'Neill to make his repair to him, to confer of such matters as have been promised to him, and for the settling of some good government of the north. Sydney may grant a safe conduct. O'Neill to answer all disorders committed since the last pardon, as his proceeding against the Scots without advising the Governor of his intention. His using them as his captives; ransoming whom he listed; taking into his own possession their castles and countries; doing all things as though the countries and subjects were his own; his entry into the Newry and Dundrum, and his journey into Connaught. His claims to be strictly scrutinized in Parliament. Sir Thos. Cusake to be consulted. Copy of the articles sent. Mercy and favour. If O'Neill appear not dutiful Sydney to forbear to deal, and to let him remain as he doth, to receive that which he shall deserve.
- Nov. 14.
Westminster. 43. The same to Sir W. Fytzwylliams, Vice-Treasurer and Treasurer at Wars. Has established Sir H. Sydney as Lord Deputy in place of the Earl of Sussex, late Lord Lieutenant. Warrant to pay to the said Earl his entertainment and allowances until 1565 Oct. 6, his allowance for his bands of horse and foot till 1564 June 10; and also 100*l.* Irish per annum for finding of the young Baron Delvin until Christmas next.
- Nov. 15. 44. [Lords of the Council?] to the Lord Deputy Sydney, to certify his opinion as to the posts, and whether the laid post or the through post be more convenient for the speedy conveyance of important letters.
- Nov. 17. 45. Lord High Treasurer Winchester to same. Sir G. Stanley, to allow him to deduct from his wages the amount of Mrs. Suckley's debt. Inclosing, 45. 1. *A remembrance of 126*l.* 16*s.* 2*d.* due from Sir G. Stanley. Marshal in Ireland, to Agnes Suckley, of London, widow.*
- Nov. 20.
Dublin. 46. Adam Loftus, Archbishop of Armagh, to the Earl of Leicester relative to the inclosed letter. Suspecting guile in the messenger, Loftus has sent his own man into Scotland to the Duke of Chatelherault and the Earl of Argyle with letters. The messenger affirmed, that O'Neill and the Dean of Armagh had sent to the Queen of Scots a promise, that if she would now set upon the Protestants he would occupy the Earl of Argyle. Incloses,
46. 1. Counterfeit letter from James Hamylton the Duke of Chatelherault and the Earl of Argyle to the Archbishop of Armagh, desiring to know if there be any likelihood of the English making war on O'Neill. Losses by O'Neill's attack on James M'Donnell, &c. 1565, Sept. 27, Dovenbrettan.
- Nov. 22. 47. The Queen to the Lord Deputy Sydney in favour of the Baron Delvin, now come to full age, and presently repairing to Ireland to possess the barony. To grant him the lease in reversion for 21 years of the Abbey of All Saints, and the captainship of Slewghte William in the Annaley (Longford).

VOL. XV.

Nov. 22? 48. The Baron of Delvin's petitions to the Queen, for the reversion of All Saints and the captainship of Slewghte William.
- Nov. 22. 49. Recognizance of the Earl of Ormond in 20,000*l.*, to abide Westminster. such order in his controversies as Her Majesty shall prescribe.
- Nov. 22. 50. Recognizance of the Earl of Desmond in 20,000*l.*, to abide Westminster. such order in his controversies as Her Majesty shall prescribe.
- Nov. 24. 51. Lord Deputy Sydney to Cecill. Brian Fytzwylliams.
Chester. The warrants for private suits brought by Mr. Agarde were not sufficient for Captain Pers's patent. Bishopricks of Ossory and Cashel not to be granted till Sydney writes out of Ireland. Loftus might have that, and Terence Danyell the Dean of Armagh, might then have Armagh. The Dean well able to direct Shane O'Neill. To be advised whether he shall address his answer to the Queen's letters to the Privy Council or to Her Highness. Did not receive the copy of Mr. Cusake's agreement.
- Nov. 28. 52. Sir W. Fytzwylliams to same. Captain Tyrrell and his Lessenhall. friends spoiled of 600 or 700 cattle, by four of the O'Mores, who were taken in the last wars, by the Earl of Kildare. Garrot Nugent, uncle of Baron Delvin, slain. The wife of William Brady the Dean of Ardagh spoiled as she rode by the way, costly apparelled. Miserable spoils in Leix. Cosbie has written to the Lord Justice of much hurts in Kilkenny. O'Reilly. Munster. Cusake. O'Neill. The Council not permitted to write the truth of O'Neill's evil doings. Parts of Sir W. Fytzwylliams's letter to Cecill of 1565, Aug. 22, have been copied out, by some servant of Cecill's and sent to Arnold, who has shown the same about. Great hatred to Fytzwylliams the consequence. The Earl of Clancarr has written that he has money ready to pay the Queen. His bonds to be sent out of England.
- Nov. 29. 53. [Privy Council?] to the Lord Deputy Sydney. Relate the suit of Kedagh O'More, son of Rory O'More, sometime captain of Leix. Desire to be certified as to the manner of his father's death, why his lands were annexed to the Crown, and what were expedient for Her Majesty to do for him.
- Dec. 2. 54. Articles exhibited by Oliver Sutton of Richardston, gentleman, to the Queen, relative to the needless war stirred up in Ireland on the departure of the Earl of Sussex. Arnold's empty vanity, inquiring at the Council Board, after taking the oath, if he should not have occasion to be in the field, as others before him had been. His wanton cruelty in driving the Calough O'Connor into rebellion; and the said Calough's life ended, another war most wantonly stirred, by means of the Earl of Kildare's servant, Gerald Hussey, preying Cahir O'Reilly, son to O'Reilly. The indifference of Arnold to preserve peace. Great impoverishment of the English Pale thereby. Sutton imprisoned 16 weeks for complaining to Arnold of spoils taken of him.

VOL. XV

[Dec. 2.] 55. A book to be exhibited to the Lord Lieutenant against coin and livery, which the Earl of Kildare taketh with other the said Earl's enormities and abuses. [This book agrees in substance with the following articles by Oliver Sutton, and was no doubt written in Ireland some short time before.]
- Dec. 2. 56. Articles exhibited by Oliver Sutton to the Queen against the Earl of Kildare. Many great enormities committed by him since his restoration. The cause that the English Pale is impoverished and made so unable to bear to the Queen's service. The desolation of all the English and faithful subjects everywhere in Ireland. The pride and rebellion of the Irishry. Their present unity and strength against the Prince. Sutton compelled by the Earl to forsake his ploughing and abide in Dublin or England for safety of his life.
- [Dec. 2.] 57. Petition of Oliver Sutton to the Queen, to cause his book of Enormities committed in the English Pale to be considered and redressed. Begs some relief in his present need.
- [Dec. 2.] 58. Petition of Oliver Sutton of "Richardston in co. Kildare" to the Queen, for a fee farm or reversion of the late Augustine friary in the Naas, the custom of the Naas, the Nunnery of Kildare, &c., &c. And for a special commission to the Lord Deputy and Council to proceed in a final determination of lands, goods, and debts detained from him.
- Dec. 3.
"Hylbry." 59. Lord Deputy Sydney to Cecill. For credit to the bearer, Ralph Knight. No wind for Ireland. Sydney was never so weary of any place; there is neither meat, drink, nor good lodging.
- Dec. 9. 60. Memorandum of the requests of Oliver Sutton. His book to be considered, protection for his person. Favourable letters to Lord Deputy. Despatch.
- Dec. 11.
Westminster. 61. The Queen to the Lord Deputy. Returning to him O. Sutton, with his books exhibited of disorders, which too directly touch the Earl of Kildare. Sydney to examine, and return certificate, of what is most convenient for Her Majesty to judge of every article in the said book. To provide for security of Sutton's life from those persons he is in fear of, on account of his information. Sydney to send his opinion, as to Sutton's suits for certain leases. Also to take order for Sutton's demands of goods and lands.
- Dec. 13.
Dublin. 62. Adam Loftus, Archbishop of Armagh, to Cecill. Has received three letters from Scotland from the Earl of Argyle, which, with two counterfeit letters, he has sent to the Earl of Leicester.
- Dec. 13.
Dublin. 63. Same to the Earl of Leicester. Sends his letters of November 20. His man has returned out of Scotland from the Earl of Argyle. The suspected letters were counterfeit. The messenger who brought them is confined in Dublin Castle. If the Queen would grant Argyle the petitions in his letters he would serve her in Ireland with 4,000 men for six weeks at his own charge. Argyle's petition for Cormac O'Connor. Loftus desires instructions. Inclosing,

63. I. Earl of Argyle to the Archbishop of Armagh. Received his letter of October 21. James M'Donnell was Argyle's friend and servant. The letter whereof Armagh wrote to him counterfeit. Knavery of the messenger. The bearer John Douglas, Armagh's man, will relate particulars at full. Douglas to have credit. The cause moving Argyle to speak of war against O'Neill was the disobedience of O'Neill to God and his Princess. The Duke of Chatelherault, the Earls of Murray, Glencairn, and Rothes, with the Lord Uchiltre (Ochiltre) and others are gone into England to seek aid of the Queen there. Argyle and Boyd alone remain in the mountains, set upon on all sides. Argyle desires to be furnished by Queen Elizabeth with four or two good and well furnished ships of war. John Knox has informed Argyle of Armagh's fervency. Religion the only cause of Argyle's distresses. Incloses Copy of the general Protestation of the Scots' Nobility and Congregation professing the right religion. November 18, Dunnune (Dunoon). [The inclosed protestation is wanting; but see a copy dated Dumfries, 1565, September 19, and inclosed in a letter from Randolphe to Leicester of 1565, October 4, in the Scottish series of Elizabeth, xi. 59.]

63. II. Earl of Argyle to the Archbishop of Armagh. To return answer. To seek Queen Elizabeth's aid for him. Three or four, or even two good ships, with munition. Sir H. Sydney, who is of Argyle's own religion, to be saluted. 1565, Nov. 18, Dunnune (Dunoon). Incloses,

63. III. A letter counterfeited [to be from the Lord Justice Arnold and Council of Ireland to the Earl of Argyle, to induce him to come into Ireland and attack Shane O'Neill, and release James M'Donnell and Sorley Boy. 1565, August 4, Dublin.

63. IV. Earl of Argyle to the Archbishop of Armagh in favour of Cormac O'Connor, son of O'Connor of Offaley, that he may have some part of his father's lands.

November 18, Dunnune (Dunoon).

Dec. 13. 64. Requests of the Earl of Desmond to the Queen, touching the order Her Highness thinketh to take between him and the Earl of Ormond, viz., relative to the second, third, fourth, and twelfth articles.

Dec. 17. 65. *The Queen to the Lord Deputy Sydney and to Sir Nicholas Arnold. O'Reilly's debt of 1,169*l*. Irish to the Earl of Sussex and other debts to be levied. Sussex sends officers over to pay his debts. Commissioners to be appointed to receive instalments and pay them over to Sussex's creditors after the return of the officers.*

ton in Cumberland, with seven of his best horses and much stuff.
Another missing. Sydney's letter to the Lord Treasurer to be delivered; it concerns lead for Ireland.

Dec. 18. 67. Requests of Sir Maurice Fitzgerald to the Privy Council, touching the order to be taken between the Earl of Desmond and him. The Earl not to be at liberty to invade and spoil his country in warlike manner.

Dec. 20. 68. Requests of the Earl of Desmond to the Queen, touching the orders Her Highness thinketh to take between him and Sir Maurice Fitzgerald, Knight.

Dec. 23. 69. Cecill to Lord Deputy Sydney. Sorry for Sydney's long stay, trouble, charge, and losses. The Queen sorry. Cannot procure a further warrant for Captain Pers, of Knockfergus, for the French ambassador has complained of his using a Frenchman ill, taken at the Isle of Wight. Friendly atonement made between the Earls of Leicester and Sussex, and the like with the Duke of Norfolk. All the restless troubles of this court grow of fond reports. The Queen offended at a message sent by the Earl of Leicester to Mr. Heneage by Lighton, and with Lighton for doing it. The Commissioners for Scotland shall go but to the borders. Mr. Rambullett to go into Scotland with the order for the King there. Strange despatched from the Emperor at Vienna, November 30. The matter too hard and too high for Cecill's capacity. Bishoprick of Ossory and Cashel.
Letters directed to Elizabeth, Cecill never opens without her presence and assent. Opens those directed to the Council. Even this night the Queen hath used the Earl of Leicester well. Incloses,

69. 1. *Letters Patent of the Queen, accepting Shane O'Neill, and ratifying clauses of articles concluded by Sir Thomas Cusake,

Dec. [24.] 70. Requests of the Earl of Ormond to the Privy Council, touching the order to be taken between him and the Earl of Desmond.
John of Desmond to be delivered into the Lord Deputy's hand, till all the malefactors be brought in. Sufficient pledges for restitution.
Desmond shall not enter Tipperary. Prize wines of Youghal and Kinsale. Ormond's farms in Limerick to be restored.

Dec. 24. 71. Orders taken by the Queen in the causes of the Earls of Westminster. Ormond and Desmond.

Dec. 24. 72. Orders taken by the Queen in the causes of the Earls of Westminster. Ormond and Desmond, and notified to both the said Earls. To proceed in Chancery for all lands, offices, slaughters, riots, breaches of peace, spoils, and all manner of offences and trespasses. After issue joined commissioners shall be appointed. Lands, &c. in Castle of William Gibson, in the room of Gregory Twydalle, late of Dublin. his brother's band of horse, deceased.

- Jan. 21. 16. Lord Deputy Sydney and Council to Shane O'Neill. The Dublin. Deputy informs him of his arrival by Terence Danyell, the Dean of Armagh. In answer to his letters of the 8th inst., urges him to appoint a parley at Drogheda or Dundalk. Latin.
- Jan. 21. 17. Instructions from the Lord Deputy and Council to Terence Danyell, the Dean of Armagh, for his repair to Shane O'Neill, to announce the Lord Deputy's arrival and urge him to an interview.
- Jan. 22. 18. Sir W. Cecill to the Lord Deputy in favour of his servant Westminster. Edmund Baname, for a lease of the Chantry of St. Saviours, with the appurtenances in the town of Ross.
- Jan. 26. 19. Shane O'Neill to the Lord Deputy Sydney and Council.
Bend Borb. Has received their letters by the Dean of Armagh. Commends Sir Nicholas Arnold's government. The Deputy to come to Dundalk on the 5th of February. Shane desires Sir Thomas Cusake may be there also. Latin.
- Jan. 30. 20. Lord Deputy and Council to Shane O'Neill. Send the Dublin. bearers, Justice James Dowdall and Thomas Stucley, gent., at his Fedan.

26. Shane O'Neill to the Lord Deputy and Council. Declines an interview with the Lord Deputy until the peace and his new petitions be finally determined. Will remain seven days on the confines for that to be accomplished. Urges Sydney to come to Dundalk for that purpose. Latin.

Feb. 9.
Dublin.

27. Lord Deputy and Council to Shane O'Neill. The copy of the peace of 1563, Nov. 18, between Shane and Sir Thomas Cusake, which should have been brought from England by the Dean of Armagh, was left out of the bundle by some mischance, as the said Dean knows; and Cusake who made the same peace is sick in Munster. Stucley and Dowdall will give Shane full satisfaction therein. The Deputy will only communicate with Shane in a convenient place. Offers to sign a safe conduct. Latin.

Feb. 18.

28. Privy Council to the Lord Deputy. Jaques Wingfeld, Esq. Master of the Ordnance, and his suits, recommended to Sydney's goodwill. Sydney to certify that which he shall think meet to be granted, denied, or forborn. Inclose,

28. 1. A writing subscribed by Jaques Wingfeld, Esq., with his requests, and the Lords' opinions thereon. [Somewhat altered from Cecill's corrected draft of Jan. 12.]

29. Shane O'Neill to the Lord Deputy. Takes in good part Sydney's deferring to repair to the borders as to the peace. Form of the peace which Sir T. Cusake concluded with him, 1563, Nov. 18. Relates the motives that would lead him to desire an interview with Sydney, and sends in writing the causes which induce him to keep back. Credence to be given to the relation of Stucley and Dowdall. Latin. [Signed, by Shane, 2011 O'Neill. A copy of this letter was inclosed by Sydney to Leicester. March 1, No. 35. The seal of this letter has the dexter hand supported by two lions.] Incloses,

29. 1. Causes moving Shane's people not to suffer him to come to the Lord Deputy's presence with such expedition as his Lordship requires. Also Shane's assurance to Sydney that he is not mistrustful of him. Stucley and Dowdall commissioned with other of Shane's instructions. Feb., 18, Benborbe. English. Signed, but not by Shane himself, your Lordship's loving Goshopp to commaunde 2011 O'Neill.

Feb. 24.
Dublin.

30. Lord Deputy and Council to Shane O'Neill. Answer Shane's mistrust. Sir Thomas Cusake, the Lord of Louth, and other Commissioners shall repair to the borders for ratification of the peace. Justice James Dowdall and the Dean of Armagh appointed to hear the hurts and other controversies on the borders. Shane's commissioners to meet them at an appointed time. Sydney will be glad to meet Shane at Dundalk. The Rhymer complained of, denies having made any such verses. Latin.

Feb. 24.
Greenwich.

31. Sir W. Cecill to Lord Deputy, in favour of the bearer Sir Maurice Fitzgerald. Cecill sees good parts in him, and wishes his neighbours were all as civil as he seems. Has heard of Sydney's arrival. Hopes for letters soon.

Vol. XVI.

Feb. 28.
Dublin.
32. Sir N. Arnold to the Earl of Leicester. Trusts in one month more to be able to send perfect books of the checks. The Queen to use some severe manner towards Mr. Treasurer. Bermyngham supposes 10,000*l.* to be left in his hands. Desires to be maintained to make a full end of the check matters. The Lord Deputy very honourably assists their doings, and is grown into much favour.
- Feb.
Dublin.
33. Sir Nicholas Bagenall to the same. Never knew the country so out of order. Robbing, stealing, and killing throughout the English Pale. The countries of the Walshes, Byrnes, and Toolles within four miles of Dublin, by robbery one of another almost throughout waste. Sir Warhame Sentleger appointed Lord President of Munster. The Earl of Thomond. Clanrycard spoiled by Shane O'Neill. Shane O'Neill has now all the countries from Sligo to Carrickfergus, and from thence to Carlingford, and from Carlingford to Drogheda. He hath made a sure bond with Scotland. Deputy has done all he can to bring Shane to quietness. Has sent Stucley and Dowdall twice, but Shane will never come to any governor, as may be seen by his answers to Stucley, which the Lord Deputy has sent by this bearer. Has won all by the sword and so will keep it. Weakness of the Chancellor and others.
- March 1.
Greenwich.
34. Sir W. Cecill to Lord Deputy, for the bearer, Mr. Christopher Gaffney, Chaplain to the Earl of Sussex, to be Bishop of Ossory.
- March 1.
Dublin.
35. Lord Deputy Sydney to the Earl of Leicester. To communicate the effect of these letters to the Queen; the matter touches her honour and the safety of Ireland. Arrived January 13. The English Pale spoiled daily, and in utter poverty. The soldiers so beggar-like and insolent, and allied with the Irish, that nothing can correct them. Kilkenny and all Munster spoiled. The Earls cannot attend the Queen's service, as formerly. One may ride 30 miles and not see one house left standing, where Sydney has known it as well inhabited as in many counties of England. Thomond worse still. In Connaught the Earl of Clanrycard is greatly distressed. Leinster and Meath. Ulster. Shane O'Neill the only strong and rich man in Ireland. Stucley and Justice James Dowdall sent to Shane O'Neill. His dealings and arrogance. He never made peace with the Queen, but by her own seeking. He would keep from O'Donnell his country, from Bagenall the Newry, and from Kildare Dundrum; with his sword he won them, and would so keep them. He can bring 1,000 horse and 4,000 foot into the field. Agents abroad. He is able to burn and spoil to Dublin gates and go away unfought. Chancellor. President to be in Munster. Money. Losses. Captain Pers.—Postscript of March 5. "My Lord of Kyldare, at my request, hath taken a notable rebell and outlaw and murderer, who about a year before my aryvall murdered the Baron of Delvyn's brother that last dyed." [See vol. XV. No. 52.] Kildare to be a Companion of the Order this year. To be good to Sydney's cousin Gifford.

Dublin. and Chancellor of the Exchequer, to be granted to him for life.

March 5. 45. Thomas Lancaster to the Earl of Leicester. Has talked with Dublin. Rowland White for wood for the mine of Skiddaw in Cumberland. The Lord Deputy should be one in the company. Sydney's pains in despatching people's causes. Tooles, Byrnes, &c. Agarde and Nicholas Heron set over them. Sir Nicholas Bagenall to be placed at the Newry. Plan against Shane O'Neill. O'Donnell. Specimen of the mine of Lambaye. Mr. Challoner recommended to be one of the work in Ireland. Kildare has apprehended Tyrrel who was at the murder of Delvin's uncle. Sydney arrived January 13, and took the charge January 21.

March 5. 46. Same to Cecill, relative to the wood in Ireland for the mine Dublin. of Skedo in Cumberland, &c., as above.

March 6. 47. Sir Warhame Sentleger to same. Hopes of reformation through Dublin. Sydney's diligence. He is appointed to the service in Munster. He will be careful in that charge.

March 7. 48. Sir Thomas Cusake to same. Received Cecill's letter of Dublin. November 19. Has advertised his proceedings in Munster and Ulster to the Earl of Leicester. The pledges for the fines in Munster delivered to Sir Maurice Fitzgerald (now in England). John of Desmond's good service; he deserves to be considered. The Lord Deputy has advertised the Queen concerning Cusake's own suits which "hath been" condescended unto. Incloses,

48. I. *Copy of an Indenture between Sir T. Cusake and Sir Maurice Fitzgerald, Sheriff of co. - March 27. 67. Cecill to Sydney. Sydney's perfect declaration of the state of Ireland, and his opinion for remedy, commended. Manner of imparting Sydney's letter to the Queen, and afterwards to the Council. Every one inclined to the extirpation of that proud rebel Shane O'Neill. Her Majesty proposed to send Mr. Vice-Chamberlain Knollys to confer with Sydney as to the enterprize against O'Neill. 6,000*l.* packing up for Ireland. Chancellor. Council in Munster. The Queen stayeth upon the allowance of Sentleger, on account of his father's quarrel with Ormond's father. Her Majesty is very greatly heated and provoked to the extirpation of Shane O'Neill. General misliking of Sydney's letter for Stucley. Lead. Sir N. Arnold's stay marvelled at.
- March 27. 68. Lord Treasurer Winchester to the Lord Deputy. Sends 6,000*l.* by the bearer his servant Richard Stringfellow, gent. Mr. Dyxe and the pay. Certain Irish Lords' payments of money, borrowed by them in England, to be signified.
- March 28. 69. The Queen to same. The Earl of Leicester being absent to visit a sick sister, sent Deputy's letter to the Queen in secret manner. Will send a Chancellor with speed. Curwen, Archbishop of Dublin, to have the bishopric of Oxford. A Council to be established in Munster. Allowance of Sir Warhame Sentleger to be president. The Queen's objections to him. Money. Difficulties as to it. Marvel that there is no certainty written as to the amount of checks. Sydney to employ his whole care and consideration how O'Neill, who has now manifested himself so contemptuous a traitor, may be utterly extirpated. Sir Francis Knollys the Vice-Chamberlain will be sent to consult with Sydney thereon. Earl of Kildare commended for his service in apprehending Tyrrel, who murdered the Baron Delvin's brother [See No. 35]. Fortifying of

- Dundalk. Carrickfergus. O'Donnell. Earls of Clanrycard and Thomond to be aided. The notable rebel Piers Grace and others to be apprehended. Orders for the direction of the Court of "Castle Chamber," to resemble "our Star Chamber at Westminster," shall be sent with speed. Sir Nicholas Arnold to return home forthwith. Mr. Treasurer and the checks. [Despatched by Captain Wm. Pers.]
- March 31. 70. The Queen to Lord Deputy. Thinks it not for her honour Greenwich. that Sydney should renew any treaty with O'Neill. Thomas Stucley to return home, to answer the charges against him in the Admiralty Court. The Earl of Ormond to be restored to such government as he had been removed from by Arnold.
- March 31. 71. Cecill to same. The Queen considers that the Earl of Greenwich. Ormond has been unfairly treated by Arnold. Ormond's loyalty and painfulness in all service acknowledged by Cecill. Her Majesty's good opinion of Ormond thought to grow from "the memory of his education with that holly yong Sallomon King Edward" VI. Stucley in evil case. Leicester will be "here" on Wednesday.

VOL. XVII. 1566. APRIL AND MAY.

- April 1. 1. Lord Treasurer Winchester to the Lord Deputy. Has sent to Sir Ric. Bulkeley to see whether the lead may be spared from Beaumaris. Sydney shall have lead speedily.
- April 2. 2. A proportion for the rates and standards of money for Ireland.
- April 2? 3. Stonlyes opinion for monies in Ireland.
- April 2? 4. Mr. Stonlyes opinion for the monies of Ireland. Not allowed, as appears by endorsement.
- April 3. 5. Rates of monies brought into fine silver.
- April 3. 6. Cecill to the Lord Deputy. The Queen intends to answer Sydney's letters from Waterford. Cecill wishes Sydney prosperity. Takes to heart the shame England has sustained by Irish disobedience. Sir Thos. Smith and Wm. Wynter demand Calais of the French. Dr. Weston to be the Lord Chancellor of Ireland.
- April 12. 7. Memorial for Ireland. [These interrogatories will be found in Knollys's Instructions, 18 April 1566.]
- April 13. 8. Lord Deputy and Council to the Privy Council. In obedience
Dublin. to instructions of 1565, Oct. 5, they have made certificate of the following articles:—Diligence of the Archbishops of Dublin and Armagh, and of the Bishop of Meath. Causes of the decay of chan- cels, churches, &c. St. Patrick's by Dublin. Ecclesiastical commis- sion. Integrity of the Justices. Leix and Offaley. Establishment

Dublin, from the Head of Bray to Arklow; Thomas Fytzwylliams, of Meryonge, Seneschal, and Robt. Pipho, Seneschal. Sir Warhame Sentleger. The compendium of Irish Statutes to be had of the Earl of Sussex, and printed; also the drafts of Statutes conceived for the next Parliament. M. Kyng to have his pay in sterling according to his patent. The soldier, cess, pay, poverty, &c. Forts in Leix and Offaley. Irish captains. Sir Barnaby Fitzpatrick, a gentleman of notable service, eldest son of the Baron of Upper Ossory, now aged and impotent. Connaught to have a President and Council. O'Briens of Thomond. Revenue. Henry Draycott, Chancellor and Remembrancer of the Exchequer, now Master of the Rolls, "hath had the perusing, sorting and kalendaringe of Her Majesty's recordes," which are "well layd upp in a stronge chamber of one of the towers of Dublin Castle." Draycott's sickness on the late journey. All castles decayed. Lead for Dublin and Carrickfergus. Earl of Ormond's bonnaught. The towns of trade to have charters. Great abuse of merchants of the haven towns who send their own servants "and factors, called grayemerchantes, through all the Irish countries to buy up the Irish wares, whereby the decay of the towns is occasioned." The suits of the bearer, John Chaloner, Her Majesty's Secretary, recommended. He has served six years in Ireland. The mischance of his disheriting occasioned by absence in the Queen's service. [Many other matters mentioned.] Sending,

8. I. A brief declaration of the state and value of the revenues of Ireland, as charged for one whole year, ending at Michaelmas, anno 6<sup>o</sup> Edw. VI., not according to the surveys, but as they were then demised and leased. Also a declaration of how much thereof has since been given away, sold, or otherwise diminished or decayed. Ireland. Case A. No. 5.

8. II. A brief declaration of the Revenues, both certain and casual, as charged for the year ending at Michaelmas, 6 Eliz. 1564, not according the survey thereof, but as they be now demised and leased. Also the yearly charges out of the same. By Gabriel Crofte.

April 13.
Kilmainham.

9. Lord Deputy Sydney to the Earl of Leicester. Commends the bearer, John Chaloner, to his just protection. Lacks answer to his letters sent by Capt. Wm. Pers. Earnest appeal for speedy directions.

[April 13.]

10. Lord Deputy's remembrances by Chaloner. Court of Castle Chamber. Book devised for Munster. Charter to Dublin. Allowance to O'Donnell. Prisoners in Dublin Castle. Abridgement of the statute laws made by Sussex's appointment, &c. [Qy. Are these the Acts or Abridgments in Lambeth Library, vol. 608, commencing at page 106.?]

Lismullin.

12. Sir Thos. Cusake to Cecill. Cusake's important service in Munster will not be forgotten there for 100 years. Wrote to the Earl of Leicester, on being appointed by the Lord Deputy to repair, with the Lord of Louth, Mr. Stucley, and Justice James Dowdall, to Shane O'Neill. Cusake has now, on his return from that service, written a full discourse to the Queen. [Not here.]

April 15.
Kilmainham.

13. Lord Deputy to the Privy Council. Answer to his letters by Capt. Wm. Pers looked for. Journey in Leinster, Meath, and Westmeath. Not an O'Toole, O'Byrne, Kavanagh, Kinsellagh, O'Murroughoe, or O'Doill refused to repair to him. Has taken their sufficient sureties and pledges. Nicholas Heron. The Walshes', Archebolds' or Asshepooles', and Harolds' countries committed to the charge of Thomas Fytzwylliams of Meryonge; and all the coast under the Red mountain, being the west part of the Tooles' and Byrnes' countries, bordering on the county of Kildare, to Robert Pipho. Francis Agarde is “the most sufficient servaunt for the Queene” in all this land. O'Mores tractable. O'Conors waiting to do mischief. O'Molloy delivers up his eldest son. Sessions held: 50 notable offenders executed, and 20 more by martial law. Kilkenny disordered. Earl of Ormond's return desired. Ormond and Desmond to relinquish their palatine liberties. Shane O'Neill giveth forth great tokens of intended war. He will parley with Sydney about the last of April. He fortifies Dundrum and Lifford. Has put away O'Donnell's wife, and shall marry James M'Donnell's wife, “base sister to the Erle of Argile.” Sorley Boy. Maguire invaded. Shane O'Neill threatens to burn Dundalk. Money. Assistance of Council. Francis Cosbie, Seneschal. Henry Colley, Seneschal. Arnold and his associates. Francis Crocket. Two young gentlemen of the Mores. W. Pepparde's widow. Oliver Sutton against Kildare. Sydney to be cleared from the imputation of having coveted the viceregal power. He has “bene drawn from mirth to Malancoly by it.” Incloses,

13. 1. Ordinances proclaimed by Sir H. Sydney for the benefit of the Irish countries, and committed to the Seneschals to be observed through all Leinster, Meath, and Westmeath.

April 17.

14. Sydney to Cecill. Although his letters, despatched by Finch, had not gone at the arrival of W. Pers with despatches, Sydney preferred to send them as they were. Has cause to rejoice that his ill-composed letters found such gracious acceptance. Will not deal in the matters of Ormond and Desmond without another Chancellor. Stucley and his affairs. Desires to know whether the Queen will choose to bring the people of Ulster to the just rule of English law, which is easy, or to banish them quite, and unpeople the soil which would be chargeable. The service of Sir W. Senteleger. Sydney never promised that Munster should bear the charges of the Council: that is not done in Wales or in the North. Sydney has called daily on Arnold to give in his accounts, or to go and leave the others to finish them. Has not spoken against Sussex. Will parley with O'Neill on April 30th.

consult with Sydney, whether O'Neill may be reformed without actual war; of the divers requisites for the war; the time to begin it.
Provision, money, &c. Fortifying of Knockfergus or Belfast. Great objections against Sentleger being President of Munster. Knollys to inquire the state of the country at Sydney's coming. W. Pers took 6,000*l.* Knollys takes 3,000*l.* Arnold to return. Arnold and Treasurer to answer before Sydney. Knollys to hear some proofs in the causes of Ormond and Desmond. Bonds of nobles. Payment to be made to the Queen. Record and Pepparde's ore and bullion.
The office of the Mint to be seen to. [Draft.]
- April 18. 21. The Queen to Lord Deputy Sydney. Sends Knollys with a memorial, signed by her, to consult upon. Knollys to be treated as a Privy Councillor. It is very strange that Sir Nicholas Arnold doth delay his return. Vice-Chamberlain Knollys may allow Arnold to stay.

May 14? 51. Memorandum of the Earl of Ormond's requests and suits.
- May 14. 52. Cecill to Lord Deputy Sydney. Cecill's sudden and dangerous sickness. Earl of Ormond's letter. Her Majesty desires Sydney should well remember the certain small writing sent by Captain Wm. Pers.
- May 18. 53. Lord Deputy Sydney to the Privy Council, for Daniel Kilmainham. Kavanagh to be appointed Bishop of Leighlin.
- May 18. 54. Cecill to Lord Deputy. Sydney likely to have enough House near the money. Nothing now to do requires more care than Ireland.
Savoy. Sydney to be favourable towards the Earl of Ormond's causes, or Her Majesty will not suffer anything to be done therein. Cecill's cousin Daniel sent to the Emperor. Cecill is glad to hear that Thomas Phetyplace is taken.
- May 18. 55. Lord Deputy to the Privy Council. The device for the war.
Kilmainham. Sydney hopes their Lordships will consider how unapt he is to be an actor in the intended wars, as the reports of Her Majesty's disliking of him are public. How any unfortunate accident in the wars would renew the suspicion of his fidelity. And how necessary it is, if the Queen resolves that he remain, that he should be freed from all discredit.
- May 19. 56. Sir Francis Knollys to Cecill. Malicious arrogance of Shane Dublin. O'Neill. He can neither be reformed or stayed but by actual war. Debate thereon with the Lord Deputy, Sir W. Fytzwylliams, and Captain Francis Agarde. Resolution for immediate war. The reasons. Loss by taking up provisions on credit. Unless the Queen do send peremptorily for Arnold, Knollys will be home long before him. Sydney has painfully and wisely behaved himself.
- [May 19?] 57. Brief declaration by the Commissioners Arnold and his associates of their proceedings with Sir W. Fytzwylliams for getting in of his account. [With an indorsement by Knollys.]
- [May 19?] 58. The answer of Sir W. Fytzwylliams to the declaration of Sir N. Arnold and his associates, touching their proceedings for getting in the view of his General Account. [Mem. Arnold received this answer about May 19, see 1566, June 8, Fytzwylliams's note on the back of Arnold's replication.]

May 21.
Dublin.

63. Hugh Curwen, Archbishop of Dublin and Chancellor of Ireland, to Cecill. Desires that he may have permission to leave Ireland before winter, as he suffers extremely in that season. Another Archbishop to be appointed with speed, or the lands will be pilfered away by Irishmen, and the houses spoiled.

May 23.
Kilmainham.

64. Lord Deputy to same. Commends the desire of the Archbishop of Dublin to be forthwith disburdened of his offices in Ireland, that he may be able to travel before winter. His suit to be recompensed for his long service with the last half-year's rent of the bishoprick of Oxford.

May 26.

67. Sir F. Knollys to Cecill. The need of two brigantines, in addition to the notes of the necessities for the war sent to the Queen, to be employed in keeping the Scots from aiding Shane O'Neill. Three hundred Scots harder to be vanquished than 600 Irish. The Earl of Argyle to be treated with to stay them from Shane. O'Donnell to be created Earl of Tyrconnell. Knollys will make a simple declaration of his opinion at his return.

May 30.
Kilmainham.

68. Lord Deputy to the Privy Council. Answers to his letters desired. O'Neill has treated with Hugh O'Donnell, his prisoner, for delivery of certain castles. He has also made war upon Maguire. As to allowance of the charges of councillors attending in journies, which has been demanded. Slandorous calumnies of Sydney refuted. Sydney has the rather continued certain of Sir H. 1566.
June 3. 1. Lord Deputy Sydney to Cecill. Desires to be recalled
Kilmainham. Sydney is reported to be in disgrace. All the Queen's charge is lost with this manner of proceeding. O'Neill will be tyrant of all Ireland. He has won the rest of O'Donnell's castles; confederated with the Scots; is in Maguire's country; will spend this summer in Connaught, next winter in the English Pale. Orders for the Star Chamber are very necessary.
- June 8. 2. Replication by Arnold and his associates to the answer of Sir William Fytzwylliams.
- June [8.] 3. The rejoinder of Sir W. Fytzwylliams to the replication of Sir Nicholas Arnold and his associates, to which he objects, as false, and refers himself to trial. [Indorsed by Knollys.]
- June 8. 4. The Queen to the Lord Deputy, &c. for the bearer Lawrence

June 9. 8. Lord Deputy Sydney to Cecill, in favour of the bearer Ralph Kilmainham. Morton, for the obtaining of his office of Constable of Dungarvan for life, together with the parsonage of Dungarvan. To have 40% imprest in England for the furniture of his charge.
- June 9. 9. Same to same. Maguire, the Captain of Fermanagh, has been Kilmainham. expelled his country, and his brother has become Shane O'Neill's servant. Whilst Sydney's man, Douglas, was at Edinburgh, the Earl of Argyle brought a gentleman of O'Neill's country to court.
O'Neill hath excused the same to Sydney by Mr. Justice James Dowdall. If the Queen provide not in time she will lose Ireland as her sister lost Calais.
- June 9. 10. Wm. Bermyngham to same. Delivered an estimate to Sir N.
Dublin. Arnold, touching the receipts of treasure out of England by Sir W. Fytzwylliams. Opinion of him to be suspended till his appearance in England with Sir Nic. Arnold.
- June 9. 11. Wm. Bermyngham to the Earl of Leicester. Of the same Dublin. tenor as the above to Cecill.
- June 10. 12. Adam Loftus, Archbishop of Armagh, to the Privy Council, Dublin. for a zealous and learned man to be Archbishop of Dublin. For St. Patrick's to be turned to a college of the state. [Later in life he was not so anxious for the college.]
- June 10. 13. Same to Cecill. A choice, godly, zealous and learned man to Dublin. succeed to the archbishoprick of Dublin. St. Patrick's to be turned into a house of learning. Cecill seems to pity the conversion of the tithes, contrary to the institution, from the use of their pastors.
Cecill should rather pity the case of the people, much fleeced and nothing at all fed. The benefices belonging to St. Patrick's are almost all within five miles of Dublin.
- June 11. 14. Lord Deputy Sydney to the Privy Council, in favour of the Kilmainham. bearer Fulk Samforde, who has served in Ireland these 24 years.
- June 11. 15. A proportion of munition and furniture to be sent from the Ordnance Office to Bristol, to be transported for Ireland. [Indorsed by Cecill "First book."]
- June 12. 16. Mr. W. Wynter and Mr. Edw. Baeshe to Cecill. Recom-

- June 15. 17. The Queen to the Lord Deputy. Objections to commencing a {Greenwich.} war in winter. Resolution to follow the plan of operations brought by Capt. Pers from Deputy and Vice-Chamberlain Knollys. The 300 from Berwick shall come to the place, and at the time appointed.
"700 more shall be put in readiness in the west country, whereof 300 shall be sent this year and 400 next." Victuals, munition, and armour. O'Donnell to be surely established. The coasts towards Scotland to be so possessed, as the Scots may be impeached from coming to succour the rebel. The Earl of Kildare to recover Lecale and keep up the war with Shane. The other parts of the realm to be well ordered.

June [15.] 18. Account of Sir Nicholas Arnold, his demands and allowances, with the money, victual, &c. he has received towards the discharge thereof. Attested by Gabriel Crofte and Francis Berney. [There is another made up to June 26 at that date.]

June 16. 19. Cecill to Sir H. Sydney. This day the Queen commanded that the Earl of Sussex should be called before the Council to answer what he had reported of Sydney. The Earl of Leicester repeated some words which Sussex denied; and Sydney by both their speeches was well acquitted of any evil meaning. The charge was that Sydney had addressed a writing to Shane about November 1559 by the simple name of O'Neill. The Queen suspects Sydney of affection to the Earl of Desmond. Her Majesty has caused a letter to be written to Sydney misliking that Sir Edmund Butler should be indicted for taking coin and livery. Her Majesty will needs make Her progress to Collyweston and visit Cecill's cottage and the Lord Admiral's house. Cannot prevail on any one to go Chancellor to Ireland. Adam Loftus, the Archbishop of Armagh, proposed for that office.

Dublin. the bearer, Sir Christopher Gaffney, to be Bishop of Ossory.

June 20. 21. Sir Thos. Cusake to same. Sends a description of Ulster, and Dublin. promises one, of the remainder of Ireland. Cecill to put the Queen in remembrance for passing the fee-farm she promised him, and the remission of the 400*l.* remaining of the sum unjustly charged on him in Queen Mary's time. Desires that his man, who has been long stayed, may return.

June 20? Map of the coast of the county of Down from Lough Strangford to Carlingford, and including a small part of Louth. The wood which was found in this district was only underwood, as hazle, holly, &c., but no great oak nor great building timber, and the mountain tops were barren save only firs and small thorns. [Irish Maps, Vol. I., No. 22.]

June 21. 22. A proportion of victual with the estimate of the prices. Also an order by Cecill for some proportion of victual to be provided at Bristol for 600 soldiers for 21 days.

June 21. 23. Lord Deputy Sydney to Cecill. Has written to the Queen
Kilmainham. on behalf of the bearer's mistress Mrs. Pepparde and her children. Desires Cecill's good word, and expedition in her favour, in respect of her years and unfitness to travel to sue for herself.

24. Petition of Anthony Pepparde and the widow his mother to the Privy Council. That they may be permitted to proceed by law against such as did spoil them of 4,000*l.* at Enniscorthy notwithstanding their pardons for treason.

June 24.
Kilmainham.

25. Lord Deputy Sydney to Cecill. Is glad of Cecill's recovery. Received the Queen's and Cecill's letters of May 14. Report that Sydney is commanded to suffer coin and livery to continue. It were much better for the Queen's service to revoke Sydney than to keep him in discredit. Cecill to acquaint himself with that Sydney now writes to the Earl of Leicester. Sydney has dealt friendly with Brian Fytzwylliams, Cecill's cousin. The bearer, "my brother" Sir William Fytzwylliams, is a perfect, honest, and a true man. O'Neill fortifies the castles of O'Donnell and Maguire. The Earl of Argyle will be with him in July. Inclosing,

25. 1. Depositions of Ann Tayfe and others, touching a most extraordinary prodigy of late seen in Cowley (Carbolle or Corbolte) of three sundry hosts, &c. "Doubtless there was such a thing seen," writes Sydney. June 16.

June 24.

26. A proportion of victuals and provisions appointed to be presently made by W. Wynter and Ed. Baeshe, officers of the Admiralty, and to be conveyed by them to Portsmouth. An estimate of the prices. A further supply to be added.

June 24.
Westminster.

27. Cecill to Lord Deputy Sydney. The bearer, W. Pers, has been staid by the Queen's commandment for Mr. Vice-Chamberlain's coming. Her Majesty has commanded Cecill to expedite both the whole number of 1,000 men, and the victual for the enterprise against O'Neill. Shane's practices with Scotland fully discovered. The Queen of Scots delivered of a child on Wednesday last, but whether it be a knave child or lass not yet known. Bruges; the French king; the Emperor; the Turk. The Queen of Scots hath a son [James VI.]. The amity between Leicester and Sussex shall continue, Sydney to be thereto conformable.

June 25.

28. Estimate of the charges for the prest, conduct, and transport of 700 soldiers from Bristol to Ireland.

"Upon this preparation here, we thynk Shan Oneyle will grow into some heat, and percase break his bryckle peace, and therefor he is to be seen to, for the hurt of the frontyers, as though you had oppen warrs with hym." Assurance to the Lord Deputy that speeches uttered by the Earl of Sussex against him have been debated, and his truth and loyalty are no wise touched. The Earl of Sussex never meant by word or deed to charge him with any jot of untruth. Friendship is made between the Earls of Sussex and Leicester; no cause why Sydney should not also be on friendly terms with his brother-in-law Sussex.

55. Order for the Earl of Desmond's imprisonment in Dublin Castle; and the government of Cork, Limerick, and Kerry to be committed to John of Desmond, taken by the Lord Deputy and Commissioners.

March.

56. Names of certain soldiers of Captain Humfrey Gylberte's band who have fled out of Ireland; some have passes, some are impotent.

April 3.
Westminster.

57. The Queen to the Lord Deputy. The Lord Deputy's intention to make enquiry in his journey westward respecting the disorders charged against the Earl of Desmond, who has protected the proclaimed rebels of the O'Conors, O'Mores, and O'Byrnes. The Queen perceives by the confession of Cahir O'Connor that the matters wherewith the Earl of Desmond was charged, were very true and manifest, and only delayed by him to avoid due punishment in England. Suits of law to be ended with all expedition, saving only such as concern plea of lands. Desmond ought to forfeit his recognizance. The said Earl to be held in custody, in case he come before the Lord Deputy, and is found guilty of the charges against him.

April 3.

58. The Queen to the Mayor and Aldermen of Dublin. Thanks for their service against Shane O'Neill the last hosting. Draft. Similar letters were sent to Drogheda.

April 3.
Westminster.

59. Cecill to the Lord Deputy. Incloses the Queen's two letters to Dublin and Drogheda to be directed and forwarded. Also sends a book of statutes passed in Scotland, whereof for shortness, Sydney may take good example.

April 3.

60. Extract of a letter from the Privy Council to the same. Shane sends the apparel given to his father by Henry VIII. to the Earl of Argyle. Purpose of young O'Donnell to betray the English force. Scots to be suffered till the rebel be extirpated, English to be allured to plant Ulster. Scots now serving to inhabit the inner country. Chancellor. Council in Munster. 100 horse. 300 foot.

April 4.

61. Lord Treasurer Winchester to the same. Victuals. Trusts Sydney will choose the Ban, where he may have his men in health and good stowage. 1567.
 April 9. 63. Memorandum by the Lord Deputy, Desmond, Clanrycard, and others, relative to the confirmation of an agreement made between the Earl of Thomond and Sir Donnell O'Brien, Sept. 30, 1564, with copies of the writings.
 Clanrycard's House of Ballyloghreogh. [Loughrea.]
- April 10. 64. Cecill to the Lord Deputy. The bearer, Sir W. Fytzwylliams, has passed his musters. Cecill considers that the faults were occasioned through the negligence of his servant to whom he had committed the charge. Beseeches Sydney to show him favour as he had done to his brother.
- April 10. 65. The Queen to the Lord Deputy and Chancellor, for the Westminster. conferring of the bishoprick of Leighlin on Daniel Kavanagh.
- April 20. 66. Lord Deputy to the Queen. Description of Munster during Kilmainham. Sydney's eleven weeks and two days' journey. Good conformity of the towns and some parts of the country. Great disorders and wasted towns in other parts. Has apprehended Florence and Geoffrey, younger sons of the Baron of Upper Ossory, for their evil doings upon the county of Kilkenny. Ikerwyn, called O'Meagher's country, all waste and uninhabited. Earl of Ormond's privileges productive of much mischief through the incompetency of his officers. Mention of all the lords and gentlemen. The Earl of Clancarr and Sir Owen O'Sullivan came to Sydney, although prohibited by the Earl of Desmond. Sir Donough M'Carthy, Captain of Carbery, otherwise called M'Carthy Reagh; Sir Dermot M'Carthy, Captain of Muskerry, and other "verie greate possessioners in that county" of Cork, who ought to be free subjects, are so injured and exacted upon by the Earl of Desmond, "as in effecte they are or were become his Thralls or Slaves." Desmond's flagrant tyrannies. The burning of villages and ruin of churches in his land. "Yea, the viewe of the bones and Sculles of your ded subjectes, who partelie by murder, partelie by famyn, have died in the feldes is such, that hardelie anny Christian with drie eies coulde beholde." Not long before Sydney's arrival "there were certeyne poor women soughte to have ben Rescewed, but to late, yet so sone after the horrible facte committed, as their children were felte and seene to sturre in the bodies of their dead mothers, and yet did the Earl of Desmond lodge and banckett, after the facte committed, in the howse of the murderer, a principall servaunte of his." Desmond's capture and leading through Thomond and Connaught to confinement in Dublin Castle. Sydney justifies his own proceedings. Thomond. O'Shaughnessy. The citizens of Galway watch their walls nightly, and guard their gates daily with armed men. They complain much of the wars, but most of all of the disorder of the Earl of Clanrycard's two sons, "which he hath by two wives, and bothe alive, and thies two yonge boyes in the lief of their father, doe strive who shal be their father's heire." Sydney has carried them away with him. O'Donnell. O'Connor Sligo. Pitiful state of the ancient town of Anrye, they deliver up their keys to him for good. The Earl of Clanrycard, who is "equall in all good partes with the best of his cote of this countrie breed," is "so over Ruled by a putative Wife, as ofte tymes when he best intended she forceth hym to doe worste." The cowardly policy of keeping the Irish in continual dissension condemned. The Earl of Kildare. Great success against Shane O'Neill. Earnest appeal for assistance in government. The Judges of all the courts impotent. Sydney's health impaired. He deprecates the listening to informers, and the comfortless silence used in regard to his writings.

- April 23. 67. Cecill to Lord Deputy. Desires news. The most honest desire to go away from Scotland, the worst tremble with the shaking of their conscience. The demand for Calais would be successful if there were money. The poor Protestants in Flanders are brought to desperation, and must trust only to miracles.
- April 26. 68. Patent granting to Hugh M'Manus O'Donnell the captainry of Tírconnell. Latin.
Dublin.
- April 28. 69. O'Donnell to the Lord Deputy. His grief for the ruin of "Bundroways." the Derry. The keepers of his castles refuse him submission, and [Bundrowes, are about to give them up to O'Neill. Desires license from Sydney to co. Donegal.] hire soldiers into the Queen's pay. Also that ships may be sent to take the castle of Donegal. O'Concawayr (O'Connor Sligo) will not furnish his supplement of men against Shane O'Neill, but succours the rebel Henry "O'Duwocan." Has treated of marriage with James "Mic Donayll's" widow, who would willingly be allied to him in order to be avenged of Shane, for the death of her late husband. Desires leave to join the Scots now come against Shane O'Neill. Latin, signed by himself 20/11/1567.
- April 28. 70. Note of provisions for Knockfergus and furniture for a brew-house, subscribed by Wynter and Baeshe.
- [April ?] 71. Remembrances for Ireland and for the despatch of ———, to be communicated to the Lords. President for Munster. Money. Parliament, &c.
- May 2. 72. Captain Humfrey Gylberte to Cecill. Commends the care Chester. taken by Sir Hugh Cholmondeley and Sir Lawrence Smyth for transport of the soldiers. Arthur Starkey and Henry Frodsham, gent., sent to conduct the soldiers to the Derry.
- May 3. 73. Order of Council for Wynter and Baeshe, to cause the proportion mentioned in the bill of April 28, to be provided and speedily sent to Ireland.

VOL. XXI. 1567. JUNE—SEPT.

June 2. 1. Lord Treasurer Winchester to the Lord Deputy, in favour of young Mr. Issam, who was left by his father in Ireland to be employed in service.
- June 2. Dublin. 2. Thos. Jenyson to Cecill. Has collected an estimate. Hopes by June 20 to finish a book certain, and repair with it himself to England.
- June [2]. 3. Estimate of the Queen's charges, collected by Auditor Jenyson till the 4th of July 1567, amounting to 83,876*l.* 12*s.* 5*d.*, of which 42,361*l.* 18*s.* 8*d.* is defrayed, and so leaves 41,514*l.* 13*s.* 9*d.* [This estimate must be either June 1 or 2; it is mentioned by Cecill June 15.]

Vol. XXI.

- June 6. 4. Note of the yearly charges issuing out of the Irish revenues, with a discourse on the value of different currencies.
- June 6. 5. Declaration of the charges to be sustained in Ireland for 200 horse, 800 foot, and 5 ships, for 5 months, by the Lord Deputy's desire in his last letters.
- June 10. 6. The Queen to the Lord Deputy. Appoints Dr. Weston to be Lord Chancellor and revokes Archbishop Curwen. Curwen to be Bishop of Oxford. Weston to have the deanery of St. Patricks. Weston to have two hundred marks allowed him for travelling expenses, one hundred of which are given to him, the other hundred to be defalked out of his deanery of St. Patricks. Adam Loftus, Archbishop of Armagh, to be Archbishop of Dublin.
- June 10. 7. Lord Treasurer Winchester to same. To take order for Sir William Norreys to receive satisfaction for a certain debt of one John Sheen, out of the said Sheen's entertainment as brewer.
- June 10. 8. Sir W. Fytzwylliams to Cecill. The Lord Deputy's journey
Lesenhall. into Tyrone. O'Donnell's spoils; forced Shane to seek to join with his mortal enemy Alexander Oge, brother to James M'Donnell. On Monday evening, June 2nd, when Shane thought to have concluded the friendship, the Scots cut and hewed him extremely. Turlough Lynagh is said to have proclaimed himself O'Neill. Recommends the Scots to be paid in money for their service, and dismissed out of the land. Agarde will make a full declaration of all things. His account to be passed next winter. To have Her Majesty's letters to the Lord Deputy to be allowed six pays. John Thomas to have Mr. Croft's office. Death of the Baron of Dunboyne.
- [June 10?] 9. Value of the archbishoprick of Dublin being 40*l.* 1*s.* 4½*d.* st., under Auditor Jenyson's hand.
- June 11. 10. The Queen to the Lord Deputy. Approval of his diligence [Westminster.] in the western journey, of the apprehension of the Earl of Desmond and the Baron of Dunboyne. The present occasion to be taken to grant the gentlemen of those parts their estates immediately from the Queen. The Earl of Desmond and the Lord Power, the Lord of Dunboyne, the Viscount Baltinglas, and Sir Maurice FitzThomas to be sent prisoners to London, but the matters wherewith they are charged, to be diligently inquired of first. O'Carroll to be made a Baron as his brother was, and to hold his lands in capite, "and in place of a Bonnaugh payable to us ones in seven yeres, as he alledgeth, to yeld unto us yerly two hundred marks." The great traffick of the Spaniards to the sea coasts of Munster and Connaught. Means to be sought to prevent it, and to bring it into our own people's hands. O'Shaughnessy's design of taking his lands to hold of the Queen in capite, and throwing off the exactions of the Earls of Thomond and Clanrycard approved of. O'Connor Sligo may come to England. The captains of the Irishry to be encouraged to surrender their estates, and receive grants of them by way of inheritance, and by this means to reduce the number of men of war kept by them. Care to be taken in drawing the grants that the estates be included within the jurisdiction of some county, and that such inconveniences as were found to arise from the grants to the Earls of Ormond and Desmond may be avoided. A fit person to be appointed President of Munster, and if that answer, a similar course to be followed for Connaught. The insufficiency of the Bench to be remedied, by the appointment of Judges from England with increased salaries. Dr. Weston, Dean of the Arches, to be Chancellor, and to hold the deanery of St. Patrick's in commendam. Two Prebendaries of St. Patrick's to serve as Masters of Requests. The proceedings against Shane O'Neill. Purpose to plant Ulster with obedient subjects. Satisfaction for Turlough Lynagh, Con O'Donnell, the Baron of Dungannon's son, and the Scots. Sydney to be the principal minister, and Captain Humfrey Gylberte to assist him in the plantation. The two offers for the fishing of the Ban. The auditor to send a statement of the accounts. The 1,000 men sent under Colonel Randolfe to be maintained. The gentlemen of the late Captains Scriven and Cornwall to be entertained. The Queen mislikes the querulous expressions in Sydney's letters, and blames the choice of Sentleger as of a very partial President for Munster, the slackness showed in arresting the Earl of Desmond and the arraignment of Piers Butler. Reproves his wilful expressions as to the office of President of the Council in Wales, and his excusing the traitorous act of the Earl of Desmond. Has received his of June 2, of the overthrow of Shane, and 613 persons found dead after his conflict with O'Donnell. Has determined to plant certain countries with English. Plats of Ulster to be sent. Sir George Stanley proposed as President of Munster. Sorrow for the Lord of Dunboyne's death. His son to be a ward of the Queen, and not granted to any person.

June 11. 11. Copy of the latter part of Queen Elizabeth's letter to the Lord Deputy, purporting to be taken from a draft by Sir W. Cecill.

June [11]. 12. Memorial for the affairs of Ireland.

June 11. 13. Sir W. Cecill to the Lord Deputy Sydney. Advises him to use patience and sincerity under the correction of Her Majesty's letter, and congratulates him on the fortunate success of his undertakings.

June 11. 14. Warrant from the Privy Council to the Receiver of the Court of Wards, to deliver 100%, to be defrayed towards the payment of those who have served under Geoffrey Vaghan.

June 12. 15. Robert, Earl of Leicester, to Secretary Sir William Cecill. Ralph Knight, Leicester's brother's man, has arrived with letters. Her Majesty accepts well of Sydney's services. Many good words passed towards him this day, for recompense of all the sorrowful storms he has suffered. Suit of Waterford to carry over corn.

June 12. 16. Mat. Kyng to same. To obtain his discharge for 100%.
Dublin. arrearages for rent of the tithes of St. Patrick's, for which he stands bound, in consideration of the 100% he paid for the abbey of Leix.

39. Petition of John Thomas, of Scampton, co. Lincoln, gent., to Queen Elizabeth, for the patent of the office of Remembrancer of the Exchequer in Ireland, with the bill thereof, for Her Majesty's signature.

July 1.

40. Lord Treasurer Winchester to Cecill. The 10,000*l.* for Ireland shall be fully paid by Wednesday. Mr. Throkmorton is paid. The matters of Ireland are likely to be brought to good order.

July 1.

41. Lord Treasurer Winchester to the Lord Deputy. The 10,000*l.* the Queen has agreed to, shall be paid to Ralph Knight and Thomas Finch. Recommends Sydney to discharge the 1,000 soldiers he wrote of, out of the present money. To make sure the north and west of Ulster and other localities by encouraging the inhabitants with justice. Mr. Agarde shall tell by mouth and by a secret bill how matters shall proceed; he has had great conference with the Queen and also with Winchester.

July 2.

42. Note by Mr. Vice-Chamberlain Knollys recommending the payment of 149*l.* 14*s.* 10½*d.* due to Mr. George Delves, on his giving security for repayment of part should it be proved to have been impressed to him.

VOL. XXI.

July 3. 43. Peter Back to Cecill, to have a patent for 28 years for the preparation of madder and dressing of skins in Ireland. Latin.
- July 4. 44. Memorandum as to the payment of the Privy Seal dated June the 15th, of 10,000*l.* for Ireland.
- July 5. 45. The Queen to M<sup>c</sup>Felim Bacagh. Acknowledges his loyalty in the advancement of the service against Shane O'Neill. Will be favourable to his suits. Prays him to follow the direction of the Lord Deputy Sydney. [Draft]. Similar draft, intended most probably for O'Donnell, on the back of the above.
- July 5. 46. The same to O'Shaughnessy. Allows right well of his service in staying Richard Creagh, the feigned Bishop, who broke out of the Tower of London. Will remember his services to his comfort in any reasonable cause to be brought before Her Majesty.
- [July 5.] 47. A note of Darby O'Shaughnessy's request to Her Majesty touching the surrender of his lands, his castles of Gortinchegory Armolevan, Newtoun, the Fedan, &c., and to have them regranted to him and his heirs male, under the Great Seal, with a court leet, a fair and a market.
- July 5. 48. A note of the chiefest matters contained in the Lord Deputy's letters which are to be considered and answered, viz. : In his letters to the Queen :—Turlough Lynagh to be Seneschal of Tyrone ; money to be sent for the cassing of 800 soldiers ; license for Sydney to repair to England. In his letters to the Privy Council :—to fortify O'Donnell's country, the Derry, Armagh, and Knockfergus ; to keep the Scots from entering again ; 6*s.* 8*d.* per diem to be continued to Con O'Donnell ; Protestants come from Flanders to be planted in Ireland ; death of Geoffrey Vaghan ; commission for letting of leases to be renewed ; suits of the Lord of Louth ; Wm. Bassenet ; Robt. Harpool ; Sparrowe. [Mem. This note is the more interesting, as the original letters which were brought by Francis Agarde, and probably dated 1567 June 17 (see Jenyson's of that date and Cecill's of July 6), are not in this collection.]
- July 6.
Richmond. 49. Queen Elizabeth to the Lord Deputy. Has had conference with Francis Agarde, sent with intelligence of the death of the troublesome rebel Shane O'Neill. Strangford, &c. Turlough Lynagh allowed to have the rule of all the people of his name in Tyrone. The country to be reduced little by little, as the Lord Deputy advises. T. Lynagh to be made a Baron, and have his habitation in the north part of Tyrone where his land lieth. The Baron of Dungannon to be planted in the south part of Tyrone. Armagh to be reserved as a garrison, with a president and council. Example to be made of some of the principal rebels. Terence Danyell, the Dean of Armagh allowed of, for Archbishop there. The submission of Meyler Magrath, Bishop of Down, accepted, and he and others are to be encouraged to take their bishopricks of the Queen. All captains of the Irishry in Ulster to be received to hold their lands of the Queen. Shane's son may be sent to a castle in Wales. Letters of thanks to O'Donnell, Maguire, and M'Felim Bacagh. The Lord Deputy to inquire how Con O'Donnell may be placed in Tirconnell. The Sacre and other vessels allowed to remain with the Lord Deputy in service. Letter of thanks to O'Shaughnessy for taking Dr. Richard Creagh, the supposed Primate, who had escaped out of the Tower of London. Inquisition to be made of possessions belonging to the Queen by her title to the earldom of Ulster. Mislikes that Art M'Baron should be made O'Hanlon. The people to be trained from the inordinate tyranny of the Irish captains, and to taste of the sweets of civil order. Sir Thomas Cusake's allowance is very large. Inquiry to be made respecting Stucley, who has purchased hides and skins taken from the Dutch by Edward Cook, a pirate of Southampton. 20,000*l.* ordered to be sent.

July 6. 50. Cecill to the L. Deputy. Is earnestly disposed to assist him in person in the accomplishment of the pacification of Ireland. As his coming is doubtful, thinks Sydney would better return at the end of the summer, to receive the Queen's resolutions.

July 7. 51. Lord Deputy to Sir N. Throckmorton. To procure license for Drogheda. him to repair to the Court. Also copy.

July 7. 52. Recognizance of Captain George Delves to repay the 119*l.* 19*s.* 5*d.* which he is charged to have received, if he shall not acquit himself thereof before Christmas. Also the draft.

[July 7.] 53. Bermyngham's objections against Capt. George Delves, with the answers to the said objections.

July 7. 54. Jaques Wingfeld to Sir Francis Knollys, to be means to Dublin Castle. Mr. Secretary for him to be Muster Master, and to have the fee of 4*s.* per diem which Matthew Kyng had, who is departed (dead).

[July 7.] 55. Memorandum of 1,668*l.* 14*s.* 5½*l.* st. due to Jaques Wingfeld above his entertainment as Master of the Ordnance.

July 7. 56. Mr. Vice-Chamberlain Knollys's opinion not to allow the name of O'Neill to Turlough Lynagh, but rather to offer his freehold to Alexander Oge and his new Scots, on condition that they expel him and take it themselves. Humfrey Gylberte to be president. The Ban, Strangford, and Lough Foyle to be planted.

VOL. XXI.

July 7. Drogheda. 57. Hugh M'Neill More [O'Neill] to the Earl of Ormond, to petition the Queen that he may have the government of Tyrone by whatever name may please Her Highness. He is most worthy, being related to Kildare and Ormond himself, and, like his father Neill More and grandfather Art M'Hugh, has always been true to the crown of England, as at the field of Knockthoo, &c.
- July 10. 58. Sir W. Cecill to the Lord Deputy. The Queen mislikes of Stucley having any office in Ireland, and specially Nicholas Heron's. Her Majesty desires to be more particularly advertised as to her title to Geashill, before it be confirmed to the Earl of Kildare.
- July 13. 59. Same to same. Her Majesty will have the charges of those offices which Nicholas Heron holdeth diminished. Sydney to write some answer for her satisfaction. Sydney to be good to one William Cecill. Secret contention with the French, who shall get the Prince of Scotland. They fish with hooks of gold and we but with speech. Sir Nicholas Throckmorton is in Scotland about that matter.

- [Aug. 12.] 75. Wm. Bermyngham's request. To know what money is defrayed from hence since the Lord Deputy's last going over. What munition and lead went over, since the beginning of Her Majesty's reign. To have the two books remaining with Auditor Dyxe.
- Aug. 12. 76. Note by William Bermyngham of money received of the Queen by him, and of that she hath received by his informations.
- Aug. 12. 77. The Queen to the Lord Deputy, in favour of Sir George Stanley, late Marshal of the army, for expedition in the trial of his causes. [Draft.]
- Aug. 12. 78. Copy of the above.
- Aug. 12? 79. Same to same. Refers the causes of Sir Henry Radecliff to the hearing of his Lordship and the Council of Ireland: that he be speedily answered of that which shall be found due to him, as he has suffered long delay.
- Aug. 12? 80. Same to same. To give order to the Treasurer at Wars, that at the time of the pay of such bands, as, for the checks thereof Bermyngham demands any allowance, he pay to the said Bermyngham the 6th part of all that is saved clearly to the Queen by his informations.
- Aug. 12. 81. John Thomas, Chief Remembrancer, to Cecill. The reasons Drogheda. that moved him to stay the making of the lease of Tintern to Anthony Colcloght. Some friends of Colcloght's having written against Thomas to Cecill, he beseeches Cecill to weigh his case indifferently, and refers his suit to the bearer, Mr. Croft. Incloses,
81. 1. The causes which moved Mr. Thomas to stay the passing of Colcloght's lease.
- Aug. 16. 82. Christopher Barnewall to Cecill. Recommends the suit of Gracedieu. the bearer Mr. Taaffe (probably for the office of Attorney-General). Taaffe's relationship to Mr. James Barnewall, late Attorney-General. Mr. Barnewall's son, and the writer Christopher Barnewall, to have the reversion of their farms.
- Aug. 17. 83. Cecill to the Lord Deputy Sydney. Commends the case of Guildford Park. Sir George Stanley, for which he sends his servant with the Queen's letters.
- Aug. 17. 84. Lord Deputy to Cecill. In behalf of the bearer Robert Drogheda. Harpoole, for reversion of the Castle of Carlow, and the lands thereto belonging, now in possession of the widow of Francis Randall who had the custody heretofore.
- Aug. 20 85. Cecill to the Lord Deputy. The Queen had precisely com- Guildford Manor. manded the Earl of Desmond's arraignment there (in Ireland). Cecill at length tempered the letter that the Earl be brought over as a person indicted. Thinks Murray will by persuasion be induced to take the government of Scotland.

VOL. XXI.

- 1567.
- Aug. 20. Guildford. 86. The Queen to the Lord Deputy. The Earl of Desmond to be indicted, and if it may be, arraigned and condemned ; but at all events to be indicted and brought over with Sydney in good surety.
- Aug. 22. Thomas Court near Dublin. 87. Sir W. Fytzwylliams to Cecill. His abode for nineteen days in Kilkenny and Tipperary with the Master of the Rolls, Mr. Serjeant, Mr. Solicitor, and Justice Edw. Fytzsymons to hear the causes between the Earls of Ormond and Desmond. Obstinacy of Desmond. Sir John of Desmond would not make the proclamation, nor come, nor answer. Earl of Ormond's towns, corn, and stuff spoiled ; his men, women and children murdered. Receipt of the 18,000*l*. Lord Deputy. Jenyson with reckonings embarks for the Court. Lord Deputy has written in favour of the passing of the writer's account. Prays he may not again have the justiceship which heretofore has cost him above 2,000*l*. Rejoicing at coin and livery being put down. John Thomas's good service in staying the leases of Sir Edmund Butler and Mr. Colcloght. Bearer Mr. Croft will not return to Ireland.
- [Aug. 22.] 88. Note of Tintern spiritual and temporal.
- Aug. 22. Dublin. 89. Doctor Robert Weston, Lord Chancellor of Ireland, to Cecill. Smallness of his fee and impoverishment of the deanery of St. Patricks. Prays that the Queen will pardon him the 100 marks she lent,—the first fruits of the deanery and the yearly 20th part. The Queen's letters for him to have the Chancellorship duly accomplished. The Lord Deputy's journey into the North. His sore leg, stone and colick. The ex-chancellor Doctor Curwen took ship, Aug. 11.
- Aug. 24. Dublin. 90. Adam Loftus, Archbishop of Dublin, to Cecill, for favour to the bearer Mr. Croft. Dr. Weston arrived about the 8th, who is now invested in the deanery of St. Patricks, and Loftus in the see of Dublin, for which he returns thanks.
- Aug. 31. 91. A brief of all such sums of money as remain due to the Lord Deputy, chief officers and others, collected out of one book of their particular reckonings made from 1560 May 24 to 1567 Sept. 1, by Thomas Jenyson, amounting to 31,606*l*. 2*s*. 4*d*., Irish.

94. I. A friend to Sir W. Fytzwylliams. Sends the Lord Deputy's letter. He intends to go for England about the last of September. The controversy between O'Donnell and Con is ended. Turlough Lynagh's submission. M'Mahon, Magennis, Maguire, O'Hanlon, Col M'Brian, the young Baron, and Hugh M'Neill More, Captain of the Fews, excepted from his rule. Hugh M'Felim Bacagh, and Con M'Neill Oge committed to the castle of Knockfergus, and there remain prisoners, for that Hugh M'Felim did convey over unto the Scots the dear son of Alexander Oge M'Donnell.

Sept. 13, Drogheda.

Sept. 16.
Bisham.

95. Cecill to Sir H. Sydney. His coming over to England expected. Jenyson. Bruit that the Earl of Desmond was set at liberty. The books concerning cess are sent by means of Bermyngham.

Sept. 25.
Carrickfergus.

96. Auditor Jenyson to Cecill. Was ready to depart from Carrickfergus with the reckonings, when the treasure arrived, but remained for the cashing of the soldiers, there being none perfect therein but himself. Robert Lyth has arrived and drawn two plats of the town.

Sept. 30.

97. A brief note of such money as remained due to the garrisons for victualling and building, the last of September, above such monies as have been defrayed in England towards the discharge thereof, since the Lord Deputy's coming.

98. Declaration of all such sums of money as have been received and defrayed from 15 March 1565/6 to 31 Aug. 1567, viz. received 106,563*l.* 6*s.* 0½*d.* Irish; defrayed 108,976*l.* 2*s.* 8¾*d.* Irish. The excess of payments grows by means of money the Lord Deputy borrowed upon the discharge in September last.

Sept.

99. Memorandum, by Sir W. Cecill, of bills to be passed in the Irish Parliament.

- Oct. 7. Dublin. 4. Exemplification of the patent of 1 Oct. 1542, creating Con O'Neill Earl of Tyrone, and his son Matthew to be Baron of Dungannon, with succession to the heirs male of the said Matthew. On the death of Con, Matthew to be Earl of Tyrone, and Matthew's heir to be Dungannon, and so on in succession. Granted on the petition of Hugh O'Neill. Latin.
- Oct. 8. Dublin. 5. Dr. Robert Weston, the Chancellor, to the Queen. His unworthiness to be one of the Lords Justices, wanting, as he does, the courage and skill in martial affairs of Sir H. Sydney. His readiness with all care, diligence, and travail to do his duty therein.
- Oct. 8. Dublin. 6. Sir W. Fytzwylliams to Cecill. Recommends the suits of the bearer Mr. George Harvey, now discharged from his horse-band. Testimony to his worth and valiant behaviour in the field.
- Oct. 9. Dublin. 7. Chancellor Weston, one of the Lord's Justices, to same. Sydney's praise. Begg he may soon be sent back. Rebellious spirit of the people. Their fear of Sydney. Weston promises care and diligence in the service.
- Oct. 12. Ballyloughrea in Clanricard. 8. R. Earl of Clanricard to same, for favour to Mark Lynche, merchant of Galway, who intends to build a water-mill and a bake-house. Furtherance of his suit for a fee farm of the same.
- Oct. 16. Dublin. 9. Mayor and Citizens of Dublin to the Queen. Have received Her Majesty's letters of thanks for their service against the rebels. Send two Aldermen with their reasonable suits.
- Oct. 16. Dublin. 10. Same to Cecill. To further and counsel the two Aldermen sent with their petitions to the Queen.
- Oct. 22. Dublin. 11. Con O'Donnell, the son of Calough O'Donnell, to the Queen. Complains that he was detained three years in prison under Shane O'Neill, that Hugh M'Manus O'Donnell, a relation of the said traitor, was made O'Donnell. O'Donnell has now broken the peace made by the Lord Deputy, and ought to be punished and Con restored to his just rights. Certain gold and silver vessels to be sought. Latin.
- Oct. 22. Dublin. 12. R. Earl of Clanricard to same. He had repaired to Dublin on the 10th to accompany the Lord Deputy. His Lordship had shipped the night before. Clanricard obliged to remain to defend his country, which O'Donnell has sworn he will burn. Sends the bearer, Mr. Mark Barnewall, to follow his suits to Her Majesty.
- Oct. 27. Dublin. 13. Hugh Bradie, Bishop of Meath, to Cecill. To suspend his belief of the sinister reports of this spiteful generation. To further his suit. His charges in hospitality, a preacher and a free-school. Beggary of his clergy. Commends for the primacy the Dean of Christchurch, Chaplain to the Earl of Sussex. The Lord Chancellor.

Sir Nicholas Bagenall the Marshal. Francis Cosbie, Seneschal of the Queen's County. Henry Colley, Seneschal of King's County. Francis Agarde, the Seneschal. Coin and livery abolished. Idle men cut off. Tillage restored, Plenty of corn and other victual. The Lord Deputy to be sent again soon. The Justices will not fail of their best endeavours. Inclose, 16. I. O'Donnell to the Lord Deputy. Has since his Lordship's orders received the Castle of Donegal from Con. Restitution of horses, armour, and servants. Dispute as to Beleck, Castle Finn, the Lifford, &c. Desires the indentures to be sent him. Has punished M'Dermod and O'Dowd. Latin. Ex Belascum, Oct. 7.
16. II. Lords Justices to O'Donnell. Have received his letters to the Lord Deputy, who has gone to England. He should have sought remedy of them for his rights, before he waged war on Her Majesty's subjects. Summon him to come before them for the settlement of his dispute within twenty days; and to suffer the servants, followers, and husbandmen of Con O'Donnell to depart at All Saints. Latin. Dublin, Oct. 22, 1567.
- Oct. 30. 17. Lord Justice Weston to Cecill. Piers Grace's protection is out. He has gathered followers, and it is feared will do hurt. Two or three learned lawyers to be sent as moderators in the Courts. His suits for the 100 marks and an increase of living.
St. Sepulchres, Dublin.
- Oct. 30. 18. Same to the Lord Deputy. Glad to hear of Sydney's good health. Turlough Lynagh pretendeth title to the manors of Lifford and Finn.
- Oct. 31. 19. Lord Justice Fytzwylliams to Cecill, for favour to Clanrycard's suits. O'Donnell has burned M'Dermod's country, and sworn by the chief idol of his country to do the like in Clanrycard by Christmas. Mistrust of the O'Mores called the Clan Kedaghs in Leix, for whom there is no pledge. Recommends the suit of the bearer, Mr. Mark Barnewall, for certain lands called Ballinekelle, Ballonan, and Clonough on which he intends to build a castle.
Dublin.
- Nov. 3. 20. The Queen to the Lord Chancellor and Sir W. Fytzwylliams, Justices of Ireland, for the sending over of the Earl of Desmond and his brother Sir John of Desmond.

VOL. XXII.

1567.
Nov. 7. Thomas Court near Dublin. 21. Lord Justice Fytzwylliams to Cecill. The bearer Robert Lyth returns, not being able to make the surveys in the North this winter weather. 1,200 Scots in Cantyre ready to come over. Piers Grace and his cousin to have protections. Hurts in Leix. Earl of Desmond. The account. In P. S. dated Nov. 12. Desmond has been very sick, but now recovered. Report of a stir in the North. Fardel [of money] received.
- Nov. 12. Dublin. 22. Mr. John Chaloner to same. Commends the bearer, Robert Lyth, who returns unsped in the task of making the surveys in the North, on account of the foul weather.
- Nov. 22. Dublin. 23. Lord Justice Fytzwylliams to same. Doubt of Sir John of Desmond's apprehension. Proceedings in that business. Commissioners sent to the north borders. Great cause to mislike of Turlough Lynagh, who still writes himself O'Neill. 30*l.* sterling delivered to Thomas Scott for bringing over the Earl of Desmond. Jenyson has charged on Fytzwylliams 3,000*l.* or 4,000*l.* more than he ought.
- Nov. 23. Dublin. 24. Lords Justices to same as to a protection till Michaelmas next, desired for Piers Grace, a famous and wicked rebel, and murderer of magistrates and good men. Detain the Earl of Desmond. O'Donnell's letter.
- Nov. 23. Dublin. 25. Lords Justices to the Queen. Detain the Earl of Desmond in order to apprehend his brother. Send Commissioners into Connaught and Munster. Stealths and murders in Connaught, Munster and Leinster. Commissioners appointed to sit at Dundalk the 25th of November to hear the complaints of the North. Inclose,
25. I. Part of the letter from Captains Pers and Malbie to the Lords Justices. Capt. Thornton has learnt that Sorley Boy and Alexander Oge M'Donnell be ready with 1,200 Scots to come over. Treachery of "Owen M'Gill Aspick, Captain of our Scots." He and his 340 Scots discharged. A letter of thanks for their fidelity to be sent to Alexander Oge M'Alester Charrie of the Glynnys, and his brother Randal Oge. Nov. 3, Carrickfergus.
25. II. O'Donnell to the Lords Justices. Declares that he had fulfilled the orders taken between him and Con O'Donnell by the Lord Deputy and Council. Desires their summons to him may be deferred till the return of the Lord Deputy Sydney and the Earl of Kildare. The peace with O'Neill. Confesses to have gone against "O'Concawair" (O'Connor Sligo) and M'Dermod. Desires that his men may go with letters to the Queen. Latin. Nov. 14, Donegal.
25. III. Cuconnaught Maguire to the Lords Justices. Certifies that O'Donnell and O'Neill have made peace together the 29th of Oct. O'Neill, i.e. Turlough Lynagh, is so proud that he will abide no manner of order taken by Sydney, but has sent the writer word to surrender as his servant. Sufferings of Maguire and his brother Shane. The rebels and traitors have grown to great riches, and mock them. Turlough Lynagh will cost the Queen double what Shane did. Nov. 2, "Ineshstelyn."

VOL. XXII.

25. IV. O'Neill to the Lords Justices He is ashamed at not spoiling the son of the Baron of Dungannon for having complained against him. Desires Commissioners may be sent to Dundalk the 25th November to settle that matter. Latin.

Nov. 13, Benborb.

25. V. Terence Danyell, Dean of Armagh, to the Lords Justices. The proceedings of Turlough Lynagh, whom he calls O'Neill. He is offended with the Baron's son, M'Mahon, Neill More's sons, and many others, and would have revenged them with his own hand, but was persuaded to appoint the 25th Nov. for the Commissioners named by the Lord Deputy to repair to Dundalk, to hear his matters. He has hired 140 Scots contrary to his oath. He now follows the track of certain malefactors for killing and spoiling certain of his men.

Nov. 15, Benborbe.

Nov. 24. 26. Lord Justice Fytzwylliams to Cecill, News of the landing of Sorley Boy with 700 or 800. T. Lynagh and O'Donnell have sent into Scotland. Weakness of the bands in the North.

Nov. 26. 27. Con O'Donaill to the Lords Justices. Complains that "Casleain na fyne" O'Donnell has given up his land called Cinel Moayn to Turlough Castle Finn. Lynagh; that he will not make restitution. Desires to be exalted to his due honours. Desires them to write to Mac Sweeny, O'Boyle, O'Dogherty, and Maguire to aid him. Desires to be absolved from obedience to O'Donnell. Munition. Latin.

Nov. 27, 28. Lords Justices and Council to the Queen. Sorley Boy.
Dublin Castle. Turlough Lynagh and O'Donnell send to Scotland for wives. They are like to be worse than the late traitorous Shane. Some of Flude's [Lloyd's] band and Capt. Horsey with his 100 sent to the North. Want of money. Inclose, 28. I. Captains Pers and Malbie to the Lords Justices. Sorley Boy arrived last night in the Glynnys with 600 or 700 Scots. Querulous complaint as to their Lordships' letter, to use circumspection towards the lately reconciled subjects. Rowland White's doings. Capt. Chestone is not come. They are ready to leap on horse towards the Scots.

Nov. 18, Carrickfergus.

28. II. Captains Pers and Malbie to the Lord Deputy Sydney. Sir Brian M'Felim would provide no cess beeves. They have taken up beeves, in the Dufferin, of Turlough Oge M'Con Moyle by force. Alester Oge and his brother, Brian Carragh, Rory Oge M'Quillin, and old M'Quillin slack as to cess. Lord Savage's followers are drawn from him into Lecale. Magennis Commission of martial law. Bishop of Dromore. Francis Appleyard. No man can agree with Robert Adams. Scots in Cantyre. Captain Thornton. Soldiers sick of the Irish ague, and delirious. Captain Lloyd. Clothes.

29. Lord Justice Fytzwylliams to Cecill. Scots landed. Turlough Lynagh and O'Donnell send to Scotland for wives. Turlough Lynagh like to be a much more dangerous rebel than was Shane, who never liked the Scots, as by his deeds to them, and their rewards to him, appeared. Had Fytzwylliams money to encourage the poor soldier this cold winter, the Scots should not have been 15 days in Ireland. John of Desmond.

Nov. 28.
Drogheda.

30. Mayor, Sheriffs, &c., of Drogheda to Cecill, to be a furtherer of their suits, sent by two of their town to the Queen.

[Nov. 28.]
Drogheda.

31. Brief of the suits of Drogheda to the Queen. Pray that, towards the repair of their haven, bridge, key, walls, and south gate, they may have the Customs of their town free for 10 years, and after at a rent. Also the abatement or allowance of the rents of the Hospitals of St. Mary de Urso and St. Lawrence, and the houses of the White Friars and Augustine Friars, for the maintenance of a free school.

Nov. 30.
Dublin.

32. Lords Justices and Council to the Queen. Recommend the suits of Drogheda. Inclosing,

32. i. Supplication of Drogheda to the Lords Justices for their favourable letter to the Queen. Nov. 20.

32. ii. Certificate by John Goddall, Deputy Auditor, to the Lords Justices, as to the custom of Drogheda to Michaelmas, 1566, gathered from the Rolls of the Deputy-Collector of the said custom.

Nov.

33. Book of the charges of the garrison as it was 1567, June 12. Also the charges of the garrison as established in September by the Lord Deputy, to remain during the winter. The saving effected by the cassing of certain bands in August and September. With an estimate of the charges extant this November.

Nov.
Hampton Court.

34. Memorial by Cecill, as to the choice of captains and military men to have from 1,000 to 4,000 acres allotted to them in Ireland. And inducements to be held out for agriculture.

Dec. 5.
Dublin.

35. Adam Loftus, Archbishop of Dublin, to Cecill. Recommends Mr. Cartwright, B.D., Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, to be appointed to the vacant see of Armagh.

Dec. 10.
Dublin.

36. Lords Justices and Council to the Queen. Proceedings of the Commissioners in the North. Turlough Lynagh. The Queen to write to O'Reilly, Maguire, M'Mahon, and Art M'Baron to animate them in her service. Inclose, 1567.

VOL. XXII.

36. I. Commissioners T. Lord Louth, James Dowdall, and William Bathe appointed to hear the causes of the north borders, to the Lords Justices. Edmond O'Quin, one of Turlough Lynagh O'Neill's Judges, sent to them with his complaints. Turlough's absence. His peace with O'Donnell. The same Turlough has sent to Scotland Ferdoragh M'Ananney and Ferrall M'Evy, to require the marriage of the late James M'Donnell's wife, or else his daughter. Has sent his son, Alexander Galte O'Neill, a Scot born, to treat with Sorley Boy. He has tempted M'Mahon with large offers. Nov. 29, Dundalk.

36. II. Commissioners Louth and Dowdall to the Lords Justices. M'Donnell's promise of fidelity. M'Mahon, Neill More's sons, and Felim Roe's sons to appear Dec. 2. The spoils by Con Boy, Henry M'Shane's son. Turlough Braselagh. Art, the Baron's son, worthy of thanks. Nov. 30.

36. III. Dean of Armagh to the Commissioners at Dundalk. To be excused not being with them on account of an ache in his left shoulder. Turlough Lynagh's complaints. Nov. 25, Armagh.

36. IV. Dean of Armagh to the Commissioners. Turlough Lynagh has promised to give over his extortion, and has signed the liberty for the Church for one year. He has promised to gather a host, and go to resist the Scots. Nov. 27, Armagh.

36. V. Sir N. Bagenall to the Lords Justices and Council. Collo M'Brian robs and pilfers. His pledge to be changed. Turlough Lynagh has promised to go against the Scots. He is a great suitor to marry Bagenall's wife's sister. Offers that she shall have 20 Englishmen and six gentlewomen to wait on her. Bagenall would rather see her burned. He has written to Gillaspick Oge's sons to go against the Scots. Dec. 2, Carlingford.

36. VI. Captains Pers and Malbie to the Lords Justices and Council. Intend, in company with Captain Cheston and certain Irish gentlemen, to go against the Scots on the 1st of December. The sickness of the soldiers comes on suddenly. They desire a more ample commission of martial law. Nov. 21, Carrickfergus.

36. VII. Lords Justices and Council to Turlough Lynagh. Strictly require his personal appearance at Dundalk, before the Commissioners, the 30th December, to show his complaints against the sons of the Baron, O'Reilly, Maguire, and M'Mahon, and to bring with him Con Boy, to answer M'Mahon's complaint. Latin. Dec. 4, Dublin.

36. VIII. Turlough Lynagh to the Lords Justices and Council. Has received their letters, touching the complaints of his adversaries. He assures them that if they listen to their complaints, his service will never be agreeable in their sight. He wrote to the Earl of Argyle, to attack the Scots of Clan Donnell, but Rory Oge M'Quillin spoiled his messengers, of which he complains. He will join the English against Sorley Boy M'Donnell and his Scots, now in Claneboy. Latin. Nov. 24, Armagh.

VOL. XXII.

Dec. 10. 37. The Queen to the Lords Justices. Receipt of their letters of Nov. 27th. The Scots to be speedily expelled. Pers' and Malbie's cessing justified by the Lord Deputy. If Turlough Lynagh be indeed unfaithful, Hugh O'Neill the young Baron, who is now here, may be sent to Ireland, and maintained against him; and, in like manner, Con to be assisted against O'Donnell. Money. Captain Cheston's band to be distributed to fill up the decayed bands at Knockfergus.
- Dec. 12. 38. Lord Justice Fytzwylliams to Cecill. Proceedings as to John Thomas Court. of Desmond. Weakness of Mr. Chaloner's dealings. Pers and Malbie, fearing treachery, have not gone against the Scots. His account. Arrival of Enowse. Sir John of Desmond, having at last come to see his brother, is now sent to England.
- Dec. 12. 39. Lords Justices to the Queen. Have not succeeded in arresting Dublin. John of Desmond. They now send away the Earl of Desmond, according to Her Majesty's command.
- Dec. 12. 40. Same to same. Of the coming of Sir John of Desmond and Dublin. his despatch to England. Munster. Pray that the Lord Deputy and the Earl of Kildare may be sent over for the reformation of the north.
- Dec. 13. 41. Same to Cecill. Send over the Earl of Desmond and Sir Dublin. John of Desmond by the bearer, Thomas Scotte.
- Dec. 13. 42. Hugh Bradie, Bishop of Meath, to same. Begs he will St. Patrick's. further his suit to the Queen concerning his debt. Praise of the Chancellor. He also in a separate letter recommends the suits of Drogheda.
- Dec. 13. 43. Terrensius O'Neill vestra venia Capitaneus de Tir-Eogain Benborb. [i. e. T. Lynagh] to the Queen. He does not think it enough to have offered his services to the Lord Deputy without, by the present letters, dedicating himself entirely to Her Majesty's service. His suits left to the declaration of his servant, Bernard Smith. Latin.
- Dec. 13. 44. Dominus O'Neill [i. e. Turlough Lynagh] to the Lord Deputy. Benborb. The report that he had been created an Earl and was made Deputy for life has greatly rejoiced him (Turlough Lynagh). Desires to have the rule of the Lords Maguire, M'Mahon, O'Hanlon, and Magennis, of the lands of O'Nielland, &c., for which he will pay 100*l.* Irish as tribute every year. Desires to be allowed the pay of certain horse; also to have the island in "Loch Each" [Lough Neagh], in which the said Deputy left his men, and likewise the priory of the cathedral church of Down for his chaplain Edmund O'Coine [O'Quin?]. Latin.
- Dec. 14. 45. Thomas Scotte to Cecill. Arrived at Graycoite, near Beau- Beaumaris. maris, with the Earl of Desmond and his brother Sir John. The Earl very sick. Must borrow money for their journey, as they have none.

VOL. XXII.

- Dec. 21.
Lichfield. 47. Earl of Desmond to Cecill. Is constrained to stay one day at Lichfield, Sir John of Desmond being sick. Desires to be certified as to Her Majesty's pleasure for their residence in London or elsewhere.
- Dec. 22. 48. A memorial by Cecill, containing the general outline of the government to be settled in Ireland, the building of forts, establishing councils, and planting Ulster.
- Dec. 22. 49. Fair copy of the above, with additional notes. Richard Creagh to be examined of his being with Shane O'Neill.
- Dec. 22.
Tower. 50. Examination of Richard Creagh, the titular Archbishop of Armagh. A friar, Meyler Magrath the Bishop of Down, accompanied Richard Creagh on a visit to Shane O'Neill, and dined with Shane and Turlough Lynagh on an island called Inishdavell. Creagh preached at Armagh, "afor Shan and Tyrlogh Lennogh, and Hugh O'Donnell." Creagh refused to absolve Shane O'Neill for hanging a priest in O'Donnell's country. Shane told Creagh that he should be well used, and have his church as honourably as ever any Archbishop had. Shane trusted to have favour of John of Desmond.

Stanley, Sir Henry Radecliff and Sir Nicholas Heron.

1568.
[Jan. 8.] 8. Memorandum of interrogatories to question the two O'Conors, Richard Creagh the titular Archbishop of Armagh, Andrew Skiddy, and others.
- Jan. 10. 9. List of the names of those persons who presently serve in Ireland under the charge of Thomas Might, the surveyor of the victual, with their entertainment.
- Jan. 12. 10. Lords Justices to the Queen. Sorley Boy's departure. Mistrust of the Scots returning in greater numbers. Commissioners at Dublin. Dundalk obliged to defer their day. No news from the Commissioners in Munster. Treasure desired. Inclose,
10. I. Captains Pers and Malbie to the Lords Justices. Captain Horsey's band not needed. Sorley Boy has entreated to depart hence with favour. Turlough Lynagh has received 160 of the Scots into his service. Had they joined with him to attack them, they would probably have been betrayed. Captain Pers having the Lord Deputy's passport, intends to go over to England. Herrings. Alexander Oge M'Alester Charrie. Hugh M'Murtough. Gilla Duffe of Kilmore has desired protection and has come in to Sir Brian M'Felim. A keeper of the pledges hanged. Oats. Fardorogh M'Ananney. Jan. 2, Carrickfergus.
10. II. Captain Malbie to the same. Stay of their journey against the Scots. Sorley Boy sent to them (Pers and Malbie) for their friendship towards Her Majesty for Monery and Cary, and the Glynnns, and has promised to depart. Alexander Oge M'Alester Charrie and Rory Oge M'Quillin assisted the Scots. The brigandine recovered. The master brewer dead. Captain Horsey's band not needed. 1567, Dec. 19, Carrickfergus.
10. III. "Somairle buy M'Conaile" to [Captains Pers and Malbie]. Offers to be at peace till May day, if they will recommend his business to the Queen, and on that condition adds his form of peace signed by himself, and Alexander Oig M'Allaster Carray, the hands of both being led on the pen. 1567, Dec. ? 16, Glenarm?
10. IV. Peace granted by Her Majesty's Commissioners Pers and Malbie to Sorley Boy M'Donnell and Alister Oge M'Alister Charrie till May 1st, at their suit and submission. 1567, Dec. 20, Carrickfergus.
10. V. "Soirle Mak Conell" to Captains Pers and Malbie; has received their writing. If their business be satisfactorily concluded he will not fail to reward them. The Scots will return home the first fair day after the arrival of their gallies. 1567 [Dec. 23]. Tuesday, the Glynnns.
- Jan. 17. 11. Lord Justice Fytzwylliams to Cecil. Turlough Lynagh has Dublin. hired a certain number more of Sorley Boy's Scots, and Sorley was going to fetch a greater number over. Captains Pers and Malbie concluded the peace without the privity of the Lords Justices. Horsey's and Gylberte's bands shall be sent to them. Turlough Lynagh's indenture with the Lord Deputy. Incloses,

VOL. XXIII.

11. I. Sir N. Bagenall to the Lords Justices. Turlough Lynagh has agreed with the Scots. He has sent into Scotland for more Scots and a wife. The Donnellaughs will leave Turlough at the coming of the Scots. Rory M'Quillin is agreed with the Scots; he has married Turlough's daughter. Brian Carragh M'Cormac is joined with the Scots. Con Boy M'Henry M'Shane willing to serve the Queen, and will give satisfaction to M'Mahon. M'Neill More's sons about to follow stealths. Jan. 3, Dundalk.

11. II. Commissioners Bagenall, Louth, &c., to the Lords Justices. Edmund O'Coyn has exhibited certain complaints for his master Turlough Lynagh. Great disquietness like to happen between Turlough Brasselagh and Art M'Baron for O'Neilland. The Dean of Armagh is despatched to appease them and Magennis. Con Boy O'Neill. Turlough Lynagh with all his force and power is within three miles of Armagh. Con O'Donnell has appointed to meet the said Turlough. Jan. 3, Dundalk.

11. III. Same to Turlough Lynagh. Wonder at his not appearing. Summon him for the 18th Feb., and to bring with him Alice, daughter of the late O'Neill, and Con Boy O'Neill. His controversies with O'Reilly and Art M'Baron shall be ordered at his first coming. Latin. Jan. 3, Dundalk.

11. IV. Complaint of Turlough Brasselagh O'Neill exhibited to the Commissioners at Dundalk. He desires that O'Neilland may be divided between him and the sons of the Baron. He will not leave that land in anybody's hands without this satisfaction but will trouble the country till his death. Lat. [Jan.] 2, Caslein Cork.

Jan. 20. Westminster. 12. Indenture between the Queen and Sir Donald O'Conor alias O'Conor Sligo, with warrant to the Lord Deputy Sydney or other Chief Governor for making out his letters patent. Latin.

Jan. 22. Dublin. 13. Lord Justice Fytzwylliams to the Queen. His trouble at Her Majesty's concept of him in her letter of Dec. 24. Not guilty of the Scots' arrival, nor that they were not fought. Has, away from his native country, eight years and more, truly and faithfully served her, without bribery, robbery, or friendly gifts.

Jan. 22. Dublin. 14. *The same to the Privy Council. Has received the 2,000*l*. The 100*l* for Captain Pers not delivered at Chester. Sorrow at the Queen's heavy writing. Turlough Lynagh daily bindeth in friendship with the Scots. The gentry of Munster are shy of coming in to the Commissioners.*

Jan. 22. Dublin. 15. The same to Cecill. To be a mean that Her Majesty may read his letter. Thanks him for obtaining the postscript to Her Majesty's sharp letter. The peace with the Scots must be observed. They being so friended by Turlough Lynagh, it will be a costly work to expel them forcibly. Sydney or Knollys to be sent. Knows no cause why the Lord Deputy should not speak favourably for him. Has been as sorry for the unkindness between him and Sussex, as a poor friend can be. Adam Loftus, the Archbishop of Dublin, vindicated. Skiddy can certify as to Sir Thomas Cusake's causes. Thanks to Lady Cecill for her friendly and natural care of him. Returns Cecill's letter. Neill M'Leese has come in to Cosbie. Deficiency of Gylberte's band. Fytzwylliams will take them and others, to the number of fifty or sixty with him to Knockfergus. Evil state of the North. Incloses, 15. I. The note of such Scots as were in Ulster before the last coming of Sorley Boy. Also a note of Capt. Gylberte's band, mustered at Mullingar 16 Dec. 1567.—[Mem.—This inclosure has a date 1567/8 Jan. 27, whilst the letter is dated 22, but the undated postscript which mentions the inclosure speaks of the delay occasioned by bad weather.]

Jan. 23.
Dublin.

16. Lords Justices and Council to the Queen. Scots. The North. They wish the young Baron of Dungannon authorized by patent to be established, but that appears too difficult. Should O'Donnell be unfaithful, Con O'Donnell to be maintained against him. The peace concluded with the Scots proceeded of some good meaning. Fytzwylliams intends to go to Knockfergus. Munster is in disorder. The collection of matters found against the Earl of Desmond and his brother delivered to Patrick Scurlock in December. Inclosure,

16. I. Commissioners in Munster to the Lords Justices. Wood kerne under Gerot Bracke, one of the Earl of Desmond's near kinsmen, intercept their letters. Certain kerne lay in ambush for the Commissioners, but Lord Barrymore and John Fytz Edmund, Dean of Cloyne, met them, and led them to Barry's Court. Wet journey. Letters. None of the chieftains will come to them, unless the Countess of Desmond come. M'Sweeny is at large. Apsley is drowned, and Pickering taken with their ships and all their furniture.

Jan. 14, Cork.

16. II. Eleanor Countess of Desmond to the Commissioners in Munster. The country is in such disorder that few can trust a father, a son, or a brother. She can scarcely abide two days in one place, but, trudging by day and partly by night, endeavours to appease their lewd attempts. The inhabitants have been so bruised that she cannot take up the duties for her husband's present need.

Jan. 11, Kilmallock.

16. III. Hugh Lacy or Lees, Bishop of Limerick, to the Commissioners in Munster. Has received their letters declaring that he was joined with them in commission. Cannot meet them at Youghal for lack of money.

Jan. 11, Kilmallock.

16. IV. Commissioners in Munster to the Countess of Desmond. Marvel that she has not appointed a meeting. Desire a determined answer as to a meeting.

VOL. XXIII.

16. v. Commissioners in Munster to Hugh Lacy, Bishop of Limerick. Require him to repair to them speedily, and to bring the Countess of Desmond, if that may be. The Commissioners will bear the charges. Jan. 14, Cork.

Jan. 25. 17. The Queen to the Lords Justices. Sir Donald O'Connor Sligo has surrendered all his possessions. The Queen has granted to him a patent of his inheritance under the Seal of England. Recommends his complaints for his castles Bundrowes, Ballintogher (baile intochair), and Ard na Eriagh detained by O'Donnell, O'Rourk, and Oliver Burke's sons. Spoils. The friary of Sligo to be preserved, the friars being converted to secular priests. He is to have a true copy of this letter exemplified under the Irish seal.

Jan. 25. 18. Adam Loftus, Archbishop of Dublin, to Cecill. Vindicates Dublin. himself against the charge of innovation. Manner of the ministration of a communion in St. Patrick's about Easter last. The Lady Sydney, Mr. Agarde, and four hundred others, communicants on that occasion.

19. Petition of Donough O'Connor Sligo to the Privy Council. Has continued a petitioner these seven years to be restored to the possession of his inheritance, viz., Sligo and Ballinote.

Jan. 26. 20. Lords Justices to the Queen. The North. The supply of Dublin. victual will not last the appointed time. Inclose,

20 i. Sir N. Bagenall to the Lord Justices. The Dean of Armagh has made an agreement between Art M'Baron, Turlough Brasselagh, and Magennis. Prays that he may be considered for his travail and charges. Sorley Boy M'Donnell has gone into Scotland, and left his Scots, 120 with Brian Carragh M'Cormac M'Donnell, and the rest with Rory M'Quillin and others; all at the command of Turlough Lynagh. Melaghlin O'Neill is going to Scotland. Sorley took away 600 beeves. Con Boy's message. Con Boy is with Turlough Brasselagh, where Turlough Lynagh cannot fetch him. Art M'Baron. Hugh M'Neill More. Felim Roe's sons. O'Hanlon. Jan. 22, Carlingford.

20. II. Terence Danyell, Dean of Armagh, to the same. His dealings in the North. Turlough Lynagh at Benborb received Con O'Donnell, M'Mahon and Con Boy M'Henry M'Shane O'Neill. Turlough Lynagh continued three nights at Armagh, and destroyed much. Order taken between Magennis and Arthur Magennis, the Bishop of Dromore, who were at variance. 130 of the Campbells, the Earl of Argyle's kinsmen, have come to Turlough Lynagh. Fedorough M'Ananney has returned out of Scotland. The Dean intends to resort to the English Pale. Rory Oge M'Quillin's marriage with Turlough Lynagh's daughter. Sorley Boy has gone to the Raghlin island. He has left people manuring the land.

Jan. 22, Carlingford.

1568.
Jan. 26. 21. Lords Justices to the Privy Council. Recommend the suits of Sir Christopher Barnewall for a further interest in certain farms.
Dublin.
- Jan. 26. 22. Lords Justices to Cecill. They are much comforted that the Queen has made choice of so honourable, wise, and worthy councillors to have the consideration of the Irish Affairs. They are sorry for the Lord Deputy Sydney's torments with the stone, and sickness. Piers Grace. The wardship of Andrew Wyse's daughter and custodiam of her lands.
Dublin.
- Jan. 26. 23. Bull of Pius V. for deprivation of Patrick M'Mahon [Patricius St. Peter's, Rome. Magmathgamna], Bishop of Ardagh [Arcdachadensis], for simony, non-residence, leaving his cathedral in ruins, &c. Latin.
- Jan. 29. 24. Lords Justices to the Queen. Sorley Boy M'Donnell is in the Raghlins, which is not distant above five miles from the Glynn. Captain Pers, now probably in England, can at length declare his knowledge. David Hetherington has not yet returned from Knockfergus. Inclose,
Dublin.
24. i. Captains Pers and Malbie to the Lords Justices. Sorley Boy, with his company, is in the Raghlins. The Lord Deputy has sent for Pers. Pers intends to take his journey presently.
Jan. 18, Carrickfergus.
- Jan. 29. 25. Lord Justice Fytzwylliams to Cecill. The advertisement from Pers and Malbie of Sorley Boy's departure with his Scots, and Pers's departure, is very strange. Turlough Lynagh confesses the entertainment of 120 of them, and the Dean of Armagh mentions more as left in Ireland.
Thomas Court, by Dublin.
- Jan. 26. Device for the plantation of Ireland with Englishmen. Every two parishes to find a man, and 9*l.* 2*s.* for his entertainment. Motions to induce noblemen and gentlemen of knowledge to procure the parishes to be contributory. Motives to induce the people to go.

32. Lord Justice to the Queen. Return of D. Hetherington from the north. Turlough Lynagh's practice with the Scots. Sorley Boy's dissimulation. Gylberte and Horsey's bands. Sir N. Bagenall's good industry. The Queen to write a few lines to him. James Fitzmaurice the Earl of Desmond's cousin german, and Thomas Rooove, a base brother of the said Earl's, attempt a disturbance striving for the rule in Munster. Two Commissioners and Captain Bassenet, with his band, requisite to keep Munster in quietness. A settled governor desired. Inclose,

32. I. Captains Pers and Malbie to the Lords Justices. Sorley Boy has gone with some part of his men; the rest left with T. Lynagh, the Clan Allesters, who manure the land of Monery and Cary, and Alexander Oge M'Alester Charrie. They dissemble their understanding thereof that Sorley may depart, his company be dispersed, and they compass their overthrow. The said Alexander Oge has refused to come in. Captain Cheston and his whole band placed in the Abbey of Glenarm the 26th of January. Have also placed Randal Oge M'Alester Charrie in the Castle of Glenarm, where all his brother's followers will come in to him. No doubt of the utter expulsiing of the Scots and overthrow of this rebel. The abbey called the Market town. Belfast fortified. Turlough Lynagh O'Neill will do as his predecessor Shane. Promise contained in Her Majesty's letters recently received by him. Has received Rory Oge M'Quillin, who was wasted by Sir Brian M'Felim and Brian Carragh. Art M'Baron. Latin. [Mem. this letter is misdated, as noted on the back.] April 16.*

13. II. Lord Justice Fytzwylliams and Council to Turlough Lynagh. Received his letters misdated April 16 on the 15th. Rory Oge M'Quillin should have complained to them, and not rebelliously have withdrawn from his native place. T. Lynagh to send him away immediately. If Turlough Lynagh will personally make his complaints against Brian Carragh and Sir B. M'Felim, they will do him justice. The controversies with Art M'Baron referred to the Commissioners at Dundalk. Latin. April 16, Carrickfergus.

April 21. 14. Lord Justice to [Sir W. Cecill]. Sir Brian M'Felim excuses Knockfergus. the stay of his cattle. He desires Fytzwylliams to draw all his soldiers into the Route and Glynnys to fetch up all the cattle from M'Quillin, Rory Oge M'Quillin, the Clan Allisters, &c. Great treason suspected. Proposed operations. The weight of his account renders him unfit for service, and makes him many times leave God unthought of. The Hare, which has gone for the Lord Deputy, is now greatly needed against the Scots. Soldiers might have been placed in the Raghlins and attacked the Scots. T. Lynagh's great pride. Weakness of the English bands. The Lord Deputy Sydney has written to Pers and Malbie that they have been complained of to the Queen.

VOL. XXV.

70. I. Edward Waterhous to the Lords Justices. Sorley Boy preparing to invade. Controversy with his brother Alexander Oge. M'Donnell Gorm (i.e., Donald Gorme M'Donald of Slate) Lord of the Out Isles, doth join with Sorley. M'Gillaspick with 400 men intends to land in the Glynnys. Earl of Argyle diligent in making galleys. The Lord Deputy is within four days journey of Chester.
Aug. 4, Chester.

70. II. Terence Danyell, Dean of Armagh, to the same. Turlough Lynagh builds a fort on the borders of Tirconnell. He has made a truce for a month with O'Donnell, and is at peace with Con O'Donnell. Rory Oge M'Quillin. Art M'Baron, Henry M'Shane's sons. M'Donnell arrested by Mr. Marshal for not delivering up a prior for the murder of a horseman at Armagh. The prior is the most corrupt member ever born in the North, not only for wilful murders, but for many other ungracious doings. M'Mahon retaineth more Scots.
August 20, Newry.

70. III. James Fitzmaurice of Desmond to the same. Understands M'Maurice has complained. Has committed no hurt on M'Maurice (the Lord Fitzmaurice of Kerry) but taken 200 beeves in pledge for rents. Complaint against M'Maurice.
July 27, Ballyrobearde.

70. IV. Thomas Lord Fitzmaurice of Kerry to the same. Has received their letters of 13 July with a copy of the letter of straight commandment they had sent to James Fitzmaurice of Desmond, to refrain encamping in his country and make restitution for the spoils. The said James Fitzmaurice, after receiving the letter, assembled all the lords and captains and wasted his country for a week and then encamped against his manor house. He has given him battle and killed O'Connor Kerry and Edmund Oge M'Shyhy. George Fannyng's testimony.
Aug. 1, Lixnaw.

70. V. Names of those who came with James Fitzmaurice.

70. VI. Sir Maurice Fitzgerald to the Lords Justices. Three hundred at the least killed in the conflict of 29th July. [Extract.]

Oct. 8.
Dublin.

4. Lords Justices Weston and Fytzwylliams to the Queen. Edward Butler. The North. O'Carroll seeks to put off his appearance. He feareth his sons, Thady, Donald, and Rory Deville, cannot answer all that Mr. Butler has to charge them with. Weak state of the Pale. Presidents. Inclose,

4. I. Lords Justices to Edward Butler, charging him to appear to answer the complaints of the Lady O'Carroll, for grievous wrongs committed in the absence of her husband, Sir William, now in England. And also those of the Lady of Dunboyne.
July 17, Dublin.

4. II. Same to same. Desire to be certified, whether he had made request to the Lady O'Carroll and Thady O'Carroll, to have pardon at the Lords Justices' hands for himself, Piers Grace, and Philip, the son of James Grace. Charge him to appear personally, and in the meantime to forbear all violence.
Aug. 10, Dublin.

4. III. Same to same. To put away the 800 men reported to be in his company, and to repair to them by the day that the three sons of O'Carroll shall appear, whose names Mr. Butler is desired to return by the bearer. Have written to Colley, Cosbie, and Fitzpatrick. Reckon that the force he has gathered must be for defence of his and his brother's lands. Forbids the exaction of coin and livery.
Sept. 4, Dublin.

4. IV. Same to same. Sir W. O'Carroll now, since his return from England, complains of further spoils and killings. Charge him to appear on the 30th of September.
Sept. 18, Dublin.

4. V. Same to same. Marvel that he has not answered their letters. Enjoin him to appear on the 30th instant.
Sept. 27, Dublin.

4. VI. Turlough Lynagh to the Lords Justices, as to the burning of Ferney. Latin.
Sept. 11, Benborb.

4. VII. Turlough M'-I-Brien Arra to the same. Complains against Mr. Edward Butler.
Sept. 9, Arrye.

4. VIII. Piers Walshe to the same. James M'Morris. Disorders in Kilkenny and Tipperary. Clan William is likely to be undone.
Sept. 11, Oyne.

4. IX. Lord Roche to the same. Complains that the Earl of Clancarty, accompanied by M'Donoky, O'Kye, M'Auly, O'Donocowe More, and O'Sullivan More's son and heir, Edmond M'Swyny, and others, with six or seven banners displayed, has taken 1,500 kine, burned 7,000 sheep, all his corn, and a great number of men, women, and children. Desires a commission to hurt the said Earl.
Sept. 14, Castletown.

VOL. XXVI.

4. X. Sir William O'Carroll to the Lords Justices. His son Thady, while going to see his father-in-law, was attacked by Mr. E. Butler. Sept. 14, Conleysk.

4. XI. Same to the same. He will not appear with his three sons, unless Edward Butler bring Piers Grace, Ferdorough M'Edmond, and James Grace, open malefactors and traitors. He is content that his wife shall answer the said Edward. Edward Butler is now on the borders of his country with 1,000 persons, and has no mind to appear. Sept. 30, Kylmayne.

4. XII. Edward Butler to the same. Denies to have requested the Lady O'Carroll and her son Thady to solicit pardon for him and others. He desires that his accusers, viz., O'Carroll's three sons, may appear with him before their Lordships. His farms wasted. The matter is a private quarrel stirred up by O'Carroll's sons. Aug. 15, Ballibeg.

4. XIII. Same to same. O'Carroll and his sons have preyed and burnt almost every town in Ormond during the last three years. They assaulted him by night in his father-in-law's country with 100 men. Complains of Desmond and the Mores of Leix. He is obliged to keep certain men, not above 400, for the defence of the country. Desires their Lordships will send for O'Carroll's three sons, viz., Thady, Donnell, and Rory Devill, the Mores of Leix, the sons of O'Molmoy, John M'Coghlan, Owen M'Melaghlin Ballo of the Cloghan, the Ryans of the West, Mac Brien Ogonnagh, and the White Knight. Sept. 24, Ballynenoddogh.

4. XIV. Same to the same. Has received their letters of the 18th of September, purporting the fresh complaints of O'Carroll, which Butler entirely denies. Butler discomfited his men when they assaulted him in his father-in-law's country.

Sept. 26. Huddestowne.

4. XV. Lords Justices to the Earl of Clancarr, as to the horrible excesses complained of by the Lord Roche. Trust they are not altogether true. Command him upon sight hereof to make restitution. The Lord Roche's loyalty and service merit the aid of Government. Demand an answer by the bearer as to the occasions of his attack. Sept. 20, Dublin.

4. XVI. Circular from same to the Lord Barry More, Sir Dermot M'Teig, the Mayor of Cork, the Sheriff of the County of Cork, the Sovereign of Kilmallock, and the Sovereign of Kinsale, for the aid of the Lord Roche against Clancarr. Sept. 20, Dublin.

Oct. 8.

5. Articles between the Lord Deputy Sydney and Sir Brian M'Felim Bacagh and Brian Carragh, for building a bridge over the ford at Belfast, to cut passes, defend wood-cutters, protect shipping, &c., on the delivery of the castle and manor of Belfast.

VOL. XXVI.

Oct. 24. 6. Queen Elizabeth to the Lord Deputy, to take order that [Windsor.] the revenues of the Earl of Desmond and Sir John, now prisoners in the Tower, may be sequestered for their charges, and order taken for their sustenance during their imprisonment. Estimates. The bearer Humfrey Gylberte, who has been dangerously ill, to have his full pay, and to be preferred to some better place.
- [Oct. 24.] 7. Certificate of such yearly rents as the Earl of Desmond ought to have out of the counties of Limerick, Cork, Kerry, Dublin, and of other Irishmen. Signed by Draycott and Cusake.
- Oct. 24. 8. Cecill to the Lord Deputy Sydney. Cannot remember being Windsor. so long without knowledge from him. His care and love of him by profession augmented. The Queen careful for her own surety and state. The Queen of Scots shall not by favour be advanced. Mr. Stucley removed from his office, and N. White appointed. The bearer too late for that appointment.
- Oct. 9. Draft of instructions for the establishment of a President and Council in Munster. [It appears from Cecill's letter of the 5th of November 1568, that the Queen disapproved of this establishment, as too expensive.]
- [Oct.] 10. Sir John Pollard's notes upon the instructions.
- Nov. 1. 11. Earl of Desmond to the Privy Council. Suffers from the

- Nov. 2. 12. Sir Peter Carew to same. The Lord Deputy found the Dublin. charges committed to Pers and Malbie in very good state. Turlough Lynagh had raised such stirs that if the Lord Deputy had not by his wisdom and policy caused M'Mahon and others to decline from him, the suppressing of those wicked people would have cost the Queen 100,000*l*. M'Mahon payeth 800 kine as a fine for his disobedience. O'Donnell has chased Turlough Lynagh into his own castle. Edward Butler has been out these two months, he has about 1,500 men. The plan for Presidents will greatly advance good government; Fynnye O'Driscoll [Florence O'Driscoll] and others, whose ancestors never came to any Deputy, are come in, of their own accord, on report of a President's coming into the West. Trusts to finish his affairs in 14 days. Finds ancient records serving well for his purpose.
- Nov. 4. 13. The Queen to the Lord Deputy. To remove Thomas Stucley and to admit Nicholas White to occupy the offices of seneschalship of Wexford and the constableness and rule of Leighlin and Fernes. Sir Nicholas Heron deceased.
- Nov. 5. 14. Cecill to the same. His grief increaseth at hearing no establishment as President of Munster. Pollard grievously sick of the gout. Connaught. Two rates. The Queen is in no way disposed to be at the charge of the greater rate. Sydney to think how the places may be served at the lower rate. The Lord of Leicester is in Cecill's house at dice and merry, where he hath lodged these two nights. The Prince of Condé. The Prince of Orange. William Peryam was named as Pollard's Justice in Munster. Incloses,

14. I. Charges of the Lord President and Council to be established in Munster. [This seems to be an original, and Cecill sent a copy.]

14. II. The meanest rates for establishing Presidents in Connaught and Munster, devised at Westminster by the Lord Keeper, Lord Treasurer, &c. [This also is the original, and a copy was sent, including Ulster.]

[Nov. 5.]

15. Charges for establishing a President and Council in Munster [Indorsed by Cecill as the first proposition.]

Nov. 6.
Dublin.

16. Mr. L. Dillon, the Queen's Attorney in Ireland, to [Cecill]. The people of the remotest provinces willing, by order of law and justice, to recover and defend their rights. The most respectable gentlemen of Connaught, Limerick, the west, and all the rest of the realm are at Dublin attending the Lord Deputy for his sentence and resolution in their controversies. Turlough Lynagh. Edward Butler. The young Baron of Dunboyne.

Nov. 6.
Dublin.

17. Auditor Jenyson to Cecill. Mr. Treasurer's account amounts to nearly 400,000*l.* Irish, and unaccounted, for  $9\frac{1}{4}$  years. Desires to be informed of the diets and days of entry of Sir Thomas Wrothe and Mr. Dyxe; also as to 433*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, issued to Sir Nicholas Heron. 18. Lord Deputy to same. Has with the Council written the particular state of each province to the Queen. The Earl of Argyle said if the Queen would help the Queen of Scots, he would minister all neighbourly offices to Ireland, otherwise he would invade Ireland in person with 5,000 men. James M'Donnell's widow is willing to match with an Irishman at the Queen's appointment, if she and hers may enjoy the inheritance that her husband and her ancestors have possessed in Ireland for seven generations; if not, as long as any of the Clandonnells live, they will not cease the prosecution of their title. Lord Herries blustered words "full of the Rancour of a Ranck Skotte." Advice to procure the devotion of Donnell Gorm M'Donald, Lord of the Out Isles. Raghlin. Ulster to be peopled with a colony of 2,000 men, where there liveth not the 200th man that might be nourished. Knockfergus, Olderfleet, Glenarm, Red Bay, Market town Bay, Skerries, Port Rush, Bridge over the Ban. Tyrone to be divided to the natives. Sir N. Bagenall's exchange. Magennis, O'Hanlon. M'Mahon, Ferney. Revenue of 5,000*l.* per annum to be derived out of Ulster. If this device be not approved, money must be sent to casse the soldiers, and the Scottish enemy or Irish

[Clearly dated Nov. 2, but probably Nov. 12.]

Nov. 12. 21. Same to the Queen conveying (mutatis mutandis) exactly the Dublin. same intelligence. [This letter is clearly dated on the 12th of November, and it may be presumed the above letter to Cecill was written at the same time.]

Nov. 12. 22. Mr. Jaques Wingfeld to Cecill. The Queen's lands in Cork
Dublin. and Limerick utterly waste, without a person to inhabit there. Extortions by Thomas Roe O'Desmond, bastard brother to the Earl, and his cousin James Fitzmaurice. They have entered Kerry. The Earl of Clancarr has spoiled the Lord Roche. Spoil of the Lord of Muskerry, Sir Dermot M'Teig. Desmond is the most disordered part of Ireland. Neither quiet Geraldine nor contented Butler. Wingfeld desires 31 years' reversion in the parsonage of Dungarvan.

Nov. 12. 23. More Ny Carule to her husband M'-I-Brien Arra. Edward Arra. Butler has taken all their kine, sheep, and household stuff; burned Kilmascullo, and killed his loving uncle Teig M'Doughe Roe, whom they buried at Youghal. She wishes he would take a farm in the English Pale.

the Lord Deputy and the country. Parliamentary dissensions. Impost of wines. Lord Mountjoy and Mr. Chaloner. Sydney inquired whether Queen Elizabeth did like the friendship between the Earl of Leicester and Cecill. Stucley reports that White was preferred through the Earl of Ormond. The parsonage of Dungarvan were better employed to support the President of Munster's charge than to be conferred on Lucar. The Lord Keeper's tomb ready to be shipped for Bristol.

- March 16. 45. Sir Thomas Cusake to Cecill. His service not having been well accepted by his Sovereign, has stayed him from writing. The peace he procured with Shane O'Neill when he had burnt 30 villages in the English Pale and killed the best gentlemen in Uriel, was important service at that time. His service in Munster, where he had the Knight of the Valley's son and heir and others executed, and took his castles by siege, and procured the Act that gave those lands to the Queen. The execution of 38 in Connaught, &c. urged. Begg the remission of 400*l.* wherewith he stands unjustly charged, and to have renewal of Her Majesty's favour.
- March 18. 46. Thomas Might to same. Being troubled in making up his Dublin. accounts with Mr. Auditor, he has appointed Thomas Sackford, Esq., to the execution of his office, and begs he may receive the 1,000*l.* Great dearth.
- March 18. 47. Mr. Attorney Luke Dillon to Sir W. Cecill, concerning the Dublin. inheritance which Sir Patrick Barnewall and he recovered against Andrew Wyse, to the use of the Countess of Sussex and her children. Vindicates his just dealing.
- March 18. 48. Lord Chancellor Weston to Cecill. This third session of Dublin. Parliament began upon Ash Wednesday, 23d February last, and ended March 11, and then was prorogued till October 10. List of Acts for the attainder of Shane O'Neill, the entitling of the Queen to the lands of Thomas, the Knight of the Valley; for restoring the Earl of Kildare, his brother and sisters, &c., &c., passed. The bills for repairing churches and erecting schools and impost for wines refused.
- March 18. 49. Bills agreed upon by the Queen's Majesty to be affiled to Her Commission, and sent into Ireland to be determined in Parliament, and so proclaimed.
- [March 18.] 50. Abstract of such Acts as passed at the last Parliament, by virtue of the suspension of Poynings' Act, not heretofore certified.
- [March 18.] 51. Notes touching certain Acts and Bills of Parliament.
- [March 18.] 52. An Act for restoring the Earl of Kildare, his brother and sisters, to their blood.
- [March 18.] 53. Note of certain lands, found by office, that the Earl of Kildare's father died seised of.

- [June 3.] 19. The humble petitions of Sir W. Sentleger to the Privy Council for the doing of the Queen's service in Munster. Offers land in England as security for repaying 10,000*l.* loan, and for evicting lands from rebels and traitors to the value of 1,000*l.* a year, to serve with 1,500 upon his own charges, &c.
- June 3.
Dublin. 20. Thomas Might, Victualler of Ireland, to Cecill. Explains the deputation of his office to Thos. Sackford, while he was passing his accounts with the Auditor. Dearth. Intends to come to England to receive the 2,000*l.*, and to provide for the winter.
- June 3.
Ledes. 21. Hierom Brett to same, for maintenance of his good opinion of him, notwithstanding objections made to his offers for subduing Munster. Urges his propositions. [See his offers, located 1568, Nov.]
- June 5.
Dublin. 22. H. Draycott, Master of the Rolls, to same. Explains that Mr. Auditor [Jenyson] had been occupied so long by the Treasurer's accompts, because they were for so many years, and besides so disordered by many ministers and paymasters, that a stranger in the case could not have performed it in double the time he had consumed.

VOL. XXVIII.

June 6. Manor of Slygeagh. 23. O'Connor Slygo to Cecill. The neighbouring Irish oppress his country with many hurts. Desires that the Queen's letters may be written immediately to the Lord Deputy to expedite his business. Thanks for Cecill's benefits to Sligo's brother Owen, now at Oxford. Latin.
- June 10. Dublin. 24. N. White to Sir William Cecill. Thomas Maisterson, constable of Fernes, has accused Stucley at the Council board of conspiring to levy war against the Queen. Stucley committed. Gift of Stucley's farms to Agarde and John Thomas. Peace with T. Lynagh till 15 July. Mayor of Dublin committed to ward.
- June 10 ? 25. Deposition of Richard Stafford as to expressions of Stucley undutiful to Her Majesty, in presence of himself and William Hore.
- June 11. Tower. 26. Sir John of Desmond to the Privy Council. Desires a favourable letter from them to show his friends, that he may speak with them, and try the friendship they bear him.
- June 13. Dublin. 27. Mr. Jenyson and Mr. Thomas to Cecill. Certify that the extent of the manor of Leixlipp is 7*l*. 10*s*. more than the value whereon Mr. White, who has a grant of the fee farm of it, grounded his suit.
- June 15. Tower. 28. Earl of Desmond to same, to further his suit to the Privy Council to borrow money.
- June 15. Tower. 29. Same to the Privy Council. Solicits the loan of some money.
- June 16. Chester. 30. Edward Waterhous to Cecill. Intends to take the first wind with the treasure and the prisoner committed to him. Sydney is gone into Connaught to place Sir Edw. Fyton, and means to return by Munster to establish Mr. Pollard. He has proclaimed a general hosting, to begin about 12 July, when he will march towards Ulster.
- [June 16.] 31. Deposition, relating the journey and proceedings of Luke Dillon, John Thomas, and Edward Fytzsymon, Commissioners sent by the Lord Deputy to Sir Edmond, Edward, and Piers Butler, the Lady of Dunboyne, Sir W. O'Carroll, and M<sup>c</sup>-I-Brien Arra.
- June 16. At the Council Board. 32. Deposition of John De Vawe, touching the manner of his journey to deliver letters from the Lord Deputy and Council to Sir Edmund Butler, Edward Butler, and to William Swetman, to apprehend Piers Butler, with their several answers and behaviour.

VOL. XXVIII.

June 17. 35. Andrew Skyddye to [the Lord Deputy]. Yesterday M'Carthy Cork. More, whom he dares not name an Earl, and James Fitzmaurice, spoiled all the inhabitants of Kerrycurrihy, the farm Sir Warhame Sentleger has of the Earl of Desmond, and laid siege to the Abbey of Tracton.
- June 17. 36. Mayor and Officers of Cork to [the same]. Assault by 2,000
Cork. rebels on Tracton and the country in charge with Sir W. Sentleger and Mr. Greynvile. Desire speedy succour, as the malefactors are wickedly and most traitorously disposed.
- June 18. 37. Lady Ursula Sentleger to [the same]. On Wednesday the Cork. Sheriff went for England. Next morning James Fitzmaurice with 4,000 spoiled Kerrycurrihy; on Friday they took Tracton and killed
John Enchedon and all her men; on Saturday they came to the castle of Carigyleyn. The enemies were informed by the tenants what victual and provision was in the castle. Prays that some order may be taken for her security.
- June 18. 38. Jaspar Horsey to [the same]. The taking of Tracton. All Cork. within it slain saving three or four English soldiers, since hanged by James Fitzmaurice and M'Carthy More. They have vowed never to depart from Cork, unless the Mayor deliver out of the town the Lady Sentleger and Mrs. Greynvile, with the rest of the English, and Barry Oge, Cormac M'Teig, with all other prisoners. Reports of aid from Spain, friendship between the Butlers and Geraldines.
Names of the rebels engaged at Tracton. Sir W. Sentleger's tall ship threatened.
- [June 18.] 39. Note of Sir Richard Greynvile's men presented before the Commissioners. This paper seems to have reference to planting the farm at Kerrycurrihy, but is wholly without date.
- June 19. 40. Mayor and Corporation of Waterford to the [Lord Deputy].
Waterford. Relate the rebellion of M'Carthy More, &c. Tracton taken.
Inclose,
40. I. Mayor and Corporation of Cork to the Mayor, &c. of Waterford. Beg to be furnished with two barrels of powder for money. June 16, Cork.
- June 19. 41. Mayor and Corporation of Youghal to the Lord Deputy.
Youghal. They are in daily jeopardy of the rebels. Pray that 40 good soldiers may be sent to their aid.
- June 19. 42. Depositions of the Vicount Baltinglas and Richard Shethe, relating their conference with Sir Edmund Butler of the Grenan, upon the Lord Deputy and Council's instructions, and Sir Edmund's answer and demeanour.
- June 20. 43. Mayor and Corporation of Cork to the Lord Deputy. The Cork. rebels brag that they will take Kinsale and Cork, that help cometh from Spain, and that the Butlers are of the confederacy. All the country betwixt Cork and Kinsale is destroyed.

VOL. XXVIII.

1569.

- June 20. 44. Mayor and Corporation of Youghal to the Lord Deputy. Beg for 60 soldiers and a barrel of good powder for their protection. Unless his Lordship come with a main army, the whole country is like to be overthrown.
Youghal.
- June 21. 45. Captain N. Malbie to Cecill. Sir Edmund Butler has gathered a great company, and spoileth Idrone, &c. He has taken Robert Mannering, an English gentleman, and leads him up and down in a halter. Turlough Lynagh looks for a great number of Scots. The Lord Deputy wanteth but supply; he is not unprovided of travail, policy and fortunate success. Captain Maisterson, with small company, attacked one Maurice Duffe Kavanagh, and slew him with his own hand; there were killed 23 more.
Dublin.
- June 21. 46. John Cantwell, Sheriff of the county of Kilkenny, to the Lord Deputy. He had prefixed a day and place to conclude with the gentlemen of Kilkenny, to be in readiness against the 15th of July to serve at the general hosting. Sir Edmund Butler's rage and tyranny prevents that service, because the Sheriff had hanged a kernaghe whom he found with a prey out of Waterford. The strong sept of the Clanodos threatened.
Waterford.
- June 21. 47. The same to . Certifies his proceedings in the execution of Her Majesty's commission, and instructions to him, for mustering the whole county, the threats he had disregarded, and the way in which the husbandmen, freeholders, and gentlemen too, had been spoiled of their weapons by the rebels.
Waterford.
- June 22. 48. Edward Langham to the Lord Deputy. A report that the Queen and the Earl of Ormond had been put to death, is the chief persuasion wherewith Sir Edmund Butler lures his rebellious company. They give great threatenings to this poor town, which Langham will to the uttermost defend.
Carthelloghe (Carlow).
- June 22. 49. Mr. William Peryam to Cecill. Long stayed by contrary wind. Sir John Pollard is suddenly fallen sick of his gout; Peryam does not like to proceed without him.
Ilfracombe.
- June 23. 50. George Wyse to same. Begg his favourable letters to the Lord Chancellor, that he may have expedition in his cause for the inheritance of his late father, Sir William Wyse.
Dublin.
- June 24. 51. Lord Edward Seymour to same. Professes gratitude and devotion.
Dublin.
- June 24. 52. Sir John Pollard to same. Hindered in sundry ways from going to Ireland. The bearer, Henry Sidenham, will give information as to Pollard's case. His disease does vehemently torment him.
Ilfracombe.

VOL. XXVIII.

1569.
June 24. 53. Brief of the account of Sir William Fytzwylliams, Treasurer at Wars for 10 whole years ended at Midsummer, 1569. The charge, 347,862*l.* 1*s.* 0½*d.* and ½*f.* Payments, 326,020*l.* 4*s.* 4½*d.* and ½*f.* Remainder, 21,841*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*, whereof the clear debt to the Queen is 4,545*l.* 7*s.* 7½*d.* and ½*f.* Irish. Attested by Auditor Jenyson.
- June 24. 54. Brief of Sir W. Fytzwylliams's account.
- June 24. 55. Another copy.
- June 27. 56. Sir Warhame Sentleger to Cecill. His man has arrived from Monday. Cork with a letter for Her Majesty, and letters from Lady Sentleger Southwark. and others, which he sends to Cecill, as he is too ill to leave his house. It were better to the Queen to spend 40,000*l.* than that Cork should be lost.
- June 28. 57. Auditor Jenyson to same. He had never in all his life Dublin. endured so continual travail, as the bearer, Mr. Treasurer Fytzwylliams, can declare. Mr. Treasurer's account is finished. The accounts of the Master of the Ordnance and Might shall be finished with expedition.
- June 30. 58. Lord Deputy to same. Glad that Waterhous has given Dublin. satisfaction. Laments the lack of resolution. Has written to Her Majesty and the Lords, of the public causes. Thanks Cecill for helping to make a Christian of his little son; he had left order "that yf yt wear a boy yt should have been a Wyllyam, yf a wench Cycell." Approves of the offer of the gentlemen to inhabit Munster. Thus much written a month ago. Credit to the bearer John Thomas. Rebellion all the realm over, except in the English Pale. The Spanish King has promised great succours. Some Scots are arrived and more expected. His delight in Cecill's daughter.
- June 30. 59. The Queen to the Lord Deputy, by the Earl of Ormond.
Greenwich. The order for the prize wines of Youghal and Kinsale to be executed. Satisfaction for the Earl of Ormond for the spoils committed by Desmond. Ormond to be exempted from cesses. To have license to provide for his house at the Queen's prices. Sydney to certify the expediency of Ormond's having a lease of the monastery of St. Mary by Dublin, in recompense for the site of Leighlin Castle.
- June 30. 60. Copy of the above.
- [June.] 61. The petitions and answers of those gentlemen who offer service in Ireland, made to the book delivered to them by the Privy Council.

VOL. XXIX. 1569. JULY—DECEMBER.

- 1569.
- July 1.           1. Francis Cosbie to the Lord Deputy. Sir Edmund Butler, with his brothers Piers and Edward, last night burnt Stradbally, Ballyknockane, Ferny Priory, and Loughteoge. M'Carthy More and James Macmaurice O'Desmond departed from them before they did it. They have slain all the ward of Ballyknockane.
- July 3.           2. Suffrein and his brethren of Kilmallock to the Lord [Deputy].
Kilmallock. James Fitzmaurice, the Earl of Clancarthy, M'Donogho, and others having attacked them, they had been compelled to purchase their peace by a ransom of 160*l.* Irish, and to agree to dishonourable articles. Pray redemption from this "Egipciacall bondage."
- July 6.           3. Pass granted by the Queen for the bearers, John Roe and Greenwich. Edmund Forster, permitted to go into Ireland with letters from the Earl of Ormond to Sir Edmund Butler, and to bring others from him.
- July [7.]       4. Mr. Edmund Tremayne to Cecill. He is sent to satisfy the Lord Deputy touching Sir John Pollard's stay. Commotions of Ireland. Tremayne's devotion to the Prince.
- July 8.           5. Mayor and Corporation of Waterford to same. The good Waterford. subjects in the country forced by the rebels to become partners of their confederacy, or else to end their wretched lives by famine. The traitors are not contented only to spoil the kine and garrans, but also send naked to this city the men, not sparing (a shameful thing to be reported) "to use the honest huswives of the countrey in like manner," and torment them with more cruel pains than "eyther Phalaris or any of the old Tirants cowl'd invent." The chieftains of this rebellion are James M'Maurice, called Captain of the Geraldines, and M'Carthy More, who refuses the new title of Earl, and is offended with any one that calleth him Earl of Clancarr. These and other rebels have forced Kinsale to compound, and Piers Walshe to yield the Abbey of Owney, whereof he was farmer. The Butlers have preyed in Kildare and Waterford. Many poor men slain. Mr. White's house, at Knocktopher, broken. Piers Butler has preyed Callan, and robbed Fulk Quemerford. Great need of munition and victual.
- July 10.       6. Mayor and Corporation of Limerick to the Lord Deputy.
Limerick. Castletown, in Kenry, delivered to James Fitzmaurice, July 2. July 8, James Fitzmaurice, the Earl of Thomond, and the Earl of Clanrycard's son John at a parliament at Blackstones. Report of the arrival of 40 Spanish ships at "Dinglishe." They desire to know what course they may pursue with the rebel.
- July 11.       7. Nicholas Malbie to the same. All the freeholders of the Carlow. county of Kilkenny were with Sir Edmund Butler yesterday at the killing of Malbie's men. Sydney should advance before the day appointed, if possible. He has not one penny to help his hurt men. He mourns that his company is unhorsed.

VOL. XXIX.

July 12. 8. James Fitzmaurice of Desmond to the Mayor and Corporation Martynstown. of Cork, and others. Requires them to "aboolish oute of that cittie that old heresy newly raised and invented, and namely Barnaby Daaly and all them that be Hugnettes, boothe men and woomen," and Greynville's wife and children.
- July 12. 9. H. Gylberte to Cecill. Begs license to repair to England for Dublin. recovery of his eyes. He is glad that the Queen denied his being called to the Council Table. Leaves the report of the last service to others, as he was one that served.
- July 12. 10. Sir Peter Carew to the Lord Deputy. Has received his Carlow. letters of July 7. Thanks for his good opinion of himself and the soldiers. Capt. Collyer still at Kilkenny. Sydney's coming urged before the union of the rebels. The Viscount of Decies sent answer to the rebels to do their worst to him, for he would be a true servant to the Queen. So did Lord Roche and Lord Barrymore.
Lysagh and Cahir M'Kedagh, and Brian M'Cahir, suspected. 80 soldiers repaired into the English Pale, without license, to be punished. Captain Malbie hurt by a fall off his horse. The castles, Tullye and Cloghrynogh should be recovered. Want of provisions, their cess beeves having been taken by the rebels.
- July 13. 11. Sir John Pollard to Cecill. He is extremely sick. He has Ilfracombe. signified, in answer to the Privy Council, his inability to perform his appointed service in Ireland with convenient speed.
- July 15. 12. Same to same. Returns his commission for taking up 1,000 Ylfarecombe. quarters of grain. Prays that he may not be displaced, as he will be ready in as short time as any other to undertake his charge. All his furniture is there. Incloses,
12. I. Mayor and Corporation of Waterford to Sir J. Pollard.
Miserable state of Cork and the parts assigned to his Honour's charge. Want of corn. July 8, Waterford.
12. II. Edmund Tremayne to same. Perilous voyage. Attacked for Butler's land has made all the lords and those who have always faithfully served the Queen stand in doubtful terms. Desires the Queen's letters to the Lord Deputy, that he may keep his brother at his house. English soldiers. 1,000 barrels of grain. Powder.

July 27.
Kilkenny.

24. Information of William Sweteman, of Castellyf, in the county of Kilkenny, gent., to the Lord Deputy and Council, relating a conference with Sir Edmund Butler, who said he would not in this quarrel be ruled by the Earl of Ormond, and showed treaties with James Fitzmaurice and letters from Turlough Lynagh.

July 29.
Kilkenny.

25. Submission of the Suffrein and inhabitants of Kilkenny to the Lord Deputy. Finding alteration of his accustomed clemency on account of their late composition and delivery of pledges to the proclaimed rebels Sir Edmund, Edward, and Piers Butler, they represent their necessity, the rebels being joined by James Fitzmaurice, M'Carthy More, and others, and sue for pardon.

July.

26. Memorandum for Ireland. "Dyngham" [Philipstown] and Maryborough to be made borough towns. Mendosa. The Earl of Argyle. The Irish Bishop at the Bishop of London's. The Irish Bishop in the Tower. Increase of garrison.

29. Sir Edward Fyton to Cecill. Arrived in Ireland the 19th of May. The repair of the Lord Deputy into Connaught to place Fyton deferred. Thanks for Cecill's commendations of him to the Lord Deputy.

Aug. 5.
Carrickfergus.

30. W. Pers, Seneschal, to the Lord Chancellor. 1,000 Scots have landed with the wife of James M'Donnell, sent by the Earl of Argyle. Pers, with Sir Brian, would have been in a readiness to meet them, but Magennis took the prey upon Saturday before, and Sir Brian's men could not be gathered.

Aug. 7.
Sunday.

31. Francis Cosbie to the Earl of Kildare. On Friday Sir Edmund Butler with 500 horse entered Ossory and took a great prey. Begg his Lordship to send 40 or 60 horse and 100 kerne to their assistance, as they look for Sir Edmund on Monday.

Aug. 7.
Armagh.

32. Master of the works at Armagh to the Dean of Armagh. Report of Caher M'Seain (Cahir M'Shane) of the arrival of a Scottish army, which he and other merchants had learnt while in Turlough Lynagh's country. Latin.

Aug. 8.
Newry.

33. Terence Danyell, Dean of Armagh, and John Sankye, to the Lord Chancellor, the Earl of Kildare, and the rest of the Council. Have received a letter from Captain Pers concerning T. Lynagh and the Scots.

VOL. XXIX.

Aug. 9. Mellifont. 34. Edward Moore to the Lord Chancellor. Messengers from Sir Edmund Butler and James Fitzmaurice have passed to Philip O'Reilly, Turlough M'Henry M'Shane, M'Mahon, and T. Lynagh, and have not yet returned.
- Aug. 10. Leighlin. 35. Roger Hoker to the same. Prays that the 50 soldiers arrived out of England may be sent to preserve Leighlin. On Tuesday Piers Butler spoiled the whole town, burnt 70 houses, killed 9 men, and burnt 4 young children, and daily threatens to besiege that house.
- Aug. 11. 36. Edward Moore to the Earl of Kildare. "M'Illane's" daughter arrived with a great number of Scots, and is gone to Turlough Lynagh, "and thereupon came away divers of the Doneloughes from him to Tirloughe Braseloughe." While Turlough Braselagh was flying his cattle towards the English for security, the Baron's sons took all his prey from him, and wounded divers of his men. [See a letter from M'Callum More's daughter, dated 1571, March 17.]
- Aug. 12. Knockbowen, County of Carlow. 37. Viscount Baltinglas, John Ewstace, and Robert Harpoll to the Lord Chancellor and Council. They are in attendance on the borders of Carlow with their rising out, but are too weak for Piers Butler now in the woods of the Dullagh and Slewmargin. Beseech the speedy aid of the English Pale.
- Aug. 13. 38. Information of Leonard Sumpter, of Bristol, merchant, of 32 galleys and many boats, and 4,000 Scots, whereof Sorley Boy was reported one of the chiefest leaders, prepared at Islay, to sail for Lough Foyle.
- Aug. 15. Tavelaghe. [Tallagh.] 39. Adam Loftus, Archbishop of Dublin, to Cecill. Has not had that favour in the controversy between him and Mr. Brereton that was meant. Prays Cecill's letters to the Lord Deputy in his favour, that he may have the purchase of Brereton's interest.
- Aug. 16. Tuesday, New Castle, M'Kynneghan. 40. Mr. Francis Agarde to the Lord Chancellor. Sir Edmund Butler, with great force, did yesterday take the house of Enniscorthy and a number of prisoners. Desires the assistance of the Earl of Kildare, and the force of the Pale. Also five or six gunners to help keep this wide house where he will adventure his carcase.
- Aug. 18. Carlow. 41. Viscount Baltinglas, John Ewstace, Edmund Langham, and Robert Harpoll, to the Lord Chancellor and Council. Edmund Butler has burned Lyttle Noroth, in the county of Kildare, and taken Tully. They have repaired to Carlow for its defence, but the holding kerne which were appointed for the defence of this county, and many others, have joined the rebel. Help shortly.
- Aug. 23. Munechan. [Monaghan.] 42. M'Mawna (M'Mahon) to the Commissioners for the North, in answer to letters summoning him to attend at Dundalk on the 25th, to answer to the accusations of Hugh M'Mahon. Excuses himself in consequence of the movements of his neighbours. Latin.

Bolleinlach.

43. Patrick Cullen to Terence Danyell, the Dean of Armagh, his master. Has conferred with the Donnellaghs (the Dean's kinsmen) and made them promise not to join Turlough Lynagh. Many of the best gentlemen of the country, assembled in council this day, gave advice to Turlough Brasselagh to agree with Turlough Lynagh. The numbers of the Scots. The Clan Leans arrived in M'Sweeny Banagh's country, and killed "Hue Boy Row and eighteen galloglas more." Turlough Lynagh intends to gather the Irish and attack the English Pale.

Aug. 26.
Castle Town.

44. Terence Danyell, Dean of Armagh, to the Lord Chancellor and Council. Turlough Lynagh will come with speed. Prays a force may be sent to the Newry to prevent him, or he will burn it. Powder to be sent in haste. Has written to Turlough Lynagh, and to the Earl of Argyle's daughter, and required them to send him their mind in writing.

[Aug. 26.]

45. Turlough Brasselagh to the Dean of Armagh. Turlough Lynagh is at the Omagh, and intends to be at peace with O'Donnell, and then to go upon Maguire.

Aug. 28.
New Castle,
M'Kynneghan.

46. Francis Agarde to the Lord Chancellor. Sir Edmund Butler has taken great spoils about Ferns and Arklow, and intends to come hither.

Aug. 28.
Waterford.

47. Earl of Ormond to Cecil. Arrived at Roslare, in the county of Wexford, Aug. 14. His care to see the Lord Deputy. The Lord Deputy could not spare any to conduct him through the rebels, but willed him to meet at Kilmallock or Limerick. His fear of incurring danger through the new laws against captainry and coin and livery. Intends to set forth towards his brethren. Incloses,

47. I. Sir Edmund Butler to the Earl of Ormond. Shows the hard usage he had received from Sir Peter Carew and the Lord Deputy; the unjust proclaiming of him traitor; his offers to decide his quarrel by duel; and his constant loyalty to the Queen, with his determination never to forgive the Lord Deputy.

47. II. Edward Butler to the Earl of Ormond. The cruel griefs and wrongful dealings he has sustained too long to be written. Edmund and he offered the Lord Deputy to serve with 1,200 men, victualled at Ormond's charge, but their messenger was detained, and no answer had till they were proclaimed traitors.

Aug. 26, Castellanny.

Aug. 28.
Newry.

48. Dean of Armagh to the Lord Chancellor and Council. Prays them to send great power to the borders with victual. All the "keryatts" that Turlough hath are very willing to depart from him if they could. Powder for the Newry. Incloses,

48. I. Turlough Brasselagh O'Neill to the Dean of Armagh. Has sent a horseload of wine to Turlough Lynagh, as a colour to learn news, to speak with the Donnellaghs, and to bring Brian Fertagh's son. Specifies the number of Scottish and other forces under T. Lynagh and his associates. The Clan Leans and Con O'Donnell did not suffer T. Lynagh to make a longer peace with O'Donnell, thinking to make all the Irishmen in the North obedient to him, and at a month's end to turn upon O'Donnell, and make him, whether he would or not, to come with him upon the English Pale. Complaint against the Baron's sons. Desires that the English army, or the force of the borders, and the Earl of Kildare, may be sent against T. Lynagh. Alexander Oge and Sorley mean to come with an army of Scots about Michaelmas to Claneboy, and to land about Knockfergus. T. Lynagh's offers to the Earl of Argyle. [Copy.]

Aug. 27, Ballenielagh.

48. II. Patrick Cullen to the Dean of Armagh. Turlough Braselagh's good meaning; his anger about the prey that the Baron's sons made in peace. [Copy, and written as a postscript to the above.]
Aug. 27, Ballinlagh.

Aug. 28. 49. Patrick Cullen to Randal Brereton and Hew Lewes, at the Ballelanaghe. Newry. Turlough Lynagh has made peace with M'Donnell (sic), and is gone upon Maguire. Turlough Brasselagh desires that they will put away all the thatch of the houses lest the smoke should hinder their sight at the castle.

Aug. 29. 50. Terence Danyell, Dean of Armagh, and John Sankye to the Newry. Lord Chancellor and Privy Council. This morning Turlough Lynagh's host came to the Newry, and preyed the country.

Aug. 29. 51. Lord of Louth to the same. Certain Scots landed about the Tallanstown. Derry, and spoiled and killed as many as they could. And afterwards Murrough Maoll M'Sweeny and O'Donnell gathered and followed them, but they went a seaboard with the spoil. T. Lynagh and Con O'Donnell have waged the said Scots, and will proceed against Maguire, M'Mahon, and the Brenny.

Aug. 29. 52. Thomas Flemyng to the Lord Chancellor. Sent to Turlough
 Sydan. Lynagh the Lord Deputy's letter. Turlough has sent back an answer to the Lord Deputy, and M'Callene [M'Callum More]'s daughter has sent another. Maguire, O'Donnell, Turlough Braselagh, and others have agreed with T. Lynagh. Flemyng's messenger saw messengers sent from Sir Edmund Butler, Lysagh M'Kedagh O'More, O'Conor Don, James Fitzmaurice, O'Rourk, and others, out of Munster and Connaught, despatched with letters from Turlough Lynagh. M'Mahon and Hugh M'Neill More have promised to him. He threatens Sir Brian M'Felim and all the Urraghs of Ulster.

Aug. 30. 53. Terence Danyell, Dean of Armagh, and John Sankye to the Newry. Lord Chancellor and Council. T. Lynagh has come upon the borders of the Newry, and preyed 3,000 kine belonging to Marshal Bagenall and the Dean. Magennis has not yet come in to him. He has gone upon Clanbrassill, to persecute Turlough Brasselagh, but he and the M'Canns promise not to submit. They pray that assistance may be sent.

- Sept. 2. 55. Lord Chancellor Weston to Cecill. They have written to the Dublin. Queen divers packets of letters of the dangers of the English Pale.
They are constrained to draw all their force northward against
T. Lynagh, leaving the South open to the violence of Sir Edmund Butler. Desires Cecill to deal with the Queen for help of men and money.
- Sept. 2. 56. Sir W. Fytzwylliams to same. Arrived August 24, when Dublin. the Earl of Kildare was at Tully, beside Carlow, for defence of those parts against Sir Edmund Butler, who was then coming over the Barrow, but dispersed his company, and the force of the English Pale after five days returned. Sir Edmund has raised a new force of 1,700, but T. Lynagh being come to the Newry, their whole force is required there, leaving the South open. Prays Cecill to think of this country's wretched state. Have written three times to the Lord Deputy to return, but messengers with letters being taken are hanged.
- Sept. 3. 57. Mr. N. White to same. The Earl of Ormond's three brethren Waterford. with 800 foot and 80 horse met him beside Kilkenny the 1st of September, and have come in to him upon protection.
- Sept. 5. 58. Andrew Gallwey, Mayor, and the Corporation of Cork to direction of their letters to the Queen.

- Sept. 6. 59. Sir Edmund Butler to same. Desires Cecill's favour to procure Kilkenny. him at the Queen's hands such indifferency as the justness of his cause originally deserved.
- Sept. 7. 60. Earl of Ormond to same. Having commission from the Kilkenny. Lord Deputy he met his brethren on the 1st, who humbly submitted.
Sir Peter Carew the chief author of all the troubles by challenging the lands of Sir Edmund Butler and other noblemen. John of Desmond, the Earl's uncle, to be brought to be at Her Majesty's commandment. This John is likewise uncle to James Fitzmaurice.
Ormond would sooner lie in the Fleet than be in Ireland at this time to serve with those whose good wills towards him he doubts.
Incloses,
60. I. *The words uttered by Sir Edmund Butler upon his first meeting with the Earl of Ormond. His joy at hearing of the Queen's health. His grievous complaint of the cruel usage of the Lord Deputy and Sir Peter Carew. For the hurts done to other
Her Majesty's subjects, he most humbly submitted to Her Majesty's mercy. Promises to keep the peace.* Sept. 1, Kilkenny.
60. II. John of Desmond [this is John Oge, son of John the 14th Earl of Desmond] to the Earl of Ormond. Desires he will write to Sir Theobald Butler of the Cahir to desist from annoying the country in his charge in the county of Limerick.

60. III. Supplication of Sir Edmund Butler of Cloghgrenan, in the county of Carlow, to the Queen. Complains of the ill will of the Lord Deputy, of the title pretended by Sir Peter Carew to the most part of his living. Shows that for fear of his life he shunned to come into the Lord Deputy's presence, and was consequently proclaimed traitor, &c. Beseeches a general pardon for himself, his brethren, and all their men, with restitution of house, lands, and goods.

Sept. 12.
Dublin.

61. Sir W. Fytzwylliams to Cecill. He is at Ardee with the Earl of Kildare, and the rising out of the whole Pale. The Earl of Ormond is gone to the Lord Deputy with two of his brethren, leaving Piers very sick at Kilkenny. Their laying down of their armour hath greatly relieved the whole Pale. T. Lynagh has above 3,000 Scots, and as many Irish as ever had any O'Neill. Turlough Braselagh and Magennis promised to remain. T. Lynagh was 14 days in the Raghlins, and there concluded his marriage with James M'Donnell's late wife. T. Lynagh is a very valiant man. Jenyson. Incloses,

61. I. The words uttered by Sir Edmund Butler upon his first meeting with the Earl of Ormond. Sept. 1, Kilkenny.

61. II. Sir Edmund Butler to [Sir W. Fytzwylliams?]. Contradicts the report that he intends with great power to enter the English Pale. Intends presently, in company with the Earl of Ormond, to repair to the Lord Deputy. He had James Fitzmaurice sworn not to bring in any Spaniards.

Sept. 6, Kilkenny.

Sept. 14.
Dublin.

62. Lord Chancellor Weston to Cecill. Doubts not the state of public matters is well known to Cecill, by the advertisements sent from time to time by the Council to the Queen. He being diseased of the gout, the stone, and the cholic, and the fears of conscience at taking the fees of the deanery of St. Patrick's, and yet neglecting to serve therein, begs Cecill's mediation for his recall.

Sept. 18.

63. Lord Treasurer Winchester to same. The captains and conductor for the 400 men should be well chosen. The money will be hard to get before next term. Incloses,

63. I. Estimate for 400 men for Ireland, out of Cheshire, Worcestershire, and Shropshire.

Sept. 26.
Kellmallocke.

64. Captain John Warde to Cecill. Overthrow of James Fitzmaurice and M'Carthy More, with 1,500 foot and 60 horse, by Captain Gylberte. This night Captain Gylberte goes to Cork to fetch Captain Sutt [John Shute] and his company, in order to do better service on the rebels.

Lieutenant Crewes wounded before Garrystown; that castle stormed and the garrison of 40 men put to the sword. March through Conneloe and Kenrey, where never any English ensign was displayed. Surrender of castles, viz.:—Craghan Castell, the Ralff, Ballegeltogone, Gillemakno of Suppell's Kilfenney, Penston, Lesemottey, Ballangoare, Ballerenowe, the New Towne, Balleallenay, the New Castell, Killanohwne, Cortenaytown-bryte, Dwnmoellen, Shannet, St. Patterick's hill, Corragg, Honne, the Pallyse, Baldon, Robert Towne, Asketon, Wheyn, Castelltowne, Rynekerkey, Pelleglohane, &c. The chief of James Fitzmaurice's men sue for mercy. Owen M'She killed. Conor M'She and William M'She, his brothers, and Lacye hanged and quartered.
- Oct. 24.
Dublin. 69. John Thomas to same. He has delivered to the Lord Deputy the articles agreed upon between the Earl of Leicester and Cecill. The Deputy doth very well like every of them, and is ready to perform whatever Cecill shall think meet. He is well contented that the marriage money should be bestowed on the two children [Philip Sydney and Cecill's daughter Anne]. John Thomas begs Robert Byce may not have the reversion of his office.
- Oct. 26.
Dublin. 70. Lord Deputy Sydney and Council to the Privy Council. Last letters dated at the camp by Clonmel, and sent by Owen More. Insolency of the city of Waterford in refusing the Deputy the assistance of a few soldiers on an emergency. The Lord Deputy's progress against the Butlers. Suit for Sir Tibbot Butler to be created Baron of "Caioir." The White Knight. The Lord Roche, Viscount Barry, and Sir Dermot M'Teig. Fytzwylliams, to be credited. The Chancellor, Archbishop of Dublin, Bishop of Meath, Plunkett, Dillon, Draycott, Carew, Cusake, Chaloner, Rokeby, and others thankworthy. The Earl of Ormond will honourably discharge his duty in restoring order.

Oct. 26. 71. Copy of the above letter of the Lord Deputy and Council to the Privy Council of the 26th. [Mem. dated the 24th and certified by E. Molyneux, Clerk of the Council in Ireland.]

Oct. 26. 72. Captain Nicholas Malbie to Cecill. Thanks for the favourable letters which he had received from Sir William Fytzwylliams.
Dublin.

Oct. 27. 73. Sir Peter Carew to same. Made no disturbance to any of Sir Edmund Butler's possessions, till he was appointed to repress his disorderly proceedings. Desires the continuance of Her Majesty's favour. The adversaries are encouraged upon opinion of his disgrace. Praise of Sydney.
Dublin.

Oct. 27. 74. N. White to same. The Lord Deputy's favour brings him in suspicion. Sydney detests the people and service of Ireland. If an example were made of some of the Butlers it would greatly tend to the conservation of the commonwealth and the quietness of the Earl their brother. The Deputy is angry with the City of Waterford. Two of the Walshes and one Wise should be punished. Mention of the articles between Sir H. Sydney and Cecill about the marriage between A[nne] Cecill and P[hilip] Sydney. Desires that the warrant for his fee farm may be despatched.
Dublin.

Oct. 27. 75. Earl of Ormond to same. Sydney's hard dealings and sharp advertisements against his brethren. He is bent to do Ormond any disgrace or discredit he can. Sir W. Fytzwylliams the only friend he can trust. Cecill to procure the going of his brothers into England.
Dublin. Incluses,

75. 1. Petitions of Sir Edmund Butler and Piers Butler to the Lord Deputy and Council; for license to repair into England, or a protection for half a year, to give them an opportunity to do acceptable service. Oct. 22.

Oct. 29. 76. George Wyse to Cecill. Excuses the town of Waterford for their refusal to send 300 men to the Lord Deputy. They were firm to the Crown in Perkin Warbeck's time, when all the realm besides revolted.
Dublin.

VOL. XXIX.

1569.
Oct. 29. Dublin. 77. George Wyse to Cecill. Thanks for his honourable letters to the Lord Chancellor Weston in Wyse's favour. Relation of the proceedings of the Lord Deputy and Council when Sir Edmund and Piers Butler were brought before them. The rebels took occasion by reports that Her Majesty intended to overrun them with a new conquest, which seemed to be confirmed by the establishment of Presidents. Reminds Cecill of his farms, viz., the commandries or precentories of the Crooke, Killure, and Kilbarry.
- Nov. 6. Tower. 78. Earl of Desmond to the Privy Council, to procure for him the loan of some money from the Queen.
- Nov. 13. Limerick. Captain Humphrey Gylberte to the Lord Deputy. Report of Sydney's recall, and appointment of the Earl of Ormond to be Deputy. Desires to speak with Sydney on matters he cannot write of. The White Knight put in pledges, Oct. 23. Sir Thomas of Desmond has overthrown the Seneschal at Glanheeren, and to be thanked. Piers Walshe took Dalton's Castle. James Fitzmaurice stole by night into Ormond's country. M'Carthy More and M'Donough send letters of submission. Owen Owre, alias Bundaraghe, a notable outlaw, taken. John Fitz John of Desmond has taken Doneskeaghe Castle. Nov. 7, O'Sullivan Beare came into Cork. Earl of Thomond contemptuously hinders their journey into Kerry. His son committed to the Mayor. [See Dec. 1.]
- Nov. 23. Youghal. 79. Ellynor, Countess of Desmond, to the Earl of Desmond. Has obtained letters from the Lord Deputy to the Queen. Purpose to repair to Her Majesty an humble suitor for his enlargement. The destruction of the country is so great that she can get no money. James Fitzmaurice rebelled, to bring Desmond in further displeasure and usurp all his inheritance by the example of his father.
- Nov. 23. Dredaugh. [Drogheda.] 80. Lord Deputy Sydney to Cecill. The good service and honest conversation of the bearer Anthony Loo have deserved the praise of all men.
- Nov. 25. Dundalk. 81. Same to same. Escape of Sir Edmund Butler. He has threatened much since his escape. He has done more mischief than any rebel in memory of man. Cecill to move Her Majesty to revoke him from this service and place. His grief at the want of the Queen's countenance and credit. All classes against him. He cannot live a year longer in Ireland. Has discharged the shipping and 100 soldiers. Has by the sword won Her Majesty castles and countries in Munster. Lucas Dillon the only sound and sufficient lawyer. Some good sour lawyer to be sent for escheating the lands. Money to discharge more soldiers. The bearer to have a room in the chapel. "Thogh he can not syng as a boy he can syng as a man."
- Dec. 1. Limerick. 82. H. Gylberte to the Lord Deputy. The voyage into Kerry; being hindered by tempest and adverse wind, he despatched Mr. Apsley, and twenty horse thither. Apsley, assisted by the Baron of Lixnaw, Sir Thomas of Desmond, Rory M'Shee, John M'Shee, Purcell and Edmund Fitzdavy, reduces Kerry and Connolough to obedience. Complaint of Ormond's slackness against the rebels. James Fitzmaurice preyed, forty of his men slain in Arlagh [now generally called Aharlow,] and a castle and all in it burnt. Owen Owre aliàs Bundaraghe executed. Intolerable want of money, munition, and all necessaries. [Extract.]

Dec. 6.
Limerick.

83. H. Gylberte to the Lord Deputy. On the 4th December the Earl of Clancarr and M'Donough came in, fell on their knees, and acknowledged their treasons. The malice of the ingrate traitors the Butlers. Gylberte refused parley or peace with any rebels. He would not have them think that the Queen had more need of their service, than they had of Her mercy. He put many to the sword, and spared not any malefactor unexecuted that came to his hands. No conquered nation will ever yield willingly obedience for love but rather for fear. Desires to be revoked. [Extract.]

Dec. 26.
Drogheda.

84. Lord Deputy Sydney to Cecill, for the bishoprick of Cork and Cloyne to be bestowed on his chaplain Richard Dixon. They in value exceed not much 40*l.* yearly.

Drogheda.

85. Same to same, for the bearer Morgan the son of M'-I-Brien Arra, to have the profits of the bishoprick of Killaloe to keep him at Oxford, that he may be more fit to enjoy the place. Otherwise they will be utterly converted to temporal uses for want of men to serve as Bishops.

Dec. 27.
Drogheda.

86. Same to the Privy Council. Thanks for their favour to Fulk Quemerford. He should be rewarded with some portion of his kinsmen the rebels' lands. His losses 2,000*l.* Her Majesty's gracious acceptation of Sydney's service. Successful proceedings in Munster. Gylberte's discretion, judgment, and lusty courage to be commended to the Queen's consideration. President for Munster. The President settled in Connaught with great obedience. Thomas Strange has the castle of Roscommon and to be furthered. Sir Peter Carew has reduced the Kavanaghs. T. Lynagh not whole of his hurt. Upon point to sunder from his wife. He is eaten out, and the Scots are tired of him. 300 kerne granted to the Earl of Ormond to bring in his brethren. Sir Edmund Butler's offering to the Holy Cross since his escape. Lack of money.

1569.

87. Compendious extract out of the particulars of the late Abbeys and other religious houses in Connaught, by which the towns and lands, the rectories and tithes, belonging to every of the said abbeys and houses, appears, according to the survey taken by Michael Fytz-wylliams, surveyor.

July 7. 10. Lord Deputy Fytzwylliam to Burghley. The bearer, Alderman Dublin Castle. Ussher, has opened a device that seems very feasible, for coinage of base money in pence, &c.

July 20. 11. Same to same. Success of the road upon Col M'Brian. Dublin Castle. 5,000 of his cattle taken. He sues to be received. Rebels. Earls of Kildare and Ormond in pursuit of Rory Oge. President of Munster has been at Castlemang since the beginning of June. Thanks for the 1,000*l.* of his debt remitted. His wife to sell the stock at Milton. Prays to be discharged. Bishop of Meath and Mr. Chief Baron armed and endangered their own persons in expulsing the rebels. Likelihood of further stirs Incloses,

11. I. Lord President of Connaught to Lord Deputy. The rebels, with Scots, have burnt Athlone wholly to the ground. The steeple of the Abbey, where the store is, was well defended. Twenty-four rebels slain. M'Gawle, Dillons', and Daltons' countries burned. Mr. Mostyn's town, called the Toeghe, burned, and his castle taken. James Fitzmaurice, one of the Clandonnells, and a Captain of the Scots were the chief leaders. [Copy, with strong remarks by Lord Deputy.] July 16, Athlone.

11. II. John Crofton to the same. Rebels and Scots have burnt Athlone, and the body of the church, where he had his malt, biscuit, and beer, and all his brewing and baking vessels, which are consumed. [Extract.] July 16, Athlone.

11. III. Bishop of Meath, Lord Delvin, and others to [the Lord Deputy.] The rebels have burned all Ballymore except Mr. Le Strange's house and castle. They have turned back again and burned Kilkenny, Ardnegroighe, &c. Mr. Strange's house was saved by James Fitzmaurice. The rebels were 60 horse and 2,000 foot. July 17, Ballymore.

July 22. 12. Order by the Lord Deputy and Council committing the Dublin Castle. Earl of Clanrycard to Dublin Castle, being charged by the Lord President Fyton and Robert Dyllon as a counsellor, comforter, and procurer of his son's doings.

VOL. XXXVII.

July 25. 14. Lord Deputy Fytzwylliam to the Queen. Mislikes that Dublin Castle. the Lord President Fyton concealed and kept secret from him, when required to reveal it at the Council Board, the matter he had to charge the Earl of Clanrycard with. He considers it a stain to his loyalty, and prays to be brought to his purgation. Clanrycard's request to be moved to the Tower or speedily tried in Dublin.

July 25. 15. Lord Deputy to Burghley. Prays his good means to help him Dublin Castle. to his purgation from any taint of disloyalty implied by Fyton's refusal to reveal to him the matter of his accusation of Clanrycard.

July 25. 16. Same to the Privy Council. To call himself, Fyton, Dublin Castle. and Clanrycard to their trials. Mr. Agarde has killed one of Feagh M'Hugh's brothers, who was at Mr. Browne's murder, together with other rebels.

July. 17. Articles declaring what hindrance the Queen receives by want of a General Escheator and Clerk of the Market in Ireland.

[July.] 18. A bill of remembrances to be delivered to the Lord Treasurer by the Lady Fytzwylliam.

Aug. 3. 19. The Queen to Sir Edward Fyton, Lord President of Con-Stony Stratford. naught. Marvels that he refused to declare to the Lord Deputy the particulars for which he caused the Earl of Clanrycard to be committed close prisoner. Mislikes that he has written so little of his doings. [*Minute. Mem., Fyton acknowledges this as of the 5th
 August.*]

Aug. 3. 20. Lord Deputy and Council to the Queen. Her letters of 5th Dublin Castle. July. Untowardness of the service in Connaught. Necessity of retaining the soldiers. Turlough Lynagh has intelligence with all the rebels in the realm. The Earl of Clanrycard never entered into open rebellion, or denied to come to the Deputy. Earl of Thomond, assisted by Thady O'Brien, Sheriff of Clare, has served well against the rebels. Munster. Inclose,

20. I. Marshal Bagenall to Lord Deputy Fytzwylliam. Has received two letters from the Dean of Armagh, and one from Turlough Lynagh. T. Lynagh pretends a quarrel to Turlough Braselagh, but means further mischief. M'Mahon, Col M'Brian, and Felim Roe's sons. [Extract.] July 25.

20. II. Dean of Armagh to Marshal Bagenall. Turlough Lynagh is ready with a host. Some think he comes upon the draught of Col M'Brian. [Extract.] July 25.

20. III. Turlough Lynagh to same. Has received the Deputy's letters by the Dean of Armagh. Desires he will not aid Turlough Braselagh against him. To have an answer returned in four hours. Latin.

Aug. 4. 21. Lord Deputy and Council to the Privy Council. Beseech
Dublin Castle. them to consider of the dangerous state of Ireland. If Her Majesty will have a further discharge, then must the defence of the land be committed to the only force and power thereof, i.e., the native Irish. The Earl of Clanrycard's service cannot be used for appeasing the stirs in Connaught, being accused of treason.

Aug. 4. 22. Lord Deputy Fytzwylliam to Burghley. Begs he will Dublin Castle. preserve him from beggary, and help him out of his office of Deputyship. Her Majesty's gracious care of him. Mr. White. As to selling some parcels of land to Mr. Wingfeld. The three German Earls have arrived with Mr. Rogers their conductor. "According to your Lordship's direction they shall travell as litle waye into the Cuntrey as I can." Wishes him joy of his most honourable white staff. A Treasurer to be speedily sent.

Aug. [5]. 23. The Queen to Lord Deputy. Marvels at the stirs. Thinks the [Eston.] 800 soldiers demanded unnecessary. Smith's band now coming over to the Arde will be some help. He was ready in May with 800 men, but was stayed, on account of Deputy's letters against his enterprise. Quarrel with the President of Connaught, and proceedings against the Earl of Clanrycard much disliked.

36. Letter of occurrences of news, addressed to the Lord Deputy. The writer will send a discourse of all the murders in France, being one of the most horrible things that ever chanced since the world's beginning. Sends the King's edict, published after the said murder. The King hath "shewed" himself very double in his proceedings after the murder, to the intent the "Huguenottes" might not escape, but be every one slain. Extreme necessity of those that are fled, as the Vidame of Chartres, Montgomery, &c. Above 100,000 slain. The King has sent to the "Switzers" for 9,000 of their footmen, but they of Berne do hinder the rest. The Admiral's body was taken from the gallows, and the Queen-mother's picture was hanged instead thereof; the Papists say it could not be done without consent of the Duke Montmorency. "Seing ther is no man who with a good conscience can live ther, my Lord Ambassador, Mr. Walsyngham, shall retourn, and Mr. Carie, in whom is thought not to be so moche religion, shall goo in his place." Affairs of Spain, Portugal, Germany, Poland, Denmark, and the Low Countries. Certain have been arraigned here [in England] for the last conspiracy of the Duke of Norfolk, as Wilkinson and Sir Henry Percy. The Earl of Derby died the 26th of October. The Earl of Huntingdon is sent to the north. Sends a copy of the certain order taken in Scotland for the rooting forth of Papists. There is a messenger come from the Prince of Orange to solicit the Queen for aid.

June 10 and 26. 54. Memorandum of money paid for Irish causes by Sir William Damsell.

June 28. 55. E. Tremayne to Burghley. His tedious passage. Commends Captain Bassenet. Speech of the Earl of Essex's coming spread abroad. The Earl of Essex to report that his coming is disappointed or put off.

June 28. 56. Captain William Pers to same. The force of the rebel continually increases. Scots daily come over. If Essex will accept Pers's good advice he will find it profitable.

June 28 or 29. 57. The Queen to Sir E. Fyton. Very sorry to understand of such disorders in the Council. Esteems the stay of the fiant was made of zeal to justice, and not of pride, malice, or stubbornness. Would have Fyton repute it praise and honour to have suffered trouble for doing Her Majesty good service. To take his room and place as before these troubles.

June 29. 58. The Queen to the Lord Deputy and Council. Mislikes that the Deputy should be so hasty to give so general a pardon upon the slaying of a gentleman. The pardon such a one as we ourselves would be afraid to grant, lest the blood of man slain should cry vengeance upon the realm. The Council charged with being but the hands and applauders of the Deputy. Fyton only, a true Councillor. Nicholas White. Earl of Kildare. Sir Barnaby Fitzpatrick. Leix and Offaley. Galin. [Minute.]

June [29.] 59. Fair copy of the above.

June 29. 60. Sir Edward Fyton to Secretary Sir T. Smith. Inducements for Essex to proceed. Mr. Smith and all Englishmen have hard hap. Leix. Old Henry Colley was here yesterday to crave a hundred men for defence of Offaley, and knew not which way to go safely home.

June 30. 61. Lord Deputy Fytzwylliam to Burghley. Fears disadvantage to the service if it should be deferred till Tremayne's return. Rory Oge. Earl of Ormond and his brethren. Essex. ## VOL. XLIII. 1573. DECEMBER.

- Dec. 1. 1. Thomas Wilsford to Burghley. Ulster enraged with the fury Knockfergus. of desperation. They suppose the war is taken in hand by the Earl of Essex, and not by the Queen. Our countrymen, through the long peace, in the fat, delicate soil of England, have lost the minds of soldiers. The Irish have learned the use of weapons, places of strength, &c. Device for Her Majesty to plant the Ardes.
Essex will go through with his enterprise if it cost him his earldom.
- Dec. 2. 2. Earl of Essex to same. Rejoices that the revolt of these rebels Carrickfergus. does not make his Lordship mislike the enterprise. A gentleman brings word from O'Donnell that the Irish Lords will not be persuaded that this war is the Queen's. Essex desires to surrender the grant which he has of the moiety of the country, and to undertake as a private adventurer. The Lord Deputy to follow the war in Her Majesty's name. The bearer, John Norreys, commended.
- Dec. 2. 3. Instructions given by the Earl of Essex to Mr. John Norreys and Edward Waterhous as to the matters to be solicited at Court.
- Dec. 2. Earl of Essex to the Privy Council. Builds a fort near Belfast.
Carrickfergus. The Irish expected Essex would return to England, and leave the government of the country to Sir Brian M'Felim. Causes of suspicion against Captain Pers. Owen M'Toole Ogaloor [O'Gallagher?]
declareth that O'Donnell will be content with less than he de-mandeth. O'Cahan offers his service against Turlough Lynagh.
[See 1574, Nov. 24.]
- Dec. 2. 4. Andrew Skyddye to Burghley. Escape of the Earl of Cork. Desmond. Taking of the Queen's Castles of Kenry and Ballymartyr. Her Majesty not to suffer her regal authority to be set at naught by licentious liberty.
- Dec. 3. 5. Nicholas Walshe to same. Zeal of the bearer, Mr. Longe.
Cork. Castlemange taken by treason. Desmond keeps a brother to John Harbert and others of the ward prisoners. He is combined with the Lords of Connaught and Thomond. A Scot, who has changed his Scottish attire for Irish, has promised Desmond 500 Scots.
James Fitzmaurice. The old Bishop of Limerick. Edmund Fitz
David. Thomas of Desmond spoiled. His wife and son prisoners.
Earl of Clancarr. Lord Barry, Sir Cormac M'Teig. O'Keefe spoiled. M'Donough. Nicholas Roche, a servant to the Earl of Desmond.
- Dec. 5. 6. Lord Deputy and Council to the Privy Council. The Earl of Castle Jordan. Desmond's letters to the Lord Deputy rash and untrue. They use him mildly till they may have a sufficient force. The President of Munster, with men, money, and a victualler, to be sent. The commission to the Earl of Essex for government in Ulster and restraint of transportation of corn. O'Conors. Captains Fyrris and Deering.
Two hundred kerne hired under Feagh M'Hugh O'Byrne. Preparations against Desmond. Inclose,

VOL. XLIII.

6. I. Earl of Desmond to the Lord Deputy and Council. Complains that he had no favour or liberty shown him. Eight months long enough to determine his causes. His country has been barely fleeced in his absence. Disorders by Edmund Fitzdavy.

Nov. 25, Ballyallyne.

6. II. Lord Deputy and Council to Earl of Desmond. Untruth of his assertions. Caution him not to incur the Queen's indignation.

Nov. 28, Kilkenny.

6. III. Justice Nicholas Walshe to the Lord Deputy. Earl of Desmond met at Knockdalton by Rory Oge and Piers Grace. The Earl and Countess put on Irish raiment at Loughgur, and make a proclamation. The castles already taken by Desmond's dependants.

Nov. 24, Castellyehan.

6. IV. John Thickpenny to the Lord Deputy. The messenger that carried former letters spoiled. Provisions. No man may pass by land to Cork. Youghal like to be in great danger by the Earl of Desmond. Fears Castle Maine will be taken. A wonderful treason practised in Connaught.

Nov. 27, Youghal.

6. V. William Casey, Bishop of Limerick, to the Lord Deputy. James Fitzmaurice has written out of Thomond for protection. He has passed the Shannon with 200 fighting men, and doth cress and disperse them abroad in the country. His fable as to an invasion intended by Sir Edmund Butler. Excuse for not meeting him at Cashel.

Nov. 18, Limerick.

6. VI. David Meagh, Sovereign of Kilmallock, and others to the Lord Deputy. James Fitzmaurice, with his men, camped about their town, and took a prey in their neighbourhood. Soldiers in Castleton, in Kerry, all taken captive by Edmund Fitzdavid, of Ballygellahan. Pray for succour.

Nov. 23, Kilmallock.

6. VII. Lord Deputy and Council to the Earl of Desmond. His escape being but a finable contempt, they counsel him not to ingrieve his own cause. Charge him to forbear making assemblies, in themselves utterly unlawful, and also dangerous to the common tranquillity. To forbear taking forts and castles.

Dec. 3, Castle Carbury.

Dec. 5. Castle Jordan. 7. Lord Deputy to Burghley. The present danger must be carefully provided for. The President of Munster to be speedily sent over. Deputy is going into Westmeath, the Annaley, and Brenny. His intention to call a meeting of all the Council at Dublin about Dec. 20, to choose some fit man to send to Munster, since Mr. Treasurer and the Master of the Rolls have refused to go. Incloses,

7. v. John Thickpenny to the Lord Deputy. Nov. 27.7. vi. Lord Deputy and Council to the Earl of Desmond. Dec. 3.

Dec. 5. 8. Lord Deputy Fytzwylliam to Burghley. The Auditor requires Teag Croghon. Sir Henry Radecliff and Sir Humfrey Gylberte to send letters of attorney to some one to reckon for them.

Dec. 8. 9. Captain Nicholas Malbie to same. Is assured that by Burghley's Carrickfergus. taking this honourable enterprise in hand it will take effect. Essex praised for godliness, courage, discretion, courtesy, and discipline.
Many sick, and some dead. A new supply.

Dec. 9. 10. Earl of Essex to same. Captain Pers is committed, and Carrickfergus. restrained of all company saving his keeper. Essex has consented to give him good countenance, and suffer him to deal with the rebel. The coming in of the rebel will be the speedy overthrow of the Scots. Pers has made the Queen spend 20,000*l*. He hath dealt falsely with every Governor. Incloses,

10. i. Testimony of Morgan and Carleton against Captain Pers.
Relate their interview with him. His plot to ease all Essex's griefs. To be made Seneschal over the county of Claneboy. The Earl to seem to have a dislike to Captain Malbie.

Dec. 8, Carrickfergus.

Dec. 11. 11. Earl of Essex to the Privy Council. Exculpates Captain Knockfergus. Burrowes of the complaints against him by gentlemen of Devon.
It grieves Essex that England should breed so weak-hearted men as those sent from Devon and Somerset.

Dec. 12. 12. H. Magneisse [Magennis] to the Earl of Essex. Sir Brian Rahtfrellan. M'Felim, O'Hanlon, and others write to him daily that his lands are given away as their lands. Beseeches Essex to write to the Queen, that he may have his lands at Her Majesty's hands. Offers of service. Desires 300 footmen and 100 horse. Could not answer Essex the cess he wrote for, because the Lord Deputy has just taken one.

Dec. 12. 13. Sir Edward Fyton to Burghley. His travel into Kilkenny with the Lord Deputy. Sir Edmund Butler ordered to put in pledge for to answer injuries. The Viscount Decies in Munster appears to
